U. S. EDICT: REHIRE STRIKERS

FIRESIDE CHAT BARES FEAR OF WILD INFLATION

Roosevelt May Need Dictator's Power.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 14.—[Special.]—Events of the last few days indicate pretty conclusively that it is apprehension of a runaway inflation to which President Roosevelt referred in his fireside chat last Tuesday when he said that "the dangers of 1929 are again becoming possible," not immediately but "within a year or two."

This revelation has given a new turn to the controversy engendered by Mr. Roosevelt's project to pack the Supreme court with New Dealers to obtain validation of New Deal legislation.

Blame Danger on New Deal.

The President says this impending crisis can be averted only by legislation providing "economic freedom" for farmers, working men, and small tradesmen. An amendment of the constitution to validate such legislation could not be obtained in time to avert the crisis, according to the President. Therefore, the only alternative is to pack the court sufficiently to obtain a decision upholding the constitutionality of the legislation.

On the other hand the opposition contends that the dangers of a runaway inflation have been produced not by any decision of the Supreme court but by the fiscal policies of the administration and will not be abated by any reversal of the Supreme court's interpretation of the constitution. Only a radical reversal of policy in the direction of balancing of the budget and checking price increases will avert disastrous inflation, according to the opposition.

Insists He's Preparing an Alibi.

Some of the critics of the President assert the belief that he is deliberately preparing an alibi for a runaway inflation; that when it materializes he will say it could have been averted if he had been granted control of the Supreme court.

The concern of the administration with such symptoms of increasing inflation as the rapid rise of raw materials markets was evidenced by the conference Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the federal reserve board, had with the President on Thursday to consider possible checks on apparent tendencies.

Friday another symptom developed in the drop of government bond prices. This was followed yesterday by a confab of treasury and federal reserve officials, the outcome of which was the decision to buy government securities in such amounts as may be necessary to check any marked decline in bond prices.

Speculative Boom Expected.

The current upturn in commodity prices is being promoted by higher wages and shorter hours of labor which increase production costs and hence prices by the demands for materials for rearmament and by expansion of business activity. There would be no occasion for alarm if production were keeping abreast of the demand for goods and if price advances were moderate and well balanced.

Because, however, of the huge volume of dormant bank deposits available for use and of the encouragement given to speculation by low interest rates, brought about by artificial means, there is serious danger of a speculative boom developing.

The federal reserve, by raising member bank reserve requirements, has eliminated or is in process of eliminating most of the excess reserves that constitute a basis for a potential inflationary credit expansion. But there still remains the threat inherent in the already inflated bank deposits created by the methods employed to finance federal deficits.

U. S. Securities Peril Banks.

The situation puts the fiscal statesmanship of the administration to the test. The checking of the inflationary tendency requires a reversal of the easy money policy adopted to facilitate deficit financing. Whether the administration will take the step or, if so, proceed with the care essential to avoidance of sharp breaks in government bond prices are vital considerations.

The need of caution is accentuated by the fact that member banks of the reserve system are heavily load-

MUSSOLINI BIDS FOR ARABS; BLOW AT BRITAIN SEEN

Aims to Make Italy Big Moslem Power.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CYRENE, Libya [By Air Mail to Rome], March 14.—Premier Mussolini's tour of Libya, which commenced yesterday at Tobruk, today definitly took on the form of an audacious bid on the part of Fascist Italy to win the confidence of restive Arab nationalist groups in the Mediterranean basin. The Arabs are trying to shake off French and British domination, and Italy seeks to supplant Great Britain as the world's greatest Moslem power.

Premier Mussolini.

This is the real story back of Il Duce's tour and not glorification, for home consumption, of Fascism's colonial achievements or the formidable naval, military, and air base menacing Britain's Mediterranean communications which Il Duce's lieutenant, Marshal Italo Balbo, governor of Libya, has created here.

Threat to British Domination.

While Mussolini is seeking to avoid any gesture which could be presented to British opinion in the light of provocation or infringement of diplomatic courtesy, there can be no doubt that his grip on Libya and high powered propaganda, which accompanies it, are a more serious threat to Britain's historic domination of the near east than the conquest of Ethiopia or even Balbo's air bases.

Many features of Fascism's appeal to the Arab world are so subtle that it is difficult to bring out their importance in a news cable, but there is no mistaking the sensational import of the propaganda pamphlet on Italy's Islamic policy. This pamphlet is especially edited in French for the benefit of Egyptian, Syrian and Tunisian correspondents who are following the tour as guests of the Italian government. It was issued to them this morning.

Stresses Italy's Friendliness.

Comparing Italy's friendly attitude toward the Moslem world with that of other colonial powers the booklet says in part:

"In Algeria there were rebellions and violences which culminated in the assassination of the mufti of Algiers and an attack on the mufti of Constantine.

"In Morocco and Tunis there is political agitation of all kinds from nationalism to bolshevism.

"In Syria a series of internal and international problems renders difficult the transformation from a mandate status to autonomy.

"In the middle Euphrates there was the bloody overthrow of the Bagdad government which England made the

Seven Drown as Auto Goes Into a River

Oshkosh, Wis., March 14.—[Special.]—Seven members of one family were drowned tonight when an automobile plunged into the Wolf river at Shiocton, Wis.

The car broke through 18 inches of ice and settled down in 8 feet of water before the eyes of S. A. Patrick of Lena, Wis., who was driving a few feet behind. Patrick summoned Sherif John Lapen of Outagamie county from Appleton and the submerged car was dragged from the river with trucks.

Infant Among Victims.

The dead are: Clarence Nichols, 35, Oshkosh automobile parts dealer; his wife, Cora, 32; and their five children, Gilbert, 9; Elmer, 7; Selby, 4, Joan, 2, and Melvin, 8 months old.

The cause of the accident was unknown. The car was on the approach to a bridge, but there was no curve in the approach, and Patrick said the automobile had suddenly plunged off at a right angle and headed for the river.

Die on Return Journey.

Shiocton is 50 miles northwest of Oshkosh. The Nichols family went there early this morning for a visit with Mrs. Nichols' parents. Their car plunged into the river a few minutes after they had begun the return trip.

When Sherif Lapen got the car out of the river with the aid of Sherif Paul Neubauer of Winnebago county, one of the doors was open and the windshield had been smashed, in what the authorities believe may have been a desperate attempt of the victims to free themselves.

As the car was completely submerged, discovery of the fate of the victims might have been long delayed had not the other motorist been following behind. The car was taken from the river by the glare of flashlights and flares.

Conant, Head of Harvard, Opposes Court Expansion

Cambridge, Mass., March 14.—(AP)—President James Bryant Conant of Harvard university tonight called proposed methods for changing the Supreme court "dangerous in the extreme." In an open letter to Senators David I. Walsh and Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. of Massachusetts, the Harvard president asserted "If the Supreme court is altered without seeking the opinion of the people, I do not believe the alteration will be 'satisfactory to the conscience of the community.' Unless this national conscience is satisfied I fear the gravest consequences."

FIREMEN SINGING LAST OF HOME, SWEET HOME AS SERGEANT RETURNS

Sergt. William Hoban of Town Hall police was off duty, out walking his dog, when the fire trucks began bong-bonging past yesterday. Even though he had insurance, and his family was out of town, he wouldn't have wanted it to be his place. Insurance couldn't replace his golf clubs, or the indoor baseball suit that fitted so well.

He was thinking of that when he strolled back to the 48 apartment building in which he lived at 1307 Addison street. There stood the fire trucks. He chatted with firemen outside, waiting for those inside to come out and report. He was still chatting when he heard them say:

"Just one apartment, but it's a total loss inside. Must be $3,000. Whose was it? Let's see, William Hoban's, it said on the mailbox."

OAK PARKERS BUY EX-POSTOFFICE; FARLEY HANGS ON

When Postmaster General Farley sells a postoffice building, Oak Park learned yesterday, he doesn't sell the right to put anti-New Deal posters on its walls.

Oak Park's postoffice was recently sold for $69,000. The buyers made the $5,000 down payment asked by the government, and prepared to pay the rest. As they were friendly to James A. Howe, village president, they allowed members of his Home Rule party to post signs on the building, advertising Howe's candidacy for reëlection April 6.

Saturday the posters were forcibly removed, it was learned yesterday, by Postmaster Joseph L. Lynch, aided by Abraham Brivot, assistant postmaster, and janitors from the new postoffice. They are understood to have received their orders after Farley was notified by William P. Churchill, Democratic committeeman in Oak Park and sponsor of the rival village ticket.

PARKS PREPARE SHAMROCKS FOR ANNUAL VISITS

The Chicago park conservatories are preparing for the annual visitation next Wednesday of those who believe that a glimpse of the shamrock on St. Patrick's day brings them good luck. To rule out the annual dispute as to whether a tiny clover [trifolium repens] or the wood sorrel [oxalis] is the true shamrock, special displays of both are being arranged. Both are low growing plants with a three foiled leaf.

City's Tiniest Baby Lives and Laughs at Life

BY MARCIA WINN.

Unlike New York's smallest baby, 15½ ounces at birth, who died Saturday, Jacqueline Jean Benson, 5914 Dakin street, has disproved the ancient theory of survival of the fittest.

Jacqueline was 14 months old yesterday. She weighs 18 pounds and makes strong efforts both to walk and to talk. But when born, three months prematurely, she weighed 12 ounces. Her head was the size of a golf ball and she could be cupped in the palm of a hand. Physicians called her the world's tiniest baby—and no one thought she would live.

Has Perfect Manners.

But she did live and her weight is now normal. Her physique is perfect, and so, contend her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Benson, are her manners. She sleeps—other parents please copy—from 6 p. m. to 6 a. m. without a whimper, and has never suffered a day's sickness. She has not even had a cold.

"We're still waiting for her to get sick," her father gloated. "We wouldn't know what to do."

"She laughs so much, though," her mother interpolated, "that you'd think she'd laugh herself sick."

"The only thing wrong," her father lamented, "is that she hasn't cut any teeth yet, doggone it, and I want to see her chew on some real food."

In Incubator 4½ Months.

Jacqueline, who has big brown eyes, with long curly lashes, was born in St. Anne's hospital. Dr. Edward P. King placed her immediately in an incubator—and kept her there for 4½ months, until she weighed seven and a half pounds.

From the start, she was given oxygen. She was fed mother's milk through a rubber tube to her stomach, and later was fed with an eye dropper. In two months she gained 31½ ounces. But now she has 32 ounces of milk daily, in addition to orange juice, prepared cereal, and purée of vegetables.

Dives for Sponges; Finds Submarine Sunk in War

[Copyright: 1937: By the New York Times.]

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, March 14.—A sponge diver reported today to authorities at Sebanico that while diving near the Island of Lissa he discovered at a depth of 90 feet the wreckage of a submarine, half buried in mud and overgrown with seaweed. The craft was believed to be one of those sunk in the world war in a battle off the Jugo-Slav coast.

Queen Marie of Rumania Seriously Ill

BUCHAREST, Rumania, March 15.—[Monday.]—(AP)—Dowager Queen Marie of Rumania was reported early today by a member of the royal household to be in a serious condition and partially paralyzed.

King Peter of Jugo-Slavia, also ill with flu.

The court official said her illness started with an attack of influenza which had become complicated by intestinal inflammation.

Two physicians were in constant attendance on the dowager queen, mother of King Carol II., and a Vienna specialist on ailments of the alimentary tract prepared to fly to Bucharest at dawn.

King Carol at Bedside.

King Carol and Queen Mother Marie of Jugo-Slavia, daughter of the ill queen, who is in her 62d year, were at her bedside most of the time, the court official said.

He said her illness was accompanied by a high fever, "somewhat over 100 degrees."

Her daughter, Queen Mother Marie of Jugo-Slavia, who was nursing her son, King Peter, for influenza, immediately came from Belgrade. She was able to leave her son to comfort her mother, the court official said, because the boy king of Jugo-Slavia is recovering from his illness.

Believe She Was Poisoned.

[Copyright: 1937: By the New York Times.]

VIENNA, March 14.—Without one in a hundred Rumanians having the faintest inkling of the situation, Dowager Queen Marie of Rumania has been lying dangerously ill since Friday as the result of what is reported here as poisoning.

It is a strange coincidence that the marshal of the royal court, Udarenu, was taken ill at the same time with similar symptoms. His illness was announced as "irritation of the appendix."

Concerning Marie's illness a strict secrecy was and is still preserved. A political crime is suspected.

The cabinet is in semi-permanent session. Throughout the country the police have been ordered to stand by and troops are being held in readiness for any eventuality.

VISIT HERE RECALLED.

Marie, as queen of Rumania, was a guest of Chicago for exactly 91 hours in November, 1926. She was fêted royally.

In the brief time she was here the queen visited Lincoln's monument, the Historical society, Art institute, Field museum, Hull house, Juvenile Detention home, Fresh Air sanitarium, the Lying-In hospital, the Hyde Park Y. M. C. A., and a private art exhibit. She attended three luncheons, two dinners, a supper party and many teas in her honor, besides going shopping and attending a mammoth reception in her honor at the Congress hotel.

RAND COMPANY IS DENOUNCED BY LABOR BOARD

Court May Rule on Wagner Act Today.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 14.—[Special.]—On the eve of the session of the Supreme court tomorrow at which the constitutionality of the Wagner labor relations act may be decided the national labor relations board promulgated today a sweeping and bitterly phrased decision ordering Remington-Rand, Inc., to reinstate 4,000 employés in the jobs they held prior to the strike last year.

James H. Rand Jr.

The action of the labor board added to the "heat" that the Roosevelt administration is turning upon the big office equipment manufacturing company to compel surrender to its striking employés. Members of the board are J. Warren Madden, Clarendon, Va., chairman; Edwin S. Smith, Alexandria, Va., and Donald Wakefield Smith, Washington, D. C.

Miss Perkins Takes Warpath.

Secretary of Labor Perkins came to the aid of the strikers a few days ago when she made public a letter she had sent to James H. Rand Jr., president of the company, summoning him to appear before her next Thursday to discuss negotiations with his striking employés. She received a reply on behalf of Mr. Rand that he would appear at the appointed time. The reply also stated that the company is operating its plants 100 per cent as the result of collective bargaining with its employés.

Immediately after Miss Perkins took the warpath John P. Frey, president of the metal trades department of the American Federation of Labor, joined the campaign against Remington-Rand with a protest against the social security board's award of a $57,500 contract to the company for the photographing of old age pension and unemployment insurance records. Mr. Frey based his protest on the alleged antagonism of the company to union labor. Arthur J. Altmeyer, chairman of the social security board, immediately announced a reconsideration of the award.

Ordered to Pay Expenses.

The labor relations board ordered the Remington-Rand company to pay transportation expenses of those employés required to accept reinstatement in plants of the company in other towns because of the company's moving of some plants or department operations "as a part of its anti-strike campaign." Further, the company was ordered to bargain collectively with the joint protective board of the district council office equipment workers as the exclusive agent of the production and maintenance employés of six plants in New York, Connecticut, and Ohio.

The labor board's decision said the case provides a "deeper insight into the mechanics of strike breaking" and described what it termed the "ruthless methods" to break the strike of some 6,000 workers, a strike that was marked by extreme bitterness and violence.

Board Uses Strong Language.

Strong language marked the board's 100 page decision throughout. It said:

"From the thousands of pages of testimony in this proceeding there may be distilled two very plain facts: The unwavering refusal of the respondent [Remington-Rand] to bargain collectively with its employés and the cold, deliberate ruthlessness with which it fought the strike which its refusal to bargain had precipitated."

The board said that if the provisions of the Wagner labor relations act "ever required justification one need go no further than the facts in this case.

"Over 6,000 employés with their families and dependents are subjected to the miseries of a prolonged strike, the people of six communities experience the economic hardships that inevitably result when an accustomed source of income is suddenly withdrawn; these same communities are turned into warring camps and unreasoning hatreds are created that lead to abuses alien to a sane civilization—all because the respondent refused to recognize the rights of 6,000 employés. . . .

"In the language of the average person, the respondent, through Rand, its president, has exhibited a callous, imperturbable disregard of the rights of its employés that is medieval in its assumption of power over the lives of men and shocking in its concept of the status of the modern industrial worker.

"Spies were planted in the various towns. The company attempted to bribe union leaders and to influence public officials. Scenes of disorder and violence, to be described to the public as riots, were staged so that they could serve as the basis for injunctions, requests for police protection, and 'law and order' tirades in the press.

Calls Mediation Failure.

"In the planning of these disorders the respondent exhibited the small value it placed on human life, for with evenhandedness it stood willing to sacrifice the lives of the men whom it hired to break the strike as well as those of the strikers."

The board also said the efforts of government mediators were "predestined to failure," because of that "unyielding resolve to fight the strike rather than to compromise ever so little through the concession of a conference."

Neither officials of unions involved nor legal counsel for Remington-Rand, Inc., expressed surprise at the tenor of the board's decision. Union officials said the decision is "just what we expected."

Vernon Crofoot, president of the Remington-Rand joint protective board, said the strikers would wait for the Supreme court decision on the constitutionality of the Wagner law, and, more particularly, for President Rand to confer in Washington Thursday with Secretary of Labor Perkins.

Will Wait for Court Decision.

"We won't make a move until we learn what the attitude of Rand is going to be," Crofoot said. "If he is ready to talk business, then we'll probably go to Washington, to be there for the conference.

"It rests now with the Supreme court. If the court declares the law unconstitutional it leaves us 'holding the bag,' of course. But still we will have public opinion with us, and that's what really counts."

Claire Bellows, president of the federal union at the Syracuse plant, said, "We expected that's the way it would be decided. . . . the company didn't have any defense."

Representatives of the company declined to comment.

Unusual interest attaches to the meeting of the Supreme court tomorrow because of the possibility that it will decide the cases involving the constitutionality of the Wagner act creating the labor relations board to regulate relations between employers and employés. Another decision which may be forthcoming involves the constitutionality of the Washington minimum wage law. Both decisions would have a bearing upon President Roosevelt's project to pack the Supreme court.

Roosevelt Loses Either Way.

If the Wagner act should be declared constitutional a good deal of the wind would be taken out of the President's contention that the court must be reorganized to obtain decisions favorable to the New Deal.

If it should be invalidated unanimously the President's thesis would be seriously damaged for it would appear that even with the addition of six New Dealers to the court, as Mr. Roosevelt's plan envisages, the body would remain 9 to 6 of the opinion that such enlargement of the federal power as the Wagner act involves is unconstitutional.

Invalidation of the act by a divided court undoubtedly would stir union labor to redouble demands for legislation to pack the tribunal.

The Wagner act was sponsored by union labor. Its provisions prohibit practices by employers detrimental to labor unions but not against practices by labor unions detrimental to employers.

HOGAN OFFERS TO DEAL WITH TAXI STRIKERS

More Cabs Out and More Violence on Ninth Day.

A proposal for taxicab strike negotiations was made to federal conciliators last night by Thomas B. Hogan, president of the Yellow Cab company. The proposal came on the ninth day of the strike—a day that saw more cabs on the street and also more violence in which two elderly drivers were the victims.

Mr. Hogan began by proposing that the strikers return to work. Then under an election supervised by Federal Conciliator John E. O'Connor, the men would elect two representatives from each of the company's ten garages, these twenty elected representatives to negotiate all wage and working agreements.

Checker Drivers Not Mentioned.

Under the Hogan plan, the question of whether men hired after the strike began would be eligible to vote would be up to Mr. O'Connor. No mention of striking Checker taxi drivers was made by Mr. Hogan.

The attitude of the drivers to the proposal could not be learned last night. Striking drivers of both companies are organized into locals of the Midwest Taxicab Drivers' union. They are represented by Joseph M. Jacobs, a labor lawyer.

Earlier in the day, Benjamin Samuels, vice president of the company, had refused again to negotiate with Jacobs unless, as he put it, Jacobs could prove he represented at least 50 per cent of the strikers.

Offers to Submit List.

Jacobs declared he was prepared to submit a list of signatures to the federal conciliators showing union membership, but that the company had stated such proof was not acceptable. Jacobs added that he had ample authority to represent the men.

While these bickerings and proposals were going on, more cabs and more sluggers roamed the streets. According to Yellow cab officials and Vice President George McDonald of the Checker company, service was sufficient for most needs.

Three Violence Victims.

Principal victims of the day's violence were William A. Brett, 60 years old, 2164 North Clark street, and Harry McGuinn, 61, of 2203 Lunt avenue, Yellow cab drivers, and Stanley Dermont, 23, of 722 West Cermak road, a laborer, who has no interest in the strike.

Brett was driving north in the outer drive when four men in a black sedan forced his cab off the drive at Foster avenue. The cab bounded over 200 feet of frozen ground, and came to a stop half submerged in the lake. Brett was knocked unconscious when his head struck the ceiling of the cab. He was taken to Edgewater hospital.

Try to Burn Cab.

McGuinn was driving Miss Margaret Eichler to her home at 2310 Arthur avenue last night when six men forced him to the curb in the 2200 block of Arthur avenue. Miss Eichler escaped injury. McGuinn was beaten. Then the sluggers poured gasoline over the cab and were about to set fire to it when they were frightened away by shouts of residents.

Dermont was driving with his sister, Bernice, and Charles Leopius when three men who he said wore Yellow cab caps, halted him at 31st street and Princeton avenue, dragged him from his car and beat him.

Strike sluggers used women to disarm suspicion last night. Two sluggers and two women hired the Yellow cab of John Anderson, 4314 North Central Park avenue, in the loop and directed him to 1425 Hudson avenue. There, less than a block from the Hudson avenue police station, the hoodlums dragged Anderson from his cab and beat him while their women companions looked on in amusement. Then all four drove away with the cab.

SENATOR TO SIFT RADIO'S PART IN COURT BATTLE

Washington, D. C., March 14.—[Special.]—The question of possible discrimination by the big broadcasting companies on the side of the President and his supporters entered the fight over the President's court reorganization plan today.

Senator W. H. King [D., Utah] plans to introduce a resolution in the senate calling for an investigation of the federal communications commission and the big broadcasting companies to find out to what extent, if any, the latter are under the domination of the administration, unless he finds the facts do not warant such a resolution. It is his own opinion that they do.

"If they are exercising this brutal power—if they really have this brutal power—in this fight, then it is time for some such investigation," Senator King said.

DETROIT STRIKE HYSTERIA TAKES TOWN'S BREATH

Pendulum Swings and a Fad Catches On.

Detroit, March 14.—[Special.]—Detroit, long the mecca of the industrial employer, finds itself bewildered today by such a firecracker string of sitdowns as probably no other city in the United States has experienced.

To some extent the situation undoubtedly is due to the swinging of the pendulum from long exercised and rigid employer domination to what amounts to disorganized labor control. To some extent also the hysterical spread of strikes is due to the good old American custom of taking up whatever happens to be the catch fad of the moment, like chain letters and knock-knocks.

A Good Town for Labor.

There is no question that Detroit, in its industrial epoch at least, has been an employers' town. There is equally no question that it has been a good town for labor. Because practically all Detroit's eggs are in one industrial basket, Detroit industry is the automotive industry. And the automotive industry has paid higher wages by wide margin, year in and year out, than the average of all other American industries combined.

There have been sporadic outbreaks of labor trouble, of course. There was a tool and diemakers strike in 1933. A mob of dole recepients marched on the city hall in 1931. There were automobile body and parts strikes also in 1933. There was a small race riot back in 1925, which many citizens laid at the door of Henry Ford because he, they said, had imported colored labor into Detroit from the south to keep down wage scales.

The Detroit churches took up the employers' side against the common man in 1926, when many of them refused to let labor leaders speak from their pulpits. The Y. M. C. A. took the same action. President William Green of the A. F. of L. refused to speak in Detroit after the churches, some of them, had rescinded their ban.

Largely Free from Riots.

But on the whole Detroit has been singularly free from outward demonstrations by worker against employer. The employer says it is because he pays well. Labor says it is because the workers haven't dared speak up in fear of employers' spies, black lists, and special police.

Some evidence on this point recently was offered before a United States senate subcommittee when documents were produced to show that General Motors had paid $839,764 to the Pinkerton agency for "detective operations" in its plants between Jan. 1 and July 31 of 1934 alone, and that the Chrysler corporation was an even heavier employer of private spies. Harry Bennett, an ex-navy pugilist, is head of the Ford "special service" department, and Detroit is full of stories tonight that every fourth man on the Ford assembly lines is one of Mr. Bennett's strong arm squad, ready and waiting for trouble.

While Ford always has maintained that he pays the highest wages of any automobile manufacturer in Detroit, his arbitrary method of management is illustrated by his action in closing his entire plant, throwing 220,000 men out of work for five days in 1922, because he considered the price of coal too high. There have been a number of shutdowns of Ford plants, some for long periods when models were changed, when little or nothing was done as a means of tiding his employés over. Ford's success in his attempts at employé subsistence farming was not marked.

The Labor Reaction.

Detroit's traditional labor reaction is well illustrated by the statement tonight of Harvey J. Campbell, executive vice president of the board of commerce.

"Workmen in this town are better off than they ever have been before," Campbell said. "This is a period of hysteria. An opportunist named Lewis, backed by the government, started this thing."

That labor's counteraction has swung the pendulum too far is unquestioned by the thinking citizenry, employers of all types, and even of responsible union men. The strikes are uncontroled. Their leaders, if any, often are irresponsible. Store clerks, hotel service employés, garage mechanics, and cigar makers have joined the auto workers in sitdowns, many of them without knowing what they want or why.

All appeal to the Committee for Industrial Organization for aid in organizing. John Lewis' vertical unionism has gone up to the stratosphere here. Because the C. I. O. in Michigan is the United Automobile Workers. What possible place Lewis can find in the automobile union for waitresses, elevator boys, scrubwomen, and five and dime store clerks remains to be seen.

Auto Union Lacks Control.

Even the automobile union can't control its workers. General Motors has complained bitterly at the continued outbreak after outbreak of sitdowns in its plants after the truce a month ago. Even the big tieup at Flint was prematurely started by the workers without a union call.

The Chrysler strike is on firmer ground. The automobile workers give good evidence of controling a large majority of Chrysler workers. They have demanded the right to bargain for all. Chrysler has refused. The union stands pat. If it demands an election it probably will get one. General Motors didn't. The union didn't have a majority of the workers there but was able to prevent a vote.

That the union has a big task ahead all labor authorities agree. It will have to organize these countless new workers into numerous new unions, many of them never contemplated in Lewis' fondest hopes. If they aren't organized, and organized speedily, they will get over it. Just as people quit "23-skiddoo" for "scram."

MURPHY WORKS ON HIS CURE FOR SITDOWN TIEUPS

Chrysler Waits Injunction Ruling Today.

BY WILLIAM O'NEIL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., March 14.—[Special.]—Gov. Frank Murphy worked most of today attempting to formulate his widely publicized "cure" for the sitdown strikes that have engulfed Detroit. Yesterday he appointed a commission of twenty members to study the problem.

The governor has indicated that he is developing a comprehensive program which may include new legislation or machinery for conciliation of labor disputes. His new commission includes Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers; Frank H. Bowen, regional director of the national labor relations board; Attorney General Raymond Starr, and James McEvoy, president of the Detroit board of commerce.

Briggs to Negotiate.

The Briggs Manufacturing company, maker of bodies for Chrysler and Ford, announced today that it will open negotiations tomorrow morning with the United Automobile Workers' union. The Briggs company stated in its announcement, however, that the union will not be recognized as the sole collective bargaining agency for all its employés.

Negotiations between Chrysler and the union, deadlocked over the sole collective bargaining issue, will be resumed tomorrow morning. At the same time Judge Allan Campbell in Circuit court is to rule on the Chrysler petition for an injunction that would order approximately 5,000 sitdown strikers out of eight Chrysler plants in this area.

Hit by Chrysler Tieup.

The Briggs company said that 17,000 of its 26,860 employés in five Detroit plants are out of work because of the Chrysler strike. The balance of the men are at work on orders for Ford. The Briggs pay roll totals 3½ millior dollars a month.

As the new automobile strikes approached a climax, the formal signing of the final settlement of General Motors strike issues neared completion.

Plant managers of General Motors met here to approve the document ratified early today.

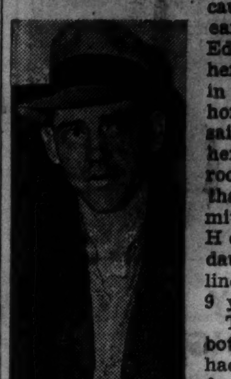
FATHER RESENTS OLD FRIEND'S COURTING OF DAUGHTER, 9; KILLS HIM

A blow from the fist of Andrew Hoagland, 555 North Waller avenue, caused the death early yesterday of Edward Kraftheffer, a roomer in the Hoagland home. Hoagland said he hit Kraftheffer because the roomer insisted that he be permitted to marry Hoagland's daughter, Caroline, who is only 9 years old.



Andrew Hoagland.

The two men, both 35 years old, had been friends for ten years and Kraftheffer had roomed in Hoagland's home for the last eighteen months. While drinking in a tavern Saturday night, Kraftheffer revealed his wish to marry Caroline. No quarrel took place then, according to Hoagland, and Kraftheffer preceded him home by several hours.

When Hoagland arrived at his house he awakened Kraftheffer and told him to leave. The latter departed peacefully, according to the stories told to Assistant State's Attorney Samuel Papanek, but he returned later and renewed his plea that he be permitted to marry the child. The fatal blow followed.

LUTHERANS JOIN BATTLE AGAINST NAZI DOMINATION

Aid Evangelical Church in Election Campaign.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 14.—Unity has been achieved in the ranks of the opponents of the Nazi German Christians through the action of the council of Lutheran churches of Bavaria, Hanover, Württemberg, and Baden in determining to make common cause with the Confessional [Evangelical] movement in Prussia.

The Rev. Martin Niemoeller.

The Prussian movement is headed by the Rev. Martin Niemoeller, militant Confessional synod pastor and submarine commander in the world war.

A joint working committee of opponents of the German Christians has been established to wage a fight in the forthcoming election ordered by Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler to select a new Evangelical synod.

Two Churches Suggested.

The Lutheran council agreed that it is no longer possible for Evangelical clergymen to work with the German Christians, who are regarded as adulterating the Christian doctrins with Nazi ideology. It was suggested that there must be henceforth two churches in Germany, one Evangelical and the other for German Christians. A portion of the resources of the Evangelical churches might be turned over to the German Christians to enable them to form a separate church.

German Christians have made no conditions for coöperating in the synod election. "What Der Fuehrer decides is good enough for us" is the attitude of their leaders.

The Rev. Mr. Koch, chairman of the fraternal council of the Confessional movement, this evening inducted the Rev. Mr. Stein as assistant pastor of the Dahlem church. [Dahlem is a suburb of Berlin.] Stein, along with the Rev. Mr. Mebus, recently was expelled by Nazi authorities from Bielefeld in Westphalia.

Pastor's Duties Outlined.

Koch in his sermon impressed upon Stein the necessity of fidelity to the Christian faith, declaring that there is no place for the "leadership principle" in the church.

Koch told Stein his duty was, first, to remain true to the demands of Jesus Christ; second, to proclaim the gospel and maintain the Augsburg confession of Martin Luther [a statement embodying Luther's views which was presented to the diet of Augsburg in 1530], not elevating any other doctrin to the same level; third, to abide by the church constitution; fourth, to be true to his country, and fifth, to show devotion to his duties as pastor.

RUMANIAN ARMY BACKS UP CHURCH FIGHT ON MASONS

BUCHAREST, March 14.—(AP)—Rumanian soldiers with fixed bayonets were posted in front of numerous Masonic lodges in Bucharest today while the government and the Rumanian Orthodox church joined forces to suppress Masonry.

The Orthodox synod, in an announcement which charged the Masonic order with "anti-Christian and anti-government activities," denied Christian burial and other church services to active Masons.

The government, which previously decreed dissolution of Masonic organizations, stationed troops in front of the lodges, which, however, indicated a determination to continue functioning. The Scottish Rite Masons of Rumania anticipated suppression by voluntary dissolution of their order Feb. 26. The French [Grand Orient] Masonic lodges, however, have continued their meetings.

MUSSOLINI BIDS FOR ARABS; BLOW AT BRITAIN SEEN

Aims to Make Italy Big Moslem Power.

"In Palestine there was the anti-Zionist and anti-English revolt which continues despite cruel repression.

"The only authentic basis for peace and tranquility in the Moslem part of the Mediterranean basin is Libya."

Perhaps even more significant is the discreet reference to Italy's sympathy for Arab nationalists in Syria and Palestine. It says:

"Where it is impossible for Italy to intervene directly as in Syria and Palestine, no Islamic movement ever had cause to complain of Italy's more than fair attitude."

Against this background, the welcome Mussolini got last night at Derna, the picturesque palm shaded port where in 1805 American marines put into practice the maxim "not one cent for tribute, but millions for defense," takes on a historic import.

Mussolini Gets New Title.

There, in the whitewashed mosque, the local caid [native commander] conferred on Il Duce a new title, "protector of the faith," the same title Kaiser Wilhelm II. conferred on himself in the days of the building of the Berlin-Bagdad railway, thereby providing one of the hottest prewar diplomatic controversies.

The caids in their addresses of welcome alluded indirectly to the services Italy rendered by freeing the Moslems of Ethiopia from the Coptic yolk and, as proof that Allah is protecting Italian arms, advanced what, to Arab mentality, is the most convincing of arguments—an Italian victory.

That Italy has succeeded in winning the loyalty of her own Moslem subjects to an unusually high degree was evident in the colorful ceremonies at Derna and even more so as Mussolini resumed his tour.

There was no mistaking the enthusiasm of those fezzed or turbaned native faces as they flung up their arms in the authentic Roman salute and howled their admiration of Mussolini in a mixture of Arabic and Italian while dancing through the streets dragging torches.

More than that, well drilled ranks of little brown balilas [the youngest group of Fascism], wearing red fezzes instead of black, showed that Fascism had been adapted to Arab use and transplanted successfully to Africa.

But more colorful, as well as more important, was the reaction of the nomad populations of the high plateau of Cyrenaica where civilization ends at the edge of Balbo's highway.

Motoring across the plateau, Mussolini saw encampment after encampment of Bedouins living in tents among flocks of sheep and camels.

On every goatskin nomad tent floated a tiny Italian tricolor. At every encampment Bedouins lined up cheering for Il Duce.

The success of Italy's Islamic policy seems to be due to cleverness in respecting religion and customs.

MUSSOLINI ELUDES MADDENED OX DURING PROCESSION IN LIBYA

BEGAZI, Libya, March 14.—(AP)—A maddened ox narrowly missed Premier Benito Mussolini with its horns today as it broke loose from its cart during a procession in the village of Luigi Razza.

A crowd of colonists, gathered to welcome Il Duce on his tour of Italy's North African dominions, was thrown into brief panic.

Officers leaped forward to protect the premier as the animal, breaking loose within 6 feet of Mussolini, rushed toward the crowd with lowered horns. Mussolini stepped back calmly and gave directions for subduing the animal, which finally was thrown.

Mussolini visited both Bengazi and Luigi Razza during the day, receiving a tremendous welcome from the 45,000 inhabitants of Bengazi, where Italians first landed in 1911 at the beginning of the Italo-Turkish war.

BLOCK JAPANESE DEAL TO GET AIR BASE OFF CHINA

Britain Intervenes; Too Close to Hongkong.

SHANGHAI, March 14.—(AP)—British financial circles asserted today that British intervention had blocked efforts of Japan to obtain an air base at Macao, Portuguese colony off the southeastern coast of China.

Arrow points to Macao, where Japan sought air base.

Macao lies only forty miles southwest of the British crown colony of Hongkong, and British authorities there disliked the prospect of Japan obtaining her long-desired aviation foothold in southeastern Asia.

Sought Long Term Lease.

Britishers who had part in blocking the Japanese plans reported that Japanese interests had tried to get a long term lease of a large tract of land at Macao for a landing field. They offered, these sources reported, a large rental, which the Macao administration, badly needing funds for public works, was disposed to accept.

The Hongkong government, however, learning of this situation, quickly offered the Portuguese, through the British Hongkong and Shanghai Banking corporation, the needed funds on easy terms. The Portuguese accepted.

Japan's search for an air base in southeastern Asia was continuing, said British circles at Hongkong. The Chinese and British alike thus far have succeeded in frustrating it.

Tries to Build Air Lines.

Japanese aviation interests, closely allied with the government, have been considering plans for the last two years for air lines linking Japan with her neighbors, especially the Philippines, Malaya, and the Dutch East Indies. Such service would require a landing point in the region of Hongkong.

Thus far Japan has been able to extend her southern air routes only as far as her own colony of Formosa.

Elaine Barrie Still Loves Barrymore; Halts Divorce

Los Angeles, Cal., March 14.—[Special.]—Elaine Barrie, estranged wife of John Barrymore, has postponed indefinitly her divorce proceedings against the actor, according to close friends. When asked if she still was fond of Barrymore the actress is said to have replied: "Fond of him? I'm in love with him." The divorce hearing had been set for next Wednesday.

N. LANDON HOYT AND LIBRARIAN WED IN ST. LOUIS

Word was received here yesterday of the marriage in St. Louis city hall on Feb. 13 of N. Landon Hoyt, elderly Winnetka widower, and Miss Marianne Van Guest, 30 years old, a St. Louis librarian.

Mr. Hoyt's son, William M. Hoyt II., 490 Cherry street, Winnetka, confirmed the marriage, but said he had not met the bride. Immediately after the ceremony the couple left for a six week trip through England. They will live in Chicago.

Son of a Chicago pioneer who came west in 1855 and set up a grocery, Mr. Hoyt is head of the Hoyt company, food brokers, at 35 East Wacker drive. His wife, Mrs. Blanche Tompkins Hoyt, died in 1934 at the age of 64. He has two sons, William M. and N. Landon Jr.

BLAME PARK PEG LEVY'S WOES ON HORNER GRUDGE

Hostility to Dunham Seen in Slash Threat.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Gov. Horner's apparent readiness to slash important work of the Chicago park district $2,000,000 a year was ascribed yesterday by politicians familiar with the inside story of the last fifteen months to the governor's personal hostility toward Robert J. Dunham, park district president.

The district's bill to extend its 1935 and 1936 peg levy of $9,000,000 is at the amending stage in the house of representatives. It was passed by the senate on Feb. 10 and has been delayed in the house since that time. Last week when Speaker Louie E. Lewis refused to allow the measure to be called up, it was said authoritatively he was acting under order from Gov. Horner. It also was reported that the governor told house leaders he would not "stand for" a peg levy of more than $7,000,000.

Relief Quarrel Bobs Up.

Heretofore the general political opinion has been that this antagonism on the part of the governor was directed at Mayor Kelly, who vigorously opposed his renomination last year; but insiders say that the animus is directed chiefly at Dunham because of his firm stand against the governor in relief matters late in 1935 and early in 1936.

Dunham, at the governor's solicitation, became chairman of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission in September, 1933. On May 30, 1935, he was appointed state director for the Works Progress administration and resigned as chairman of the relief commission, but remained a member in order that the work of the commission and the WPA might be coördinated.

Sought Special Session.

With the arrival of the winter of 1935-'36 Dunham led the commission first in recommending and later in demanding that Horner call the second special session of the assembly that year to provide $3,000,000 a month in additional funds required for relief. He also supported the proposal that $10,000,000 from the state's general revenue fund be appropriated for that purpose.

After Gov. Horner had obtained support of five of nine commission members to a statement that federal aid was adequate for the situation Dunham on Jan. 6 attack this position and by a vote of 5 to 4 the commission refused to concur in the statement. On that same day the governor succumbed to the pressure on him and issued the call for the second special session. Eventually, also, he yielded on the $10,000,000 appropriation.

The result was manifest about a month later when the governor sent Dunham a summary written demand for his resignation from the commission.

Grudge Kept After Primary.

By this time the Democratic state primary campaign had begun to take shape. Dunham lined up with Mayor Kelly in opposing Horner. After Horner had won, Kelly and Horner shook hands publicly, but the gubernatorial forgiveness did not include Dunham.

Twice last week Dunham called on Gov. Horner to discuss the minutely detailed exhibits presented in response to the governor's request for figures justifying the $9,000,000 peg levy proposal. In each instance Dunham told reporters as he departed the governor said he had not had time to look at the figures.

150 TORTURED GIRLS MAY BLOCK NEW TRIAL FOR 'LUCKY' LUCIANO

New York, March 14.—[Special.]—Proof that 150 girls were subjected to torture threats and plied with whisky and narcotics by underworld agents on the very day they were released as material witnesses against Charles "Lucky" Luciano, convicted vice syndicate head, was being assembled today at Special Prosecutor Thomas E. Dewey's office.

It is upon affidavits from these girls that Dewey will rely in his forthcoming court battle to block a new trial for Luciano on the vice charges for which he was sentenced to fifty years in prison last July.

Although Luciano's attorney will ask Justice Philip J. McCook for a new trial Tuesday, it is unlikely the appeal will be argued until April. Dewey is expected to ask for a postponement until he and his lieutenants are finished with the restaurant racket trial.

NEW DESTROYER FOR U. S. NAVY TAKES TO WATER

Washington, D. C., March 14.—[Special.]—Naval officials today added a new name to the navy's list of fighting ships—the U. S. S. Somers, 1,850 ton destroyer leader, which slid down the ways of the Federal Shipbuilding and Drydock company at Kearny, N. J., Saturday.

The Somers, third destroyer named after Lieut. Richard Somers, 19th century naval hero, figures as a unit of the navy's rearmament. Seventy-six new ships are to be built. Construction will be in charge of Rear Admiral William G. Du Bose, recently elevated from the rank of captain.

Progress of the navy's huge building program was delayed at the start of the year by a shortage of steel. Other delays also occurred, and yesterday the navy announced it was holding up bids for two new 35,000 ton battleships, costing $60,000,000 each, until June.

251 CANDIDATES GET DEGREES AT U. OF C. TOMORROW

Dr. Hutchins' Father Gives Convocation Sermon.

Dr. William J. Hutchins, president of Berea college in Kentucky and father of Dr. Robert M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, was convocation preacher at the University chapel yesterday before the 251 candidates for degrees to be conferred at 3 p. m. tomorrow at the Midway.

Dr. William Hutchins.

At the convocation tomorrow Dr. John A. Wilson, director of Oriental institute, will be orator. His subject will be "Exploring Civilization."

President Hutchins will confer eighty-one bachelors' degrees and an equal number of degrees of doctor of medicine. Forty-one will be granted masters' degrees, thirty-three will receive doctorates in philosophy; thirteen, doctorates in law; one, a master's degree in business administration, and one a bachelor's degree in divinity. Among those who will receive the degree of doctor of philosophy are Mr. and Mrs. James A. Miller of Argens, O. Their work was done in zoology.

Four Get High Honors.

Four of the candidates who established high scholarship standing in undergraduate work have been elected to Phi Beta Kappa, national honors society. These are Helen M. Curl, 311 Forest avenue, River Forest; Gordon G. McLean, 1128 Ridge avenue, Evanston; James L. Waiters, 7832 Drexel avenue, and Mordecai Waxman, 3418 Monroe street.

This morning at 10 o'clock ground will be broken on the Midway campus for the $650,000 public administration center. The structure, which will be completed in 1938, will house fourteen associations of public officials now having headquarters at 850 East 58th street. Located at the southeast corner of 60th street and Kenwood avenue the structure will be the first to be put under construction on university property since International house was completed in 1932.

Brownlow to Take Part.

Louis Brownlow, chairman of President Roosevelt's committee on administrative management, and Dr. Hutchins will take part in the ground breaking ceremony.

Short Change Man Claims Victim Short Changed Him

Arthur Mersch, 42 years old, 1922 Maple avenue, Evanston, who has a long record as a confidence man, stood ruefully in line in the police showup yesterday. He was seized on the complaint of Albert Saltzman, owner of a meat market at 2426 North Clark street, that Mersch had tried to work the old short change trick in the store. "I tried it, all right," Mersch said yesterday, "but Mr. Saltzman was too fast for me. He got me so befuddled that I wound up $10 short myself, and while I was still trying to figure it out the cops came."

PRESIDENT, LIKE OTHERS, MAKES OUT TAX RETURN

Warm Springs, Ga., March 14.—[Special.]—Like many another citizen of the republic, President Roosevelt today busied himself with scratch paper and a stub of a pencil in making out his 1936 income tax against tomorrow's deadline for payment without penalty.

The task kept the President indoors all day. It was the first time in his four years in the White House that he made out the tax himself. By early evening, according to aids, he reported that it would be his last attempt.

Mr. Roosevelt began this morning by putting down his principal revenue—his annual salary of $75,000, as President of the United States. He soon lost himself in a maze of rent returns, stock dividends and farm operations here and at Hyde Park.

When, at last, Mr. Roosevelt lit a cigaret after having filled in the blank following "tax," he was sure the task was done.

CRUISER WITH 8 SAVED FROM BRITISH VESSEL ARRIVES IN HONOLULU

HONOLULU, Hawaii, March 14.—(AP)—Eight passengers rescued from the blazing British freighter Silverlarch paid an unscheduled visit to Honolulu tonight, arriving on an American man o' war which picked them up in a heavy sea yesterday after a high speed run.

The cruiser Louisville berthed at Pearl Harbor at 3:40 p. m. today [7:10 p. m. Chicago time] and placed the freighter's passengers ashore amid a welcome from harbor service men and civilians.

The four men and four women showed no effects of the mid-Pacific rescue. Two of the passengers are in their sixties, but they said climbing down a Jacob's ladder from the freighter to a waiting Louisville launch was nothing to become excited over.

The passengers disclosed they had stood beside their lifeboats with life preservers on three or four hours while waiting for the Louisville to reach the Silverlarch.

The stricken Silverlarch meanwhile slowly proceeded toward Honolulu under convoy of four navy destroyers and was expected to arrive tomorrow with her crew of forty men.

DIG UP FABULOUS GOLD OF PRINCE OF ARMAGEDDON

Discovery of a fabulous hoard of gold hidden by the prince of Megiddo some 14 centuries before the birth of Christ, when invaders threatened his ancient stronghold, was announced yesterday by the Oriental institute of the University of Chicago.

The announcement was made by Dr. John A. Wilson, director of the institute, upon receipt of a cable from Gordon Loud, director of the institute's Megiddo expedition.

Megiddo, or Armageddon, as it is known in Bible, song, and legend, lies at the strategic crossroads between Asia Minor and Egypt, not far from Nazareth in northern Palestine. From time immemorial it has been the site of critical battles, the last one during the world war. Eight "layers" [civilizations] of Megiddo, the city overlooking the famous battlefield, now have been uncovered.

TRAP 90 ITALIANS AS REBELS LOSE PART OF GAINS

50,000 Black Shirts Push Drive, Prisoners Say.

MADRID, March 14.—(AP)—Spanish government accounts of its victory at Trijueque [44 miles northeast of Madrid] on the Guadalajara front said tonight 90 additional Italian officers and soldiers had been captured in what was described as almost a rout of insurgents.

The Italians, official reports said, included a lieutenant colonel, a major, and a lieutenant. Most of the prisoners were said to have been found hiding in basements.

An official account said that the Italian prisoners, when questioned, said six Italian divisions, or approximately 50,000 men, were concentrated on the Guadalajara front. The government charged in a broadcast tonight that 100,000 Italian soldiers are in Spain. The announcer called this "a shameless invasion accomplished with the connivance of Spanish traitors."

Caught in Farmhouse.

The lieutenant colonel taken captive, the accounts said, was found wounded in a farmhouse near Trijueque [15 miles northeast of Guadalajara], the most advanced point reached by insurgents in their drive toward Madrid from the northeast. When two government soldiers entered the room he threw a hand grenade, wounding one of them, the reports said.

The prisoners were reported taken to the town of Torija, near Guadalajara on the main highway. Government troops assembled on the central plaza of the town received them with the clenched fist salute of the communists and shouts of "long live the Italian people," the accounts continued.

Gen. José Miaja, government commander in central spain, reported the Madrid front was quiet this morning.

The government forces under Gen. Miaja, recovering from the first shock of the enemy offensive and reinforced by crack units from the Madrid front, turned the tide of battle decisively.

Government soldiers swept into Trijueque behind lines of tanks and armored cars, with a wave of dynamite throwers close behind these.

The enemy, which Madrid reports asserted were mostly Italians, fled so precipitately they were unable to move much of their artillery and other supplies, and large quantities of these fell into the hands of the victors.

Planes Bomb Guadalajara.

The government's fast, stubby pursuit planes followed up the retreat, machine gunning the insurgents on the roads and bombing their truck trains. Six insurgent planes were downed in the fighting.

Newspapers, editorially, called the battle "a blow to Mussolini."

Twenty-eight government planes also bombed enemy positions at Brihuega, northeast of Guadalajara, dropping about 120 bombs. The insurgents retaliated by bombing Guadalajara, where bombs fell into the grounds of the Hispano-Suiza [airplane motors] factory without causing serious damage.

Gen. Miaja today issued a warning against too much elation over the repulse of the Guadalajara drive.

It was disclosed today that government airplanes had dropped photographs of Italian prisoners over the enemy lines. On the reverse side of each picture was an appeal in Italian urging soldiers in the insurgent ranks to desert to the government side, asserting prisoners were well treated and well fed.

Gen Miaja exhibited to newspaper men today a document dated in the year 1215 which he said had been stolen from a cathedral at Siguenza and had been found on an Italian prisoner.

WORKERS GET SET FOR INCOME TAX DEADLINE RUSH

Employés in the office of the collector of internal revenue got what rest they could yesterday in anticipation of today's final rush to file income tax returns.

Warnings were issued both by the treasury department in Washington and by Carter H. Harrison, local collector, that all returns must be in by midnight tonight. Failure to comply with this regulation may result in a penalty of from 5 to 25 per cent of the amount of the tax. A fine or a prison term may be imposed for willful failure to file a return.

Income tax payments here are already twice as great as for the same quarter a year ago, according to Harrison, and collections throughout the country are showing about the same proportionate increase. Collections up to March 15 last year amounted to $390,000,000, but treasury officials have estimated that about 6,000,000 taxpayers will have paid $840,000,000 by tonight.

4 POWERS POST WARSHIPS ALONG COAST OF SPAIN

Form Barrier to Isolate Civil War.

LONDON, March 14.—(AP)—Warships of four great naval powers steamed about the Spanish coast today as first concrete evidence of joint international efforts to isolate the Iberian peninsula's civil war.

The sea patrol, officially started last midnight, was composed of men of war from France, Great Britain, Germany and Italy.

With this phase of "hands off" activity actually under way, the full nonintervention committee was expected to meet this week to consider a Valencia government protest against alleged participation of Italian troops in the Spanish insurgent thrust at Guadalajara, scene of heavy fighting for several days.

Supervisors Meet Today.

The three supervisors of the 27-nation nonintervention scheme were to meet here tomorrow to settle details of their respective duties. Admiral M. H. Van Dulm, former Dutch East Indies commander, is director of the program.

Various countries still must formulate orders for their merchant shipping to comply with regulations designed to stem the flow of men, arms and supplies to both sides. The committee, it was said today, hopes to have 60 ships in the sea patrol within a few weeks.

Italy's Guard Decreased.

Informed sources in Rome said Italian naval units in Spanish waters now are less than at the beginning of the war because of Premier Benito Mussolini's current visit to Libya.

Germany's force, commanded by Rear Admiral Hermann Fischel, is composed of four warships along a 200 mile stretch from Cape de Gata to Cape Oropesa.

The French ministry of marine began arming fishing boats for use in relieving warships when they return for supplies or are needed elsewhere.

JAPAN EXPECTS NEW BRITISH AMBASSADOR TO SEEK NAVAL CURB

TOKIO, March 14.—(AP)—The appointment of Sir Robert Leslie Craigie as ambassador to Japan may lead to a new effort by the chief naval powers to reach a limitations agreement, said leading Japanese newspapers tonight.

Sir Robert Leslie Craigie.

They recalled that Craigie had been for some years active in the London naval parleys.

One commentator asserted Craigie's appointment indicates the great importance the British government attaches to Japan's future naval plans and the question of fortifications in the Pacific.

'THE WILL TO DIE' WOMAN FALLS INTO DEEP COMA

Los Angeles, Cal., March 14.—(AP)—The "will to die" of Helen Wills Love, convicted slayer of her husband, tonight started her toward the fourth day of a deep coma which physicians believe was self-induced to thwart a prison sentence.

Lying motionless on a jail hospital cot, the 31 year old woman showed no indication of rousing from the deep sleep into which she drifted last Thursday night.

All organic functions of her body, breathing and blood circulation excepted, have ceased. Dr. Benjamin Blank, jail physician, administers intravenous solutions of glucose and normal saline in continuing forcible feeding.

"She is not simulating this condition," said Dr. Blank. "She cannot be taken into court tomorrow to be sentenced. It is impossible to say just what the outcome of her coma may be."

Shortly after she was convicted of fatally shooting Harry A. Love, 43, she told jail inmates "I can make myself die whenever I want to."

ONE LITTLE BUYER WENT TO PARIS—and back she came triumphant, bringing with her Saby's new beret, "Rubens' Palette." The original is priced at $42. ONE LITTLE BUYER WENT TO CALIFORNIA, and here she saw broad brims and open crowns. Thinking ahead to Chicago's Spring, she brought back the wide-brimmed hat shown here, $10. ONE LITTLE BUYER WENT TO FLORIDA, and discovered something very new and smart, this poke-bonnet of taffeta or pique, $15. ONE LITTLE BUYER WENT TO NEW YORK and found that this sophisticated city had gone romantic in charming "Watteaus." This style with wings, $10. AND ONE LITTLE BUYER STAYED AT HOME. Did she fare badly? No! She discovered, right under her nose, this flattering Breton. We present it at $5.95.

...You and your Tiredness

Some of them are taking "the cure" at the Spa—always a wise and beneficial celebration of winter's passing. Some of them are struggling, happily, to attain par on one of the golf courses. Some of them are riding the trails. All of them appear to be happy and content.

Neither of those things seems hard to attain when people are living the luxurious life of THE HOMESTEAD—where a way of life, a pattern for one's days, has been perfected that isn't quite like anything else, anywhere.

DYKSTRA REPLIES 'YES!' TO BID TO HEAD WISCONSIN

Salary as President to Be $15,000 a Year.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Clarence Addison Dykstra, city manager of Cincinnati for the last seven years, accepted the presidency of the University of Wisconsin yesterday in a conference with university regents held at the Stevens hotel. He will assume his duties in about six weeks on a yearly contract basis which calls for a salary of $15,000.

John Callahan, superintendent of public instruction in Wisconsin and chairman of the executive committee of the board, said:

"The committee will recommend Mr Dykstra's appointment to the board next Thursday. There is no doubt that they will accept the recommendation."

Can Begin in Six Weeks.

"I have told these gentlemen," said the tall, smiling city manager, whose handling of the recent flood emergency in his city was widely praised, "that if the board accepts the recommendation I shall accept, and go to Wisconsin at the earliest moment that my work will permit. I have no contract with Cincinnati and think I can conclude my work there in six weeks."

Dr. Dykstra, who held teaching positions in political science at the University of Chicago, Ohio State, and the University of Kansas before he entered the field of public administration, said he will return to college work with "very great enthusiasm."

Mr. Dykstra said he has no plans as to changes at Wisconsin.

Seeks Balance of Farm and City.

He expressed the belief, however, that one of the foremost problems of education is to bring about a better balance between American urban and rural life to diminish "the traditional rural suspicion of the "city slicker" and the urbanites' disparagement of the 'cornstalk brigade' in the state legislatures." On academic freedom he said:

"I agree down to the grass roots with the idea which prevails at Wisconsin, where there is academic freedom in every sense and in the widest sphere. That is proper and ought to be. Under this freedom, as understood by the teaching profession, men do not give up opinions, ideas, and responsibilities as citizens because they go into teaching.

Mr. Dykstra is 54 years old. In political science he is of the University of Chicago school, where he taught as a graduate student under Charles E. Merriam in 1906.

Mr. Dykstra is president of the International Association of City Managers and has made many addresses in advocacy of the extension of that system.

University regents at the conference yesterday besides Mr. Callahan were Harold M. Wilkie, chairman of the board, who presided at recent sessions resulting in the ouster of Dr. Glenn Frank, president for twelve years; Clough Gates, Superior publisher, and Edward J. Brown, secretary of the electrical workers' union of Milwaukee.

EDWARD TALKS TO AID OF KING ABOUT FINANCES

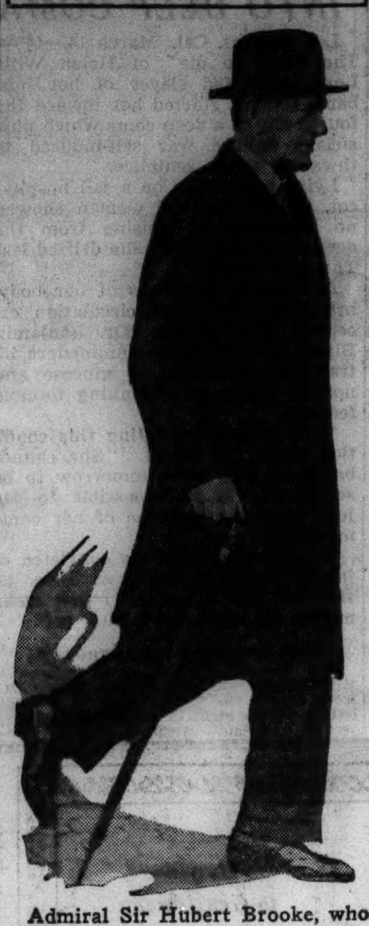
VIENNA, March 14.—(AP)—The duke of Windsor's financial future and marriage plans were understood authoritatively to have been under discussion at Enzesfeld castle today.

Sir Godfrey Thomas.

Former King Edward VIII. of Great Britain received Sir Godfrey Thomas, formerly his private secretary and now serving King George VI. in the same capacity. Thomas was believed to have submitted to the duke new financial proposals from the parliamentary committee, which is considering provisions for the royal family.

He also learned from the ex-king his plans for early marriage to Mrs. Wallis Simpson.

FRIENDS OF KING



Admiral Sir Hubert Brooke, who is slated to become treasurer to Queen Elizabeth in British royal house cleaning.

J. Pierpont Morgan, pipe smoking American financier and good friend of the king, is sure of a warm welcome when he next visits London.

KING OF BRITAIN RIDS HIS COURT OF 'SMART SET'

LONDON, March 14.—(AP)—Three months of a new reign have made it clear to Great Britain that what its critics termed the smart international set—the fashionable group denounced by the archbishop of Canterbury—is no longer welcomed by the British court.

George VI. has turned the clock back, at least socially, to the days of his father.

The smart set that surrounded Edward VIII. during his brief reign, called by the archbishop "alien to the best instincts and traditions" of Britain, is becoming reconciled to the fact it no longer has entrée to the British court.

Probably the king's closest friend is Wing-Commander Sir Louis Greig, gentleman usher at the court, at whose home the king stayed as an undergraduate at Cambridge university. Greig, a former navy surgeon, is credited with diagnosing the gastric trouble the king suffered in early years.

Another friend, who also has known the king since his youth, is Rear Admiral Sir Basil Brooke, one of the four grooms-in-waiting and scheduled to be appointed treasurer to the queen. Brooke instructed both Edward VIII. and George VI. in the arts of seamanship when they were cadets at the Royal Naval college at Osborne on the Isle of Wight.

Several of the king's close friends are men of his father's generation, and court circles say that Baron Clive Wigram, who advised George V. throughout his reign, is the most powerful figure at court today. Baron Wigram was recalled from retirement to act as permanent lord-in-waiting and principal adviser to the king.

Few Americans are numbered in court circles, but it is expected J. Pierpont Morgan, who frequently entertained the former duke and duchess of York in Scotland, will be sure of a welcome when he next visits London.

What Does Make a Wellington Scalp Treatment So Satisfactory?

It DOES save your hair, and thicken it wonderfully

1—A luxurious olive oil steamer shampoo softens and removes the dead and dried secretions which clog the scalp.
2—The hair is dried with cool compressed air.
3—In this condition of perfect cleanliness a vacuum is created over the scalp where its fullest force is exerted in drawing the blood into the derma or true skin where the hair roots drink it up.
4—With these capillaries filled with rich, red blood a flood of Ultra Violet Rays is poured upon the tissues giving the blood increased use of calcium for greater hair building power.

THE WELLINGTON SCALP TREATMENT CONTINUES

Vibratory applications to the back of the neck brings more blood up from the deeper tissues with its sedative effect on the nerve structures.

Then massage from skilled human fingers search out every muscle in the scalp forcing the blood to the uppermost layer of hair producing papilla, giving new life and vigor to dormant cells.

A truly wonderful antiseptic ointment is deftly applied to every square inch of the scalp (not the hair) doing away with any and all microscopic bacteria. Dandruff and any irritations subside quickly and are gone. Then the finishing hand massage and you have had a Wellington Scalp Treatment and feel like a king.

One (only) full 50 minute introductory treatment, including Steamer, Oil Shampoo and Vacuum Cap . . $1.00
Succeeding treatments $2.50

RIDE RAPID TRANSIT!

The "L" System

Save Time... Enjoy Added Comfort ...Above Traffic... It's Different!

"I want to see the city in a hurry," say thousands of out-of-towners, and experienced Chicagoans reply, "Take a ride on the Rapid Transit System, the 'L' trains."

SPEED? FASTER THAN NEW YORK SUBWAY!

So much has been said by our Eastern cousins about their subway that it may come as news to many of us, and to them, that the fastest "L" trains exceed the speed of the fastest subway trains—yet it is a fact.

Elevated railroad service is enjoyed only by the people of a few cities in America; the "L" is backed by an organization which works with clock-like precision; the "L" never has failed Chicago—on the Rapid Transit's peak traffic day more than a million passengers were carried in a blinding blizzard when no other traffic, automobile or otherwise, was able to move.

Perhaps you do not know it, but to serve you day and night the Chicago Rapid Transit provides

5,383 TRAINS EVERY WORK DAY

—nearly 2 million trains, almost 5 million cars a year. In 1936 these cars traveled nearly 45 millions of car-miles, a distance equaling

1,800 TRIPS AROUND THE WORLD!

In the past 25 years of service to Chicagoland the cars of the Rapid Transit trains traveled a billion and a quarter miles, carrying more than 4 billion passengers—a total equivalent to 2½ times the world's population!

A RAILROAD WITHIN THE CITY YET OFF OUR CROWDED STREETS ...The "L", Chicago's Greatest Factor for Public Safety

Traveling in the fresh air and sunshine, above the monoxide belt and above congested streets, the "L" removes 450,000 people each working day from contact with Chicago's teeming street traffic, contributing an untold share of relief to our hazardous traffic conditions.

Unlike all other local transportation organizations, the Chicago Rapid Transit Company is incorporated as a RAILROAD, its trains traveling on its privately-owned, well-maintained right-of-way—a steel highway which it would be almost impossible to duplicate.

Operating as a railroad, TRAINS up to eight cars in length swiftly traverse the "L" system on frequent, definite schedules, day and night. They stop at more than 200 well-maintained STATIONS, with sheltered platforms direct to trains. Cars are inspected and tested before each trip and carefully checked en route; worn parts are replaced at each thousand miles (can the same be said for the average automobile?) and the cars are torn down and rebuilt mechanically at frequent intervals. A highly trained force of nearly 5,000 trainmen, station employees, maintenance men and shopmen compose the organization serving you.

DISTANT SUBURBS, minutes away

The "L" extends its fast, frequent 24-hour service to the metropolitan suburban areas and is the only transportation agency serving both the city and the western and northern communities. It makes living possible for tens of thousands in suburbs which might otherwise be too far away for daily commutation.

SAVING YOUR TIME, YOUR MONEY

Only one transportation organization in Chicago—the "L"—furnishes free transfers to the other two. For a single fare you can travel the greater part of your trip on a swift "L" train, transferring to bus or street-car for the last few blocks. This gets you to your destination the quickest way, saves extra fares, and saves your time.

GET THERE! Ride the "L" — A RAILROAD!

BRIDGE TRAGEDY IS LAID TO SHUT SAFETY DEVICES

Investigation of an accident early yesterday in which a young motorist drove off the half opened Jackson boulevard bridge to his death in the river, revealed last night that the bridgetenders had cut out a safety device so they could raise half the bridge without lowering the safety barricade gates. Cause of the tragedy will be studied at the inquest this morning.

The victim of the accident was Livio Cortesia, 21 years old, 532 North Oakley avenue, an employé of the Radio Steel company. He was driving alone east in Jackson boulevard in a car which he owned jointly with Mario Fabbri, also 21, of 530 North Claremont avenue. It was 3 a. m. and he had just left a neighborhood party.

Plunges Off End of Span.

The west span of the bridge was down, the east span up. The gates were not down, and the automatic bell and warning lights were not working. Unaware that part of the bridge was open, Cortesia drove across the west span and plunged inside his car to the bottom of the river, which is 25 feet deep at that point.

City Engineer Loran D. Gayton questioned Walter Olszewski, 1924 South Troy street, bridgetender in the west tower, and Thomas Stapleton, 6139 Ellis avenue, in charge of the east tower. They told him that the sandboat Dahlke, going north, signalled them to open the bridge. Olszewski then found that a blown-out fuse had cut off the power that lowers the barricade gates and starts warning bells and lights on his west end of the bridge. After conferring by telephone, the two tenders said they decided to open the east span and let the sandboat through, since they saw no cars approaching in Jackson boulevard.

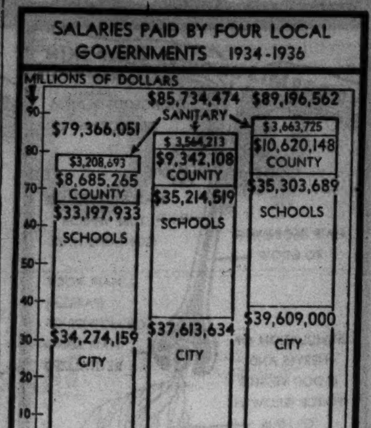
Fails to Heed Signal.

To open the span, it was necessary for Stapleton to cut out the interlocking safety system which prevents raising the spans unless the gates are down. This is supposed to be done only in emergencies. Olszewski told Engineer Gayton that he went down to the bridge with a lantern and then saw two automobiles approaching. One motorist heeded his signal and stopped, but Cortesia kept on coming.

"He put on his brakes after he got on the bridge but skidded on the slippery surface and went into the river," said Olszewski.

Meantime, Capt. Samuel Brines of the Dahlke had stopped his boat under the Metropolitan elevated lines bridge, just south of Jackson boulevard, forcing it to remain open. For three hours, until coast guards and firemen raised Cortesia's car and recovered his body, the boat stayed beneath the bridge stopping "L" service on the Garfield park, Douglas park, Humboldt park, Logan square, and Aurora & Elgin lines.

Rise in Public Wages



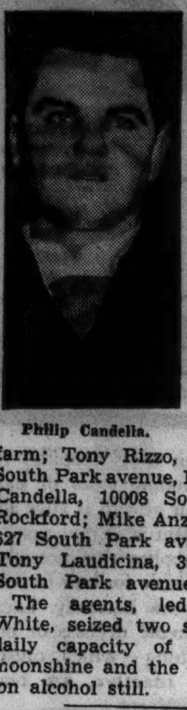
Salaries paid by four major local governments in Cook county increased 12 per cent from 1934 to 1936. The county government showed the largest increase, 22 per cent. School board pay rolls went up 6 per cent, city salaries rose 15 per cent, and the sanitary district's 14 per cent. The park district salaries were not included as comparative figures are not available prior to 1935.

TALK ON PAROLE SYSTEM.

The Illinois parole system will be discussed tonight at a meeting of the Chicago Civic forum on the eleventh floor of the county building. Benjamin Bachrach, public defender, will make the principal address.

BIGGEST BOOTLEG PLANT IS RAIDED; FIVE ARE SEIZED

Five prisoners were brought to Chicago yesterday by special agents of the alcohol tax unit of the federal internal revenue department as the result of a raid Saturday night on the biggest bootleg distillery discovered in this area since the repeal of prohibition. The plant was in a large dairy barn on a farm near Hebron in McHenry county.



Philip Candella.

The prisoners were Russell Bussert, 30 years old, tenant on the farm; Tony Rizzo, 40 years old, 232 South Park avenue, Beloit, Wis.; Philip Candella, 10008 South Main street, Rockford; Mike Anzaldo, 38 years old, 627 South Park avenue, Beloit, and Tony Laudicina, 39 years old, 120 South Park avenue, Beloit.

The agents, led by Sylban R. White, seized two stills, one with a daily capacity of 1,500 gallons of moonshine and the other a 2,000 gallon alcohol still.

DIES AT 83 AFTER FALL.

Mrs. Anna Thompson, 83 years old, 420 West 69th street, died yesterday in county hospital of injuries suffered in a fall.

ECONOMY LEAGUE WARNS OF PERIL OF RISING TAXES

Washington, D. C., March 14.—[Special.]—The National Economy league today attacked "the alarming increase in governmental costs and taxation in recent years."

Using figures on governmental costs compiled by the industrial conference board and data on national income supplied by the Brookings institute, John G. Gebhart, director of the Economy league, found that in 1913 taxes collected by federal, state and local governments aggregated 2 billion, 211 million dollars, or $22.66 per capita. By 1930 the total had reached 10 billion, 200 million or $83.40 per capita. During the depression tax collections declined, but with recovery they have risen to about $80 per capita.

"If the federal budget is balanced now," Dr. Gebhart says, "the total taxes collected will be about 14 billion or $109 per capita."

MONTH OLD GIRL FOUND DESERTED IN A VESTIBULE

A blue eyed girl baby, 1 month old, was abandoned a few minutes before midnight last night in the vestibule at 114 East Walton street. She was fairly well dressed and warmly bundled in a pink and white blanket. Some extra clothing lay beside her. A printed note pinned on the blanket read:

"I'm sorry, but I can't take care of the baby. She is 30 days old today."

The child was found by Mrs. Jenna Paxton, who heard her cries. She notified Desk Sergeant John Quinn of the Chicago avenue station, who sent Policemen Michael Kerrigan, Cornelius Malloy, and John Monahan over. They took the baby to St. Vincent's orphanage, where the baby was given the temporary name of "Louise Kerrigan," Policeman Kerrigan selecting the first name.

Moving Forward

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve.

THIS CHANGING WORLD

By CALEB

NOW that Chicago is stroking its own whiskers and reminiscing on its past, a great many interesting phases of the old days claim our attention. Of course, the whiskers Chicago strokes are stage whiskers and the reminiscing is that of youth, not of age—for despite her century of moving forward, Chicago has all her future ahead of her.

Nevertheless, it is agreeable to ponder on the old days. We have been reminded of the times when dignified gentlemen with real whiskers sold here, fine black Poult de Soie for the dresses of Chicago ladies. Sixteen yards of twenty-seven inch width were required. That, of course, did not include the many additional yards required for petticoats—of Taffeta—and additional yards for dust ruffles.

Those were the days of Messaline, Peau de Cygnes, and Bengaline. Grand ladies would alight from their carriages in those days and would swish in rustling silks to our first floor counters for additional silks which would be made into additional rustles.

If you would see what such dresses were like, you may find them, for instance, in the Chicago Historical Society on beautiful wax figures.

In an old Field, Leiter catalog we read, "There is this season, as always, a great variety of new-fangled combinations of wire, claiming particular merit as improvements upon Hoop Skirts, but the plain skirts or those without hoops at the top seem to be the most popular." And prices are quoted on "Pride of the West" skirts with 20, 25, and 30 hoops.

Those were also the days of "Gents' Paper Collars"—sold "in the multitude of styles that are in the market. . . . The most improved shapes, square cornered, round cornered, and linen finished."

In those days we were selling whalebone and the well-known "Can't Break'em Corset Clasps."

All these things of our earlier days seem of another age and world. Today they simply could not be. But in another generation or two they will seem but little more foreign than our presently current styles. When that day comes, today's most beautiful creations will lead young ladies who behold them in future museums to snigger and smile. Whenever that may be, we predict that Marshall Field & Company will be presenting offerings which will elicit rapturous exclamations from the same young ladies.

MEAT PRICE RISE JUST BEGINNING, BUTCHERS FEAR

Chops, Roasts Do Some Balloon Feats.

BY MARCIA WINN.

In 1936, a Chicago housewife could get two pounds of beef steak for 50 cents. Now she gets one pound six ounces.

If she wanted veal, she could get a seven and three quarter pound roast for $1. Now, for $1, she gets three pounds less. If she wanted pork, she could get 16 medium sized chops for $1. Now she can get only 10.

These details, all supported by United States department of labor statistics, were obtained yesterday in a tour of retail meat markets in the Chicago area. Every butcher agreed, although somewhat glumly, that the upward curve, evident for more than a year, is just beginning.

Buy Less Meat Now.

For although the housewives are indignant, so are the butchers. People spend as much money in the meat markets now as they did a year ago, but they don't buy as much meat.

In the past two weeks alone, explained a near north side butcher who has been in the business for 39 years, the price of lamb has gone up 6 cents a pound—from 39 to 45 cents.

"Why, when I started out," he recalled, "I sold pork chops for 5 and 6 cents a pound, good measure, too. But last year they were 24 cents—and now they're up to 32."

Prices of all cuts of meat have soared, Helmuth A. Stark, president of the Retail Meat Dealers association, agreed, as he paused hopefully in his bright new market at 2457 Pratt boulevard.

Still Going Up.

"Prices are still going up," he said, "and there's nothing to stop them because there's a shortage of good beef—of everything in fact. We don't have any trouble getting rid of the cheaper cuts of meat, because of course they fit people's pocketbooks, but they're grumbling."

Since Jan. 1, he said, there has been a pickup in business of from $25 to $50 a week per butcher, but the higher price of meat is not, in the long run, beneficial to the retail man. George Grassl, 8 West Division street, placed the blame for this result on the wholesale meat dealer.

"When prices go up," he said, "the wholesalers leave more waste than when the price is low. They stick all the offal on. If a piece of fat is hanging on some meat, they take skewers and fasten it on. Then we have to cut it off, in order to sell our meat, and have to charge more. So the public and the retail man has to pay for everything.

Buy Much Hamburger.

"What happens," he explained, "is that they [the public] are going for short ribs and suchlike because its cheaper. They buy lots of hamburger, too, even though it's up to 18 cents a pound."

"But don't people argue and protest the rising prices?" he was asked.

"Not so much as they used to," he replied, "they're getting used to them now."

"Yes," spoke up a woman customer, "I always used to buy lamb chops for Max"—indicating her dachshund—"but they're about 10 cents apiece now, so poor little Maxie gets a soupbone."

"Why," said another, "I used to have a certain amount of personal money, but now I have to use it for the household. Everything has gone up about one-third. We can't afford to eat anything except grapefruit!"

Increase in Meat Imports.

The housewife realizes the effect of the growing meat shortage when she buys the family supply at higher prices, but the profound economic results of the shortage may not be so immediately apparent to her. For instance, there has been a heavy increase in American meat imports from foreign countries to meet the demand. Pork imports have increased from 265,600 pounds in January, 1935, to 9,628,137 pounds last December. Therefore, according to economists, one of the results of the slaughter of millions of little pigs to boost prices is to enrich foreign meat raisers.

PUZZLED SHOPPER

A Chicago housewife contemplates meat prices as she tries to fit tomorrow's roast into this week's budget, no simple task with the butcher's quotations rising steadily.

Puzzled and exasperated she finds the choice difficult, with one cut almost as expensive as another and all of them higher than they were a year ago.

The chart shows how meat prices have risen in the last year. Butchers are agreed that the upward curve is just beginning.

STICKNEY MAN DIES.

POPE IS STRICKEN AFTER BAD NIGHT; RALLIES QUICKLY

VATICAN CITY, March 14.—(AP)—Pope Pius XI. suffered a short period of prostration this morning, but his physicians said it could in no way be called a heart attack.

The 79 year old pontiff, who recently appeared to be recovering from serious illness, was stricken at 10:30 a. m. [3:30 a. m., central standard time], it was disclosed. Informed sources said he had to lie down for a few minutes, but quickly recovered.

These sources said the pope's physicians attributed his short period of weakness to the damp weather and low barometric pressure prevailing in Rome today.

This morning's prostration followed an uncomfortable night. The pope was able to eat only a very light breakfast.

Meanwhile it was reliably reported that the wounds in his legs, caused by bad varicose veins, and his general condition were improving.

Vatican prelates said the pope still hoped to take some part in the ceremonies of Easter Sunday, but that definite plans could not be made. In spite of this, however, the pope this afternoon ordered the canons of St. Peter's to prepare the basilica for his presence at a pontifical Easter Sunday mass.

START REMOVAL OF LAKE SHORE TRACKS TODAY

Workmen will begin this morning to remove tracks of the Chicago surface lines along the lake shore between Chicago avenue and Ohio street in accordance with an order issued recently by the Illinois commerce commission. The last street car operated over the tracks shortly after midnight.

After the tracks are removed, the Chicago park district will start construction of new driveways approaching the outer link bridge. Future service on the Chicago avenue car line will end just west of Lake Shore drive, with cars switching back in the street.

SURRENDER AFTER SHOTS.

Seized by police at 79th and Halsted streets early yesterday, Joseph Bastik, 7153 Aberdeen street, and Charles Caffray, 7203 South May street, escaped, but were recaptured after Policeman Walter Oakes fired three warning shots.

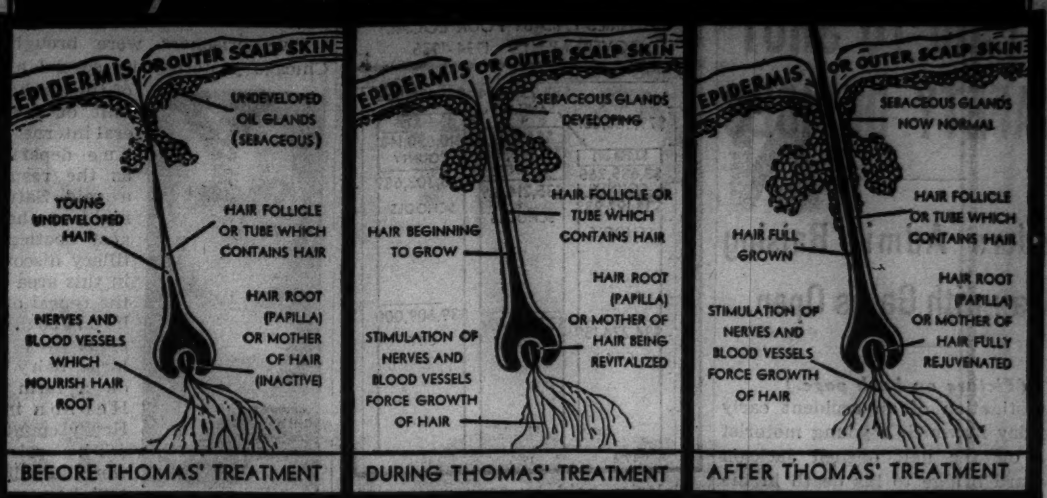
Why Thomas Grows Hair



THE "hair root" (papilla) rarely dies. Even in long-standing cases of baldness this inactive source of hair growth is alive and ready to respond to proper scientific stimulation. Thomas' treatment skillfully supplies this necessary stimulation and makes it possible for hair to push through the scalp and again grow normally. Local scalp disorders—such as extreme dryness or oiliness, dandruff, or irritable itching—which cause the "hair roots" to become inactive, are readily overcome by Thomas' treatment.

Eighteen years of succes and more than a quarter-million satisfied clients recommend Thomas' scalp treatment. It is physiologically sound—it produces positive benefits. Thomas' can help you, too, to end dandruff, stop falling hair, or to re-grow hair on the thin or bald spots. NOW YOU CAN...

COOK WITH ELECTRICITY

New Low Electric Rates Bring Cheap, Fast, Clean Electric Cooking to Chicago Homes

Special

INTRODUCTORY OFFER

1. Trade-in allowance for your old stove.
2. Liberal wiring installation allowance.

● Electric cooking has come to Chicago! You can now enjoy the many advantages of this modern cooking method at exceptionally low cost. Under Chicago's new low electric rates it's actually CHEAP to cook with electricity. You can figure it out this way: all electricity now used in excess of 100 kilowatt-hours a month costs only 2 cents per kilowatt-hour. Many families are now using more than 100 kilowatt-hours each month. If you are already using this much electricity, then the 100 to 125 kilowatt-hours used by the average electric range would cost you only about $2 to $2.50 a month! That's really CHEAP!

But economy is only one of the marvelous advantages you get with electric cooking. Manufacturers have developed and improved electric ranges in recent years, until today they are remarkably efficient as well as fast and clean. They are simple to use, bringing delicious new taste thrills from your own favorite recipes. Results are certain . . . always uniformly good . . . always perfectly cooked. Automatic controls introduce new standards of carefree living, new measures of freedom from tiring kitchen tasks.

See these new electric ranges at once! They are now being shown by electrical appliance dealers, department, furniture and hardware stores, and Commonwealth Edison Electric Shops. Investigate modern electric cooking at any of these stores . . . now!

Ask about the liberal purchase plan that makes it easy for you to enjoy modern electric cooking in your home.

ANOTHER BOOM—AND AFTER.

In the two years since the national recovery act, in a unanimous Supreme court decision, was declared unconstitutional, a skeleton of the NRA organization has been maintained at Washington with the expectation that the time would come when congress would see fit to pass a new law giving it flesh and blood.

The group first prepared a history of the NRA and subsequently issued occasional summaries of census material. But this made work gave little comfort to some of its doers. As ambitious as other men, the engineers, analysts, and statisticians attached to the office of the "coördinator for industrial coöperation" have recently grown impatient with the administration which has provided them with salaries without also assigning them a function. Only the more philosophical have found solace in Milton ["They also serve who only stand and wait"].

The Supreme court fight has restored the hopes of the former employés of the NRA attached to the CFIC and distributed generally among the government bureaus and administrations. For they are convinced, as are many others well informed about Washington, that a reënactment of the NRA in a modified form is what is chiefly in the President's mind when he asks for a Supreme court which will unquestioningly approve his measures.

What effect will another NRA law have upon the current business expansion? A hasty answer would be that it would turn the business quickly into a decline. That, however, was not the sequence the last time. Anticipation of NRA going into effect produced one of the most spirited upturns in American experience. Manufacturing production, as shown by the federal reserve board's index, rose from 66 in April, 1933, to 100 in July as Gen. Hugh Johnson took office. Having anticipated their demands well in advance and bought before the increased costs became effective, retailers, wholesalers, and even consumers cut down on their purchases. And between July and November of 1933 the output index fell from 100 to 72. That was the fastest tailspin of which the federal reserve board has any record. At no time in 1934 and not until December, 1935, did industry again attain the level of operations which was reached when industry produced like mad to beat the NRA gun.

A likely sequel to a victory by the President in the present fight will be such a rapid fire gun-beating expansion as preceded the original NRA. And such a whopping upturn would inevitably be succeeded by a reaction which might be even more severe than the one of 1934 and 1935. The automobile industry acted as a brake on that decline. The production of passenger cars expanded in both 1934 and 1935. That industry, which in the past has had a cycle of its own, has rarely gone on increasing for more than two years at a stretch. Thus, automobile output declined in 1918, 1921, 1924, 1927, and 1930-'32. A setback now is overdue. If the arrested year should come in 1938 and synchronize with a letdown after a pre-NRA swell, the recession might be a particularly severe one. Collapsing prices might add to the confusion.

The prices of a growing list of commodities are now substantially higher than in 1929. And some have said that a topheavy price structure was responsible for the panic of that year. If that was the cause of the painful experience of 1930-'32 the present level of prices and the threat of a quick boom offer positive sources of alarm.

GRASS AND GRASS WIDOWS.

Judge Finnegan of the Circuit court established an important legal precedent the other day. A young wife had sued for separate maintenance. The judge promptly got to the root of the trouble, which was parsnips. It appears that the young husband did not like them. The judge weighed the evidence and concluded, wisely as we believe, that a man is justified in refusing to have Sunday dinner with his wife's folks if he must also face parsnips. The wife accepted the verdict and the young couple is happily reunited.

A world of men will greet the decision with enthusiasm. Most people, contrary to the popular myth, get along nicely with their in-laws, but parsnips are another matter. So is eggplant. So, for that matter, is cauliflower. Broccoli, unless served with hollandaise sauce, is a snake in the grass. Asparagus is a home wrecker. It can be tolerated for the first three or four months of the season, but from then on it could not be less appetizing if Moses were to be found hidden among those bulrushes.

Some vegetables have a bad name which they do not deserve. Spinach is one of them. Spinach is nice. So are beans and peas; so is cabbage, both the white and the red. So are onions and turnips, lettuce, and a lot of others. The judicial mind can be counted upon to draw the necessary distinctions between the provocative vegetables and the others which any man should be expected to take without murmur in any and all circumstances.

JIM BRADDOCK AND THE FOREIGN EXCHANGE PROBLEM.

Max Schmeling appears to be stymied in his efforts to get a crack at Jim Braddock's heavyweight title in New York. A large proportion of the citizens of that town think Mayor La Guardia pulled his punches in his recent remarks on Hitler, and have promised that if the German boxer does get a bout there they will stay away in large numbers.

And so now Max asks Jim if he wouldn't like to take his title over to Germany and fight for it there. If he will, he can have $250,000 for the risk involved, which is conceded to be considerable. Furthermore, Jim will not be paid off in German play money, but in good, solid coin deposited, tax free, in some bank outside the reich.

Max seems to be a decent fellow, in no way responsible for the policies of his government, but we wonder if he has submitted his plan to import a heavyweight boxing title into Germany on the hoof to Dr. Hjalmar Horace Greeley Schacht.

Dr. Schacht is the economic and financial dictator of Germany, and he is so good at pulling financial rabbits out of his hat that he can even sass Hitler and get away with it. Good as he is, he has bitten his fingernails well back toward the elbow trying to find foreign exchange to finance German imports essential to armament and to the creation of the ersatz, or substitute, industries which will make Germany self-sufficient when war comes.

He may, therefore, be dubious as to whether the world's heavyweight title will be of sufficient value on Der Tag to justify laying out a quarter of a million dollars of his scanty foreign exchange to bring it into Germany.

Even so, all is not lost. Jovial Jim Farley has been hinting that he would like to leave the postoffice deficit to its own devices and strike out for himself. Jovial James is just the man for Dr. Schacht. When he was chairman of the New York boxing commission he used to turn out ersatz world's championships at the rate of two and even three a week. If Dr. Schacht will give him a job as German boxing commissioner he can probably make Max the world's champion for a whole lot less than $250,000.

TO END GIN MARRIAGES.

State Senator Graham's marriage bill, providing a three day delay between application for a license and its issuance, should be passed promptly by the legislature. It probably will be passed, for opposition is hardly conceivable except from those who have made a commercial racket of marriage rites.

The measure is aimed primarily at the gin marriages, performed on the spur of drunken whims, which give rise to a continuing stench in our divorce courts. To those others who contemplate a union for life a delay of three days is not onerous. It is hard to imagine any one embarking on so solemn a compact on less consideration.

With the Graham bill on the statute books, Illinois might be able to enter some reciprocal agreement with Indiana to prevent citizens of this state patronizing the notorious marriage mill at Crown Point. Enactment of the bill would of itself do much to prevent the abuse of Illinois hospitality by Wisconsin couples seeking to evade the laudable marriage statutes of that state.

SHEBOYGAN BOY MAKES GOOD.

Calvin Kuiper of Sheboygan, Wis., though only 12 years old, has already earned the gratitude of the republic. He takes his place beside the Dutch boy who put his thumb in the dike. The company is distinguished, but Calvin can hold the pace.

Calvin is the boy who received a molding set for Christmas and has used all the lead that came with it for making soldiers. He read that the government could think of nothing better to do with its gold bars and bricks than to bury them deep in the ground at Fort Knox. Calvin had a better use than that for metal and wrote to the secretary of the treasury, Mr. Morgenthau, asking for "a few gold bars so I can make some more soldiers."

The boy's motto seems to be that there's no harm in asking, and indeed there wasn't in this instance. What he received in reply was not a shipment of gold bars but something vastly more useful. He put the treasury on record. He has a letter from Mr. Morgenthau's secretary in which it is explained that "it would not be right to give any away."

Here is the first candid declaration from the treasury in some years that it mustn't give money away. The news will be read with pleasure by the taxpayers. Calvin's letter was well timed, coming as it did just before March 15. It has made the business of income tax payment positively pleasurable.

Editorial of the Day

AN ALL-'ROUND MESS.

[Detroit News.]

The settlement of the WPA strike on the public health inventory project here was as farcical a proceeding as we have been privileged to witness.

A group of public employés, displeased by a policy of the United States, had manifested their displeasure by taking possession of a United States government office. The government, we were taught in school, is majestic and all-powerful. However, in this instance it swallowed its dignity and sent a mediator here to find out what terms its disaffected employés would release the premises. A peace treaty at last was agreed on and, the government having affixed its sovereign signature through the proxy of an official of the public health service, the strike was ended.

The whole business was nonsense. However, to make matters worse, the terms of the peace treaty themselves disclosed that the government policy was wrong and the strikers right. The chief issue was the WPA'S determination to dismiss certain women workers because they were eligible for indigent mothers' pensions under the social security act. The strike settlement was made possible by a new WPA order under which WPA mothers will not be dismissed until their applications for social security benefits actually have been made and approved.

In other words, the majestic government's original policy would have let the dismissed mothers do the worrying about finding an alternative means of support. Under the circumstances, we cannot but admire the strikers for daring to protest.

For the WPA management we can muster no admiration whatever. It has succeeded in making the government ridiculous. Worse, it has established a precedent under which any group of public employés is invited to manifest its disagreement with government policies by refusing to let the government function.

A WAYFARER.

He rested on the stoop, and silently
Consumed the meal I had prepared for him,
And I resumed my garden work. When he Passed by to leave he scanned the paradigm
Of rows and beds; then suddenly his eyes
Were bright; he spoke with new-found eagerness:
"I, too, once grew delphinium—the size
Was most remarkable." Then, motionless,
He gazed upon the tall blue spikes, and I
Somehow could see a garden fine and neat
That he had tended; and a child—so high—

When aimlessly he trudged away from view
I wondered if his eyes were misty, too.

Perhaps Beaux Would Suit You.

This problem has got me ga-ga, simple as it seems. The setting was a Chicago avenue eating place known as the Round Table and two college students were reviewing a lecture. "What four animals," demanded the first, "have names ending in X?" The second promptly gave up and No. 1 began enumerating, "Lynx . . . fox . . . ox . . . and I think the fourth is minx." I stirred my soup as the second student demurred. "The plural of mink," said he, "is spelled m-i-n-k-s." . . . My spoonful of soup strangled me at that point, and ever since I have been pacing the floor in anguish. Please, what is that word?

SOMERSET MAUGHAM is one of the few contemporaries whose fiction we hasten to read. His art is valid. We never wish, after journeying through one of his works, that a rewrite man and a copyreader had been hired to re-tinker it. For Maugham knows that clarity, euphony and brevity are the marks of literature; in "Don Fernando" he enunciated a formula for good writing that could be read profitably by any ambitious fictioneer.

ANNUAL REPETITION.

With automobiles rushing about as they are, one would naturally assume that death by accident is much more likely in 1937 that it was, frinstance, in 1887. But one of our favorite insurance companies reports: "It is interesting to note that the cumulative percentage of casualties to total deaths has changed less than one per cent during the last fifty years." Like our immediate ancestors, one in 13 of us will die of accident—and half the accident deaths must be laid to the gas buggy.

FENCING EXHIBITIONS have become the rage in New York night spots and Jazbo rushes in to toucher that many of the regular patrons are taking to the sport so they can defend themselves from paying the checks.

AN APOLOGY.

How stupid of me not to know
That the old-fashioned three-point pants
Of Babyhood were doomed to go.

G. WITH THE W.

(Review by a good listener.)

It seems there was girl named Scarlett; a sad sort of a name for a girl, and probably gave her an inferiority complex early in life, for which she over-compensated. This may explain to you all her strange subsequent actions; though so far as I am concerned nothing on earth could explain the author's strange devotion to detail for pages and pages and pages. Scarlett's family at the beginning of the Civil war were some punkins down in Gawgia; but the war eliminated most of what she regarded as necessities, and having been reared with the fixed idea the world owed her everything she wanted, she set out to collect, encountering thereby hundreds of characters who are dealt with firmly and exhaustively (one might say exhaustingly). The hero, if any, is named Rhett Butler, and the universal opinion seems to be that Clark Gable must play Rhett in the movies, so that tells you what kind of a guy he was. . . . The story ends with Scarlett getting what she set out for, and not liking it. This results in tears for some readers, and a "good enough for her" feeling for others. Your reviewer is probably the only person in the U. S. who hasn't read the book. She never liked Civil war stories and besides has a complex against such husky tomes of whatever period. She has a feeling that if an author must use so many words they should be distributed over two volumes. A book of more than 400 pages makes such a depressing weight on the chest when reading in bed and that's where your reviewer reads. The title is swell, tho. I read that much for myself.

PAINFUL JOURNEYS OF KIDNEY STONES.

THE response of individuals to pain differs widely. We are likely to become accustomed to a fair number of aches and endure them without complaining. For the most part they will be rheumatic in origin and typify the occasional twinges that come with arthritis or as a result of an inflammatory reaction in the muscles.

Unfortunately, some persons will bear the sort of pain which sometimes accompanies appendicitis without making much fuss. But severe pain may occur with angina pectoris, the blocking of a coronary vessel in the heart, with trigeminal neuralgia [tic douloureux], or arise from some inflammation along the digestive tract.

One of the most excruciating ordeals is that which attends the passage of a stone from a kidney down along the ureter until it enters the bladder. These tubes [ureters]—which carry urine from the kidneys into the bladder—are 16 to 18 inches in length and about the size of a goose quill. Stones will form occasionally within the collecting space [the pelvis] of the kidney. A small fragment may break away, enter this relatively long, narrow passageway, and cause not only an obstruction to the flow of urine but considerable irritation.

For many years the condition has been described as colic, but this is a mild term if one desires to convey a true picture of the real situation. If the stone is sizable the irritation and contraction produced will result in distress so unbearable that large doses of powerful narcotics will be required for control.

For years physicians have been attempting to devise some plan by means of which the formation of these lime deposits could be prevented. Recently high vitamin feeding, particularly vitamin A, has been advocated. This is coupled with an acid-ash diet so as to make the urine definitly acid. Enough cases have been studied to more than justify the procedure. In some instances marked improvement has resulted and acid-ash diets are now recommended routinely for those subject to kidney stones or in whom they are discovered as the result of an X-ray examination.

The case is related of a woman aged 48 who had suffered repeated attacks of kidney colic. Vitamin A was fed in generous quantities and the acid diet was substituted for her regular food régime. Three months later X-rays showed that the stones had practically disappeared—only two minute shadows remaining in the left kidney.

But the acute attack—when a deposit of lime actually enters the ureter—is, for the time being, a matter of great concern. Can anything be done other than to relieve the patient with opiates? It has been observed that if moderate doses of calcium are given, an attack of kidney colic may be stopped in dramatic fashion. Sometimes so great a relaxation of the ureter is brought about as to permit the stone to drop literally into the bladder.

Various preparations have been advocated; for example, a dilute solution of calcium chloride; or, better still, a 10 per cent solution of calcium gluconate. This is administered directly into a vein apparently without harm. The injection is made very slowly and the patient may go to sleep promptly because of the relief afforded. Even though some discomfort remains, nevertheless the agonizing pain disappears within from 30 to 60 minutes.

The warning has been sounded, however, that this type of treatment should not be used frequently as calcium lowers the clotting time of the blood and thus increases the likelihood of plugs forming in blood vessels when the circulation is low.

Just how and why this substance acts so favorably is not clear. It is known, however, that calcium has a soothing effect upon nervous tissue and that muscular contractions are thereby decreased.

We have acid-ash and high vitamin lists which will be sent if stamped, addressed envelope accompanies request.

CARBUNCLES.

Mrs. Z. writes: My husband has just had a siege of carbuncles, which left large, seared marks. What was the cause of this? He eats too much starchy foods and loves to eat steak every night. Would diet have anything to do with it? What should be included in his food? I am sure improper diet is the cause, but he is stubborn.

REPLY.

Carbuncles usually come from pus organisms found on the skin. The physical condition of the patient has much to do with the development of skin inflammation. Diabetics are prone to this type of infection. Prevention consists in keeping the skin very clean, particularly where it may be irritated by clothing, where folds of the skin rub against one another, and where there is a collection of moisture and débris. In males the back of the neck is a favorite site. Food should be balanced. This means that a proper proportion of protein, fat, and starches is desirable. Too large an amount of one element may be followed by a drop in the resistance of the skin, thus inviting the growth of bacteria. Don't be too hard on friend husband. If he has endured a crop of boils he has suffered enough.

FEAR.

Mrs. T. C. writes: Two years ago I suffered a nervous breakdown and since that time I haven't felt well. I have been to many physicians and they all say I have no organic disease. I am very nervous and every little thing upsets me. I am dizzy, suffer with my stomach; but worst of all, I get fears which I cannot overcome. Many times I feel I am going to drop dead, my heart palpitates, and I get panic stricken. I am 36 years old. How can I overcome this feeling of fear? Do you think I will ever get well?

REPLY.

You need a course in mental hygiene. Your body is not sick but your mind needs training. A good psychotherapist can help you, and you can get good advice from books on the cure of nerves. Become interested in something besides yourself. We will send a list of "readings" if you will send a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

FLAT FEET.

A. G. writes: Are there special exercises to correct flat feet? I was turned down by the civil service board because of this condition.

REPLY.

Sometimes flat-foot is helped by special exercises. If you will send a stamped, self-addressed envelope we will send directions. Proper shoes must be worn.

ACCORDING TO THE SURREALISTS, THE OLD MASTERS DIDN'T KNOW ART

From the Tribune's Columns

20 Years Ago Today

MARCH 15, 1917.

NEW YORK.—Representatives of the four great railroad brotherhoods and of the operators awaited the showdown scheduled for tomorrow on the threatened nation-wide tieup of trafic through a strike. Both sides in the serious controversy were standing firm tonight.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The torpedoing of the American steamer Algonquin without warning and a report made to Secretary of State Lansing by James W. Gerard, the American ambassador recalled from Germany, have convinced the administration that the Berlin government does not contemplate any modification of ruthless submarine warfare.

COPENHAGEN.—The detention of two Americans in Germany is reported here. One is August Henning of Chicago, a bookkeeper in the Berlin branch of the National Radiator company. The other is James Moore, an American member of the crew of the unarmed Norwegian ship Storskog, which was sunk by a German submarine.

PARIS.—An official statement issued by the admiralty says that during the week ending March 11 at midnight, 707 merchant ships of all nationalities, above 100 tons net and exclusive of fishing and coasting vessels, entered French ports. In the same period two French ships of over 1,500 tons gross were sunk by submarines or mines.

CHICAGO.—Yachtsmen here have been stumped by the number of technical questions put to them by the navy department as a preliminary to the acceptance of yachts by the government for service in the war. Thirty-five Chicagoans so far have offered the use of their yachts to the government.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The navy department is preparing to assign to American shipbuilders such portions of the great building program authorized by congress as each plant is best fitted to handle. Bids for six scout cruisers received were within the limit of cost fixed by congress, but no awards will be made until the survey of the entire shipbuilding industry has been completed.

EL PASO, Tex.—Sergt. Alexander Fruchter of K troop, 17th United States cavalry, is being detained at the Fort Bliss guardhouse on a charge of desertion, it was admitted by high military officers. Fruchter is said to be of German birth. An investigation following his arrest is said to have resulted in the finding of a number of German letters and other papers among his effects.

LONDON. — The German press greeted Count von Bernstorff with conspicuous coolness, according to an Amsterdam dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company. The papers point out that he granted interviews which he should not have done without consulting the German government.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

ESTATE MONEY.

Chicago, March 13.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My husband's father's estate is to be settled next month. There is $1,400 cash in a vault box in a bank. The taxes are paid up to date on a house which is valued at $4,500. There was a $1,900 mortgage on this house at the time of the father-in-law's death. It has since been reduced to $1,700.

Now that the facts are stated, the question I would like answered is, what kind of a tax would have to be paid on the $1,400 cash in the vault box? The administrator of the estate told us about the $1,400 in the vault box and said there will be hardly any of this left, as the tax will eat it up. What tax does he mean? The death occurred last February. I know there is an inheritance tax, but could it take most of the $1,400 in a year's time?

M. H.

The exemptions and rates under the Illinois inheritance tax depend on the degree of relationship between the beneficiaries and the deceased. The administrator is in a better position to explain how the money is spent than we are. Ultimately he will be required to render a detailed accounting to the court and you can examine such accounting.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Address Voice of the People, The Tribune.

JUDICIAL TENURE.

Chicago, March 12.—President Roosevelt with the support of congress can, according to the constitution, add men to the Supreme court, but he can't take them out so long as they are on good behavior.

So why worry? The worry would come if he was able to control them by taking them out of office if they failed to accept his ideas. It's safe to say no group of men will agree with everything any President says no matter how popular he is. He is bound to get adverse interpretations from time to time.

I do not believe old age always brings great wisdom because I've seen it cause hardening of the arteries too many times. I'm not attacking the aged; I'm just stating facts. Many old people become prejudiced and fixed in their ideas; too many times they refuse to accept the changes in times.

HELEN DAVIS.

THE MANDATE.

Lansing, Mich., March 5.—State Senator Wilkowski, now in state prison, was reëlected state senator by an eight to one majority after being convicted of vote counting fraud. It seems very clear that there is some sort of a mandate of the people here, but it just doesn't figure out easily. Is the mandate that the senator should be sent to prison or does it mean that the people of Hamtramck have overwhelmingly decided that all state senators should be selected from inmates of the penitentiary? Possibly it is a command from the proletariat that Senator Wilkowski should have sole charge of counting the ballots in all elections. Will you please help us interpret this mandate of the people so we, the people of Michigan, can obey it?

NEW DEALER.

MANY ARE DOING SO.

Chicago, March 12.—Any senator or representative who votes to put a dictator at the head of our government is a traitor to his countrymen. The people should be aroused as to what their fake representatives are trying to do and write or telegraph them their opinions.

S. S. BERRY.

ALTERNATIVE.

Evanston, Ill., March 11.—Since the members of the present Supreme court are so mean and perverse and old fashioned as to live and to render decisions according to law and order just to spite the President, another solution to the problem might be for President Roosevelt to order the old stumbling blocks to fly the mails.

L. L. M.

PRECEDENT.

Danville, Ill., March 11.—I am an A. F. of L. union man. Occasionally I consume a bottle of beer. The majority of union men seem to favor Mr. Roosevelt's court packing scheme. Mr. Roosevelt favored the return of liquor and for that reason the majority of liquor consumers favor his plan. The danger to the union man and liquor consumer may not be Mr. Roosevelt. However, if he succeeds with his scheme his successor will inherit the same rights and consequently it leaves the door open for all future Presidents to pack the court for any pet scheme they may have in mind, and if an anti-union man or a dry President follows Mr. Roosevelt he can pack the court with 25 or 30 to knock out all unions and also dry up the country without the people having a vote on either scheme. What is sauce for Mr. Roosevelt will be sauce for his successor.

WALTER H. STUEBE.

ANOTHER ANALOGY.

Chicago, March 9.—The President's illustration of his three horse team reminds me that if one of three safeblowers will notify the police of a contemplated bank robbery, the bank depositors will be saved by one's refusal to continue in the wrong way.

P. E. DUCHARME.

ANTIDOTE.

Chicago, March 8.—The women of Chicago are naturally cordial when a distinguished foreign woman lectures in our city, but the fact that a speaker is a guest and a woman should not divert us from the validity of her message. Truth is more important than hospitality.

Mme. Olivia Rosetti Agresti, spokesman for the Fascist régime, has been appearing before large audiences. She has an effective presence. She is descended from a famous grandfather [who incidentally was a member of the secret carbonari and fled to exile in England for his belief in human liberties]. Mme. Agresti paints a roseate picture of Mussolini's corporate state.

Fascists have been talking for some dozen years about the corporate state and its joint councils of labor and capital. What they and Mme. Agresti fail to mention is that the corporate state has scarcely been tried. In 1933 a Fascist economist admitted in a book entitled "The Corporate State" that the only industry in which the councils had been set up was the stage. Since then the councils have been shamed into life, but they have had no real test.

Mme. Agresti says that all is happy between capital and labor, but she fails to mention figures. The wages of Italian agrarian and industrial workers are among the lowest in Europe and yet the cost of living is high. For some years wheat, for instance, because of Mussolini's desire for self-sufficiency and his tarifs, has sold in Italy for three times the world price. The same is true of sugar which has cost close to 25 cents a pound. Meanwhile most of Italy's capital has been drained off into military preparations and Italian industry has been crippled. Since Mussolini took power in 1922 the real wages of the workers have decreased by at least 15 per cent, whereas in democratic Sweden they have risen by 30 per cent. Still, there are no complaints? Well, there is a law which makes even private criticism of Il Duce liable to five years' imprisonment.

Mme. Agresti justifies the conquest of Ethiopia on the grounds of population needs. She forgets to mention that simultaneously Mussolini has done everything possible to increase this population through bachelor taxes, prizes for large families and even wine drinking as a stimulus to more rapid procreation.

EXPECT EUROPE TO BUILD 20,000 PLANES IN 1937

Russia, Germany, and Italy in Lead.

Washington, D. C., March 14.—(AP)—The National Aeronautic association, tracing details of "huge air armament" abroad, said today that European production this year will send a new swarm of battle planes into the air.

A survey by William R. Enyart, N. A. A. secretary who recently returned from abroad, said a "cross check of a variety of first hand sources" indicated there are now 25,500 military aircraft in Europe. Production during 1937, Enyart added, "may well reach the startling total of 20,000."

7,500 for Russia.

Enyart estimated that Russia has 7,500 fighting planes, Germany, 5,500; Italy, 5,000; France, 4,000, and England, 3,500.

Describing Europe's "tremendous air machine" as the fruit of "all inclusive, far reaching" aircraft programs, Enyart added that the "most dramatic example of how these reach out to cover every phase of aeronautic expansion is undoubtedly new Germany's air plan."

Military aircraft development is being carried forward on three fronts in Germany, the survey said, listing these as immediate production, research and development, and public aeronautic education.

A similar program is under way in Italy, it was said, and one is being started in France.

France and England Trail.

Enyart said that a "good portion of fighting air fleets abroad" are semi-obsolete, but that German and Italian planes are generally more modern than those of France and England.

The Ethiopian war brought a substantial expansion in Italy's air armada, he said.

The survey said that between 50,000 and 60,000 men now are building aircraft in Germany and that major Italian firms are operating at top speed "to supply the Italian air force in the shortest possible time with aerial equipment which could help Il Duce follow up his latest views on the Roman empire."

STANLEY'S SHINY NEW AMBULANCE PUZZLES POLICE

Police were puzzled last night after they arrested Stanley Leibovitz of 4812 North Avers avenue while he was driving a shiny new ambulance which carried a police siren, police radio, and red and green driving lights.

Leibovitz explained that he was trying to help the city reduce motor fatalities, but did not explain why his ambulance did not bear city or state licenses.

A man who telephoned about the situation said the ambulance was making tests for a charity or quasi-public ambulance service contemplated by him and manufacturers who have equipment to sell. But the police frowned upon the unauthorized use of sirens, police radios, and other official equipment, as well as the lack of license plates. They said Leibovitz would have to explain in Shakespeare avenue court today.

Policemen's Warning Shots Stop Flight of Burglar

Several warning shots fired by pursuing policemen halted a fleeing burglar on the southwest side last night. He was Stanley Kacines, 23 years old, 906 West 36th street. He had broken into the second floor flat of Victor Chernovich, 5819 South Troy street, and was being chased by Fred Wresch, who lives on the first floor, when Policemen Leroy Hallen and Charles Hodges arrived in response to a radio call. They ended the chase quickly and took Kacines and his loot, five shirts and a woolen blanket, to the Chicago Lawn station. Kacines told police he was a striking employé of a bed spring company where Chernovich is a foreman.

Cupid Attacks Others.

Newark, N. J., March 14.—(AP)—Six air line stewardesses last week decided to give up the skyways for love.

Three of the half dozen resignations came from stewardesses based at Memphis, Tenn. Ann Clegg accepted the proposal of James O. Connor, station manager there; Alee Isaacs made her final flight between Memphis and Fort Worth, Tex., to marry Al Aldridge, Fort Worth station manager, and Ruth Osborn, who had the Newark-Memphis run, quit to wed Dr. Leo Harris of the southern city.

LIEUT. MASSIE WEDS BUSINESS GIRL IN SEATTLE

Chewelah, Wash., March 14.—(AP)—The marriage of Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, United States navy, a central figure in the 1931 Massie assault case in Hawaii, to Miss Florence Storms was reported here today by the bride's sister. The marriage occurred a week ago in Seattle.

STORM AT SEA HALTS AMELIA'S 27,000 MILE HOP

Oakland, Cal., March 14.—(AP)—A storm covering nearly one-third of the 2,400 miles between here and Honolulu today forced postponement of Amelia Earhart's takeoff on her projected 27,000 mile world flight.

George Palmer Putnam, Miss Earhart's husband, said "definitly" there would be no takeoff today. The famous aviatrix had planned to hop at 5 p. m. [7 p. m. Chicago time].

The storm turned back Pan-American Airways' Hawaii Clipper late last night, several hours after it had left Alameda for the islands. It returned to its base here.

Pan-American officials said the big plane encountered a low pressure area and strongly adverse winds. It carried two passengers and a crew of eight.

Putnam made no announcement as to when Miss Earhart would takeoff and indicated a decision would depend upon the storm's movement.

The depression area centered about 800 miles off the coast and registered a comparatively low barometer reading of 29.50 inches.

FIND LOVE NEST IN SEARCH FOR CANTON SLAYER

Canton, O., March 14.—(AP)—While police held a divorcée whose name was withheld here, Canton officials uncovered a "love nest" apartment in Akron which they believed to supply a jealousy motive for the murder of Mrs. Rose Cable, prominent in Canton.

The love nest had been occupied for nearly three years by a "Mr. and Mrs. John Sherrard."

Prosecutor A. C. L. Barthelmeh said that Deuber S. Cable, wealthy contractor husband of the victim, had been released after questioning to permit him to attend the funeral tomorrow.

Barthelmeh said indications pointed to a hired assassin. Mrs. Cable was killed by a shotgun blast fired through the window of her home Thursday night.

Owners of the apartment building identified pictures of a slight, middle aged woman and a "crabby looking" well dressed man of average build as the occupants of the love nest.

Lindberghs Go to Nagpur to Get Repaired Plane

CALCUTTA, India, March 14.—(AP)—After a two week stay in Calcutta, Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh left today by train to return to Nagpur. The monoplane in which they have been touring the near and middle east was left at Nagpur for minor repairs late last month.

PAINTERS' PINKS AND BLUES

Highlighted against NAVY

These pinks and blues are not the romantic pinks and blues of trailing angel-like drapery. They are the intense palette of Berard or the strong color of Matisse's lighter palette. Molyneux shows his pink as "Gauguin pink" after the painter. Schiaparelli calls her two shades of pink "Seine sunrise" and "Seine sunset," while Patou's pink is named "Rose de France." The blues are also vivid—bright hyacinths with the same mauve cast as the pinks. Here they are—shown as they were in Paris against navy backgrounds. Perfect spring accents!

Mrs. Mazie Rogers, 42 years old, 1029 North East avenue, Oak Park, died in West Suburban hospital early yesterday, an hour after her automobile was wrecked by an elevated train at the Ridgeland avenue crossing in Oak Park. William Bliss, 40 years old, 434 Pine avenue, a steel salesman, who was with her in the car, was seriously injured.

Mrs. Rogers, mother of five children ranging from 6 to 16 years old, was the wife of Charles J. Rogers, president of the Crown Stove works, with offices in the Merchandise Mart.

Slides on Light Snow.

She was driving north in Ridgeland avenue when her car skidded on the light snow, crashed through the lowered crossing gates, and came to a stop directly in the path of a two car eastbound elevated train of the Metropolitan division, operated by Lewis Hackensmith, 132 North Pulaski road.

Miss Stephanie Norbut, 21 years old, 4505 South Washtenaw avenue, was killed last night when struck by the automobile of a hit and run driver as she stepped from behind an east bound surface line car at 47th street and Washtenaw avenue. She was returning from a bridal shower party.

William F. Fitzergald, a retired police sergeant of the Wabash avenue station, was killed by a hit and run driver last night at 34th street and Cottage Grove avenue. He was 70 years old. Because the car lost its radio cap in the accident police were hopeful of tracing and capturing the driver.

Victim of Two Cars Dies.

Webster Hoth, 22 years old, 1710 Brown avenue, Evanston, was killed last night when he was struck by one automobile and run over by a second. The accident occurred in McCormick road, north of Church street, Niles Center. Hoth, crossing the road, was struck by a north bound car driven by John Laccadue, 26 years old, 2514 Washington boulevard, Chicago. He was thrown into the path of a south bound automobile which ran over him and kept on going. Laccadue took Hoth to the Evanston hospital where it was found he was dead.

George Corbett, 65 years old, 3574 Cortland street, died in Danish American hospital yesterday of injuries incurred on Saturday evening when he was run down by the automobile of a hit and run driver while walking at Hamlin and Armitage avenues.

Dies Month After Crash.

Mrs. Barbara Wells, colored, 43 years old, 4357 South Park way, died in Provident hospital yesterday of complications resulting from injuries received in a trafic accident on Feb. 19. She and two companions standing at 44th street and South Park way were struck by an automobile driven by Paul Walker, colored, 735 East 43d street.

Trafic accidents took 214 lives in Cook county from Jan. 1 to 4 p. m. yesterday, the coroner's office reported. Chicago crashes in the same period took 172 lives and caused injury to 3,921 other persons.

Rail rates make commerce flow freely, create new markets, develop industry and agriculture. Thus they move the nation's business.

The important work of making rates that will move the nation's business calls for complete and up-to-the-minute knowledge of every known product of factory, forest and farm, of markets, routes and rates.

With everything, everywhere, moving on the railroad this is a vast undertaking. It is so well organized that comprehensive rate information is available to every shipper—as handy as the telephone.

It is through such inclusive service to shipper and traveler that the railroad has made a community of a continent.

The painstaking work of employes in the handling of rates is one reason for the excellent reputation our railroad enjoys. They share with their co-workers in every department the responsibility for the good name of the Illinois Central System.

FREE!

Send for free reprint of a series of three illustrated articles on syphilis which recently appeared in the Graphic Section of the Chicago Sunday Tribune. These articles describe the many ways in which syphilis is contracted, tell what it does to its victims and their children if neglected or improperly treated, and explain how it can be cured or arrested. They should be read by every unmarried man and woman, by every married couple, and by all young people of high school age. Sent in a plain envelope.

TROUBLED?

Don't be, for syphilis and gonorrhea are curable if properly treated!

Even neglected or badly-treated venereal diseases can be cured if cared for in time by a good physician or this reliable clinic!

If you are neglecting a venereal disease, or are hopelessly attempting to cure it yourself, why not end your discomfort and worry by consulting your family physician or the Public Health Institute—immediately? You have no idea how much better you will feel, both physically and mentally, once you have placed yourself in competent medical hands.

Neither syphilis nor gonorrhea is a disease to be neglected or self-treated. In fact, self treatment can be even worse than neglect, for it often aggravates an infection to such an extent that a skilled doctor may require months or years to clear it up!

When you consider that neglected or improperly-treated syphilis may lead to heart disease, blindness, deafness, apoplexy, paralysis or even insanity, and that it is the leading cause of stillborn, deformed and feeble-minded babies, the importance of promptly obtaining reliable medical attention becomes clearly apparent. Neglected or improperly-treated gonorrhea is equally dangerous, for it may result in a sight-destroying eye infection, crippling rheumatism, sterility, or serious prostate, bladder and other troubles!

A sympathetic atmosphere!

Venereal disease sufferers who come to the Public Health Institute are pleased by the thoughtful provisions which have been made for their privacy and comfort, and are gratified by the kindliness and sympathy exhibited by the staff. They find that every effort is exerted to spare them embarrassment, and to relieve the mental distress which invariably accompanies a venereal infection.

Specializing as they do in the treatment of syphilis and gonorrhea, the friendly men and women physicians of the Institute are well aware of the worries that trouble the sufferer from a venereal disease. Hence they hasten to quiet unnecessary fears, and to give the patient the encouragement which he so greatly needs.

In addition, experienced medical attention is assured by the fact that more than 4,500,000 patient visits have been made to the Public Health Institute since it was founded in 1920! Its men and women physicians are all graduates of reputable medical schools, are all licensed by the State Board of Medical Examiners, and are all thoroughly trained in the superior methods of treatment resulting from 17 years of specialization in syphilis and gonorrhea.

Treatments as low as $1.00

Organized by public-spirited citizens as a corporation "NOT-FOR-PROFIT" under the laws of the State of Illinois, the Public Health Institute offers specialized venereal disease treatment at low cost to those unable to pay higher fees. An examination for syphilis and gonorrhea, including urinalysis, smears and Wassermann blood test, costs only $3.00, while some treatments for syphilis cost as little as $1.00 and some of those for gonorrhea still less!

Thus it is unnecessary for any sufferer from syphilis or gonorrhea to neglect his disease or resort to ineffective self treatment. For not only can highly dependable medical attention be obtained in complete privacy and at nominal cost, but even persons temporarily pressed for funds can arrange to be treated.

NOTE: The Public Health Institute has no connection with any other Chicago health or medical institute, and should not be confused with those operated for personal gain!

TO THE DISTRIBUTORS AND DEALERS OF THE CHRYSLER CORPORATION:

DURING the afternoon of Monday, March 8, the C. I. O. Union, directed by persons who were not in our employ, with employes belonging to the Union, seized eight of this Corporation's principal plants in the Detroit area, including its general offices, and are still holding them. Our executives, plant managers and their staffs are being kept out by force.

The agents of the Union took over the plant gates and barricaded them.

They refused to let either the factory employes or office employes leave or enter the plant without their permission. In many cases, they took the company badges of the employes away from them. They did not permit employes to leave the plant unless they signed Union cards.

A military organization manned by this Union's agents was set up in the plants, and the company's plant protection men were ordered out of some buildings, leaving the Corporation's property wholly in possession of these Union agents.

Our mail trucks, carrying company mail from the post office to its offices, were stopped by this union's agents and delivery of mail obstructed.

The company consequently has been unable to carry on its business in its own offices. The company has set up offices elsewhere in Detroit. Its files and office records in the plants are in the possession of this Union.

As is well-known, there was no dispute over wages and working conditions of our 60,000 employes. Our rates of wages are substantially in excess of ninety cents an hour, and the weekly, monthly and annual earnings of our employes have been not only the highest in the history of the company but among the highest of all American industry.

This company has conducted its industrial relations by and in accordance with general acknowledged standards of fairness and equity, with the purpose of giving our employes the highest possible earnings and the best working conditions the prosperity of the business can afford. We have constantly negotiated with these people over a period of more than three years and at their request entered into further negotiations with them on Wednesday, March 3. While these negotiations were going on, the agents of this Union seized the plants.

This Union is demanding a closed shop. They have stated that their demands mean one of three things: either an employe signs up with the Union; or he will be ostracized and subjected to intolerable intimidation and coercion, both in the shop and at home; or Union men will refuse to work with him. Under these conditions, however designated, it is impossible for us to make products of Chrysler quality and Chrysler price.

As citizens of your communities, as well as representatives of the Chrysler Corporation, it is important that you understand these plain facts. In our close relations with you, we believe that we should tell you frankly what our situation is, and we ask you for your understanding and cooperation. We are advising you of it so that you may conduct your affairs accordingly. We ask you to be patient with us in our attempt to do our office work in temporary offices without the records and files necessary for carrying on business in the normal way.

You will recognize that the capture of our plants in time of peace, and what is going on in the plants today, is a form of revolution which concerns not only Chrysler Corporation but concerns you and everybody.

Wise Shopper Makes Friends with Stripes

[Br]ight Bands Appear in Every Costume.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The long awaited season of stripes is here. The first whispers of the campaign came through after Christmas. Striped accessories have dribbled in from week to week, but now the shops are modernistic with all kinds of blazing effects in everything from hats to shoes. The best looking black patent lether belts and handbags we've ever seen are lined with the cheerful splendor of striped silk, in formations of blue and red and gold stripes half an inch wide.

In the neckwear sections you will find some gay silk ascots in striped taffeta. Even sleeveless boleros, ready to accent a dull black dress, come in stripes. Roman striped silk crepe fashions fitted and not-so-fitted separate jackets, the kind with short sleeves for dinner gowns of simple straight streamline. For footgear for this duet try the new striped sandals.

Some of the smartest suit blouses come in clear striped silks; others equally as festive in narrow striped piques of as many as five bright contrasting bright colors. These are short sleeved and come both tuck-in and wear-outside models.

The striped costume jewelry has been unpacked to complete the spring showings. After dots, dashes, prints and other spotlighted fashions the stripes are taking the town.

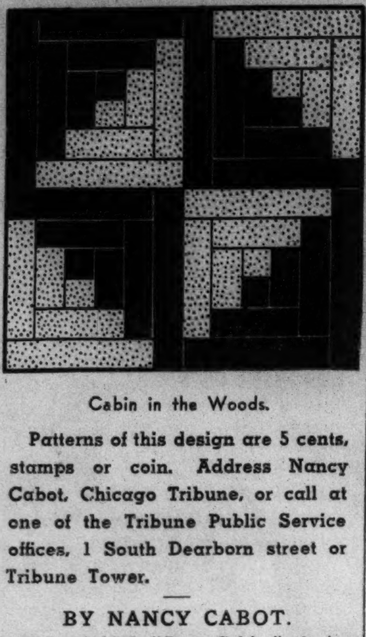
Quilt Block Is Variation of an Earlier Pattern



Cabin in the Woods.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

The original "Log Cabin" design memorialized the settlement of a continent. The variations of that block have been known as "Straight Furrow," "Barn Raising," and now we find it called the "Cabin in the Woods." There is no difference in the patches except a juxtaposition of the light and dark colors used and the way the blocks are set together in the quilt. This is one of the first coverlets which never were quilted, and it was called a "pressed" quilt. A quilt of this type would have been too clumsy and bulky had quilting been included as part of its design for beauty. The finished block of four squares measures 15 inches, and blocks are set together and bound with a one-half inch bias binding. The completed coverlet measures 90 by 105 inches.

Too Easy-Going Parent Is Bad for Adolescent

Guidance of Adult More Vital than Ever Before.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Granted that you are most of the things we have been recommending that parents be to their growing-up son or daughter. Granted that you have done a pretty good job from their baby days up to now.

What are some the new things you have to think out as the father or mother of a 16 or 18 year old son or daughter? There is the difference now, we may as well face it, in the adjustment between you two, because it becomes much less a matter of child and parent and more nearly a matter of things to be settled between grownup and grownup.

One thing that many parents of adolescents are in a quandary about is their authority. It wavers and totters, with some, when their teen age sons and daughters start to strive for independence. "What can we do?" they say. "Anything for peace," or "all the kids are doing it, one can't make any headway going against the tide."

We have talked about understanding your adolescent, about being friends with him, about giving him freedom. Not for a minute is all this synonymous with turning him loose to do just as he pleases.

You know better than your half grown son [or daughter] what is for his good, his happiness, his protection. You have, through living, gained a perspective and experience he cannot possibly have. From this vantage point then, with wisdom, exercise what authority you think you should to make life more livable for all of you. By doing this you are doing your child a real kindness, fitting him, or her, for adulthood.

Lovely Hands and Nails Are Result of Care

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Don't have it said about you that you are not a fastidious woman because your hands are not always presentable. With all the healing and soothing lotions on the market today, and at such reasonable prices, it shouldn't be said about any woman. To be sure, you can't change the structure of the hands, but you can keep the skin soft and smooth and your nails well manicured.

Time was when a woman got by if she offered as an excuse that she had done the weekly cleaning that day. But it's not so now. Too many women who are busy every day, doing all their own household tasks, cooking, cleaning, mending, even gardening, are ready to answer the call to the bridge table, on short notice, without having to offer any apologies for the appearance of their hands and nails. If they can do it, certainly the business woman can.

When you wash your hands, use warm water and a bland soap. Either too hot or too cold water is too extreme. If the water is hard, use a meal mixture or a pinch of borax for softening. Warm water, a bland soap and a nail brush will do wonders for your nails. Scrub thoroughly. After each washing, be certain to dry the hands thoroughly. This is most important. Then your favorite hand lotion or cream. The lubricant is necessary to keep the skin soft. Before you go out use lotion to protect the skin against the weather. There are lotions that "dry right in." You can slip your gloves on immediately after using them. If there are stains on your fingers, lemon juice or tomato juice will remove them.

One a week give yourself a hand beauty treatment. At night, massage a nourishing cream into the skin, applying it generously. Then put on gloves. In the morning you will be delighted to find your hands so much more velvety, smooth and soft. Keep the cuticle pushed back to avoid hangnails. If the nails are brittle, soak them in warmed olive oil for five or ten minutes each night until the condition is corrected. Choose nail polishes that are flattering to the hand, and keep in mind the color of your clothes when choosing the polish.

How often should you shampoo your hair? This much discussed subject is treated fully by Antoinette Donnelly, Tribune beauty editor, in her booklet, "Bring Out the Beauty in Your Hair." Get a copy today at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower. Price 5 cents. Postpaid, 7 cents.

Grandma was pretty smart at that. Long before she knew anything about dietetics, she was spooning sulphur and molasses firmly into the unwilling mouths of her brood. "You need this to purify your blood," she'd say.

How grandma's children dreaded the Ides of March! For Granny always was a leap or two ahead of spring, and before April shivered in she'd use up all the molasses.

Molasses is a good tonic, too, although there's no reason why its use should be confined to the springtime, and less reason why it should be eaten in such an unpalatable form as a "tonic." Better to cook with it, make it into molasses cookies, gingerbread, put it into the baked beans or serve it with hot biscuits.

Molasses Pecan Bread.
[1 loaf.]

3 Cups whole wheat flour
¼ cup sugar
2½ teaspoons soda
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup chopped pecans
2 cups buttermilk
½ cup molasses

Sift dry ingredients together and return bran left in sifter to the mixture. Add nuts. Mix the buttermilk and molasses. Add the liquid to the dry ingredients, stir briefly but vigorously and place in a greased loaf pan. Bake 45 minutes in a 400 degree oven.

Ginger Snaps.

1 cup molasses
¼ cup shortening
2 tablespoons hot water
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 teaspoon soda
¼ cup brown sugar
¼ teaspoon each, cinnamon, cloves, ginger
Flour to roll thinly

Warm the molasses slightly. Add shortening, hot water, vinegar and soda. Add sugar and spice and just enough flour to make a dough stiff enough to roll out thinly. Cut with small cookie cutter and bake in a moderate [350 degrees] oven for 10 minutes.

Boston Baked Beans.
[Old Fashioned Recipe.]

2 cups navy beans
1 teaspoon soda
⅓ pound salt pork
¼ cup molasses
2 teaspoons salt
¾ teaspoon mustard

Soak the beans with the soda overnight, or for several hours. Drain, add boiling water to cover, and simmer until skins may be easily pierced. Drain. [Save the liquor for soup.] Place a thin slice of salt pork in the bottom of the baking dish and add the beans. Place the rest of the salt pork, gashed in half inch strips, rind side up, on top. Mix molasses, salt, mustard and 1 cup of boiling water. Pour over the beans. Add boiling water to cover. Cover the dish and bake slowly [320 degrees] until done, about six hours. Remove cover the last half hour of cooking.

Built for Active Playtime

JUVENILE PLAYTIME TOGS.

Playtime usually is hard on youngsters' clothes. The solution seems to be to find some sort of outfit which will withstand hard play and yet be comfortable and give mother a minimum of trouble in upkeep. We think the overalls illustrated today are just the thing. The shoulder straps are constructed to stay up on the shoulders no matter how strenuous the child's activity. What child doesn't carry a multitude of articles of no value except sentimental worth? For the numerous stones, toys, etc., which children carry, these overalls provide three pockets, two in front and one in the back.

Heavy cottons, wool jersey, or flannel in royal or navy blue, brown, or green, are popular and practical, as well as becoming. Sturdy cottons are especially suitable, since they wash in a jiffy and stand a lot of wear and tear.

Style No. 2565 is designed for sizes 2, 4, 6, 8, 10, and 12 years. Size 4 requires 1⅝ yards of 39 inch material, with ⅜ yard of 35 inch lining.

Through the Looking Glass

We hope no one will ever accuse us of being unsympathetic with the understandable feminine desire to retain youth and good looks. It would be a drab world if women didn't color it.

But when women go to extremes in their effort to keep youthful looks it's pretty sad. The badly dyed hair framing a face no longer young is one example. Too girlish makeup and dress is another. We're made heartsick by some of the letters we receive and some of the cases we see.

And then there is always plastic surgery. We're asked about it frequently. We get the shivers when women tell us they're determined to have their faces lifted or their noses remodeled. We want to scream that they should stop, look, and listen before they leap.

Plastic surgery is, undoubtedly, a modern boon. But it's our firm belief that it should be resorted to only in the case of extreme disfigurement—certainly not for vanity's sweet sake. As a matter of fact, the reputable plastic surgeon has this same view.

The tragedy is that there are surgeons who prey on the vanity of women, who encourage women to take the step—and there are too many women in the world who're easily lured by the promise of a youthful appearance regained. Our best advice to the woman who wants a face lift, or eye wrinkles cut out, or a nose made dainty is "Don't!"

It's expensive, results are uncertain—and there is great danger of falling into the hands of a surgeon with more cunning than conscience. Resorting to surgery for no more important reason that wishing to appear youthful is not only extreme, but fraught with dangers of more than one type.

A New Dance Group Whirls Into Top Rank

Finish Distinguishes Work of Martha Graham.

BY CECIL SMITH.

If the first Chicago visit of Martha Graham's dance group was a big event to the audience, it was an even bigger one to some of the dancers themselves. Three of the twelve girls who comprise the group, I am told, had never ridden in a Pullman car until this week. One girl, supposing it was the thing to do, unpacked her suitcase entirely and managed to hang half a hundred garments all around her lower berth! When Miss Graham bought thirteen round trip tickets from New York to San Francisco she nearly collapsed at the sight of so much money all at once.

The splendid trail breaking dancing of Martha Graham and her group was born of privation and nourished upon unremitting work. There has never been a single wealthy patron for it; until recently there has scarcely been an audience. This must be an exciting month for the group, as they tour from here to California in quest of a national following.

Their success at the Auditorium theater yesterday was a tribute to the finished expressiveness of their present work. Of the three modern dance groups presented here this winter by Northwestern university the Graham group has discovered and organized the broadest range of movement. Miss Graham's dancing is compelling in precision, in control, and in communicativeness to those who watch.

The University of Dubuque A Cappella choir, directed by Noel J. Logan, opened its Kimball hall concert yesterday with a performance of Palestrina's "Tenebræ Factæ Sunt," which had commendable respect for the motet's long spun melodic lines.

In certain other works the choir dropped from pitch badly. Bach's "Come Soothing Death" is a lovely song, but it gains nothing when it is sung from start to finish without a single audible break for breath.

Lillian Nathan, who played the piano in Zeisler hall yesterday, still needs to study—ponderous tone, clipped cadences, monotonous accentuation, and wanton rubato.

A GIFTED VIOLINIST

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Inez Lauritano, a young violinist who won the Naumburg award in New York five years ago, made her Chicago debut yesterday afternoon at the Studebaker theater. She turns out to be a gifted young musician, rich in temperament and passionately aware of her instrument's great expressive powers. However, she is not yet possessed of the suavity necessary to present the repertoire's most difficult items with finish.

Her tone in the first movement of the Tschaikowsky concerto, especially in its noble, slow paced themes, was as opulent as any one could ask. There is fervent sincerity in her delivery and enough variety of coloring to keep interest high.

Miss Lauritano knows how to make her playing sound important without ever allowing it to become pompous. And her rhythmic sense is remarkable. That was a lovely wayward lilt which she achieved in the movement's lighter sequences.

Richard Czerwonky, widely and favorably known for the summer concerts of his Chicago Philharmonic orchestra and for divers other musical activities as well, officiated at the Great Northern theater yesterday as guest conductor of the Illinois Symphony orchestra.

Howard Silberer, resident pianist, played the Franck Symphonic Variations. He has an attractively quiet and competent style. The variations, however, seemed to lack sparkle.

The admirable Hall Johnson Negro choir was singing in the Civic Opera house at the same hour under Leonard De Paur's direction. The program consisted mostly of living folk music, the folk music of the colored race. The choir sings with immense verve and a lovely, open tone quality.

Jane Valentine Is Engaged to N. S. Noble Jr.

Elizabeth Bates Campbell to Be Married.

BY JUDITH CASS.

At a small dinner at home Saturday night Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Valentine announced the engagement of their daughter, Jane, to Newton S. Noble Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Newton S. Noble of Akron, O.

The announcement came as a pleasant surprise to the young people gathered in the Valentines' hospitable Ritchie court home, and the youthful couple was overwhelmed with congratulations from their families and the intimate friends present. Mr. and Mrs. Noble came from Akron for the occasion, and Miss Valentine's younger brother, Joseph W. Valentine, was there from Harvard. Another brother, John W. Valentine, and his wife, the former Jean Purcell, also were present.

Miss Valentine, who is one of the most popular and charming young women in society, was educated at Rosemary hall in Greenwich, Conn., and at the International school in Geneva, Switzerland. She was introduced to society at a tea at home in the fall of 1931, and later that winter Mr. and Mrs. Valentine gave a dinner-dance for her. Miss Valentine also attended Smith college for one year, transferring then to the University of Chicago, where she was graduated in 1935. She is a member of the Chicago Junior league.

Mr. Noble attended the Lawrenceville school and Princeton university, where he was graduated in 1929. Two years later he was graduated from the Harvard school of business administration, and since that time he has been engaged in business in Chicago. The wedding will take place early in June, and Mr. Noble and his bride will make their home in town.

Elizabeth Bates Campbell and L. T. Arthur to Wed.

At a tea in their Evanston home yesterday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Donald F. Campbell of 1209 Hinman avenue announced the engagement of their daughter, Elizabeth Bates, to L. Thorne Arthur, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leland P. Arthur of 1615 Ridge avenue, Evanston.

Miss Campbell attended Smith college and Northwestern university, and is a member of the Evanston Junior league. Mr. Arthur attended Williams college and Northwestern university law school.

At a luncheon at home in Evanston on Saturday, Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Fisher announced the engagement of their daughter, Betty, to Dale W. McMillen Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale W. McMillen of Fort Wayne, Ind.

Miss Fisher attended Connecticut college after being graduated from the Roycemore school. Later she was graduated from Northwestern university. Mr. McMillen attended Culver Military academy and spent a year at Williams before entering Northwestern university, where he was graduated last June. The wedding will take place early in the summer.

Give Dinner Here Tomorrow for Sir Herbert Marler.

Members of the English-Speaking union are disappointed that Lady Marler is not accompanying her distinguished husband, Sir Herbert Marler, Canadian minister to the United States, to Chicago tomorrow for the dinner the union will give for him at the Drake hotel. The diplomat is coming from Washington alone, arriving in time for the luncheon which the British consul general, Lewis Bernays, and Mrs. Bernays, will give for him at their home.

A number of reservations have been made for the dinner tomorrow. Among those who will attend are Mrs. John Crerar, John C. F. Reid,

Dixie Martin, Actress, Elopes by Airplane with Film Director

Los Angeles, Cal., March 14.—[Special.]—In an airplane elopement to Yuma, Ariz., Mrs. Margaret Martin, who is known on the stage as Dixie Martin, was married today to Philip Karstein, an assistant motion picture director. The pair were accompanied on their flight by Sally Eilers and Harry Joe Brown. Mrs. Karstein is an adopted daughter of the late Alexander Pantages, theater magnate. She won a divorce two years ago from Orlando [Slim] Martin, orchestra leader, whom she accused of neglecting her.

First Chinese Movie in Chicago Will Be Shown Twice Today

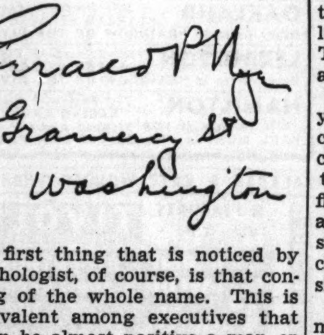
"Song of China," the first Chinese film to come to this country, will be shown at 4:30 and 8:30 o'clock today and tomorrow at International house, 1414 East 59th street. The Renaissance society and the house jointly are sponsoring the showing. Written, produced, and performed entirely by native Chinese, the play deals with three generations of a prosperous provincial family from 1890 to the present.

Expert Scans Senator Nye's Handwriting

BY MURIEL STAFFORD.

[Copyright: 1937: by Muriel Stafford.]

Those who heard Senator Gerald P. Nye speak at the Woman Congress undoubtedly were impressed with his executive ability, sincerity and culture. Perhaps you only surmised these traits, but his handwriting brings them to light in a clear cut manner.



The first thing that is noticed by a graphologist, of course, is that connecting of the whole name. This is so prevalent among executives that you can be almost positive a man or woman has an important position and is a leader of some kind when you find the signature written without a break, as you see it here.

A strange thing about this executive indication in handwriting is that although all executives do not write like this, the persons who do can immediately be picked as executives.

The capitals are high with self-assurance and some pride. Senator Nye is proud of the things for which he stands.

There is extreme sensitiveness in this handwriting, shown in three ways. The first is the light pressure, next comes the extreme forward slant of the words and the third is the letter t made as a triangle. The light pressure also denotes idealism. The letters d and e reflect culture and refinement.

When the letters go two ways, as you will notice in the word "Nye," consider the rest of the handwriting carefully. Everything depends upon the intelligence and character reflected in the writing as a whole. In a signature like this the two way slant means that the writer is inclined to look at both sides of a situation.

Here are the charming, keen minded, suave letters m and n made like w and u.

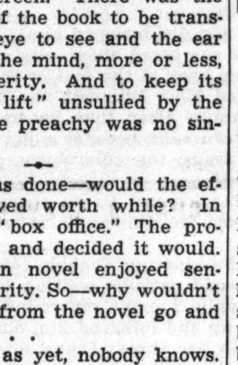
Good Morning!

The movies get 'em all!

And now James Hilton's much discussed novel, "Lost Horizon," joins the illustrious company of books and plays to live anew upon the silver sheet.



Jane Wyatt.

It took a lot of courage and money and more than a year of time to adapt this strangely gripping story, so fantastic a blend of realism, illusion, and spiritual qualities, to the screen. There was the rich imagery of the book to be translated for the eye to see and the ear to hear—and the mind, more or less, to accept as verity. And to keep its inspirational "lift" unsullied by the maudlin or the preachy was no sinecure.

When all was done—would the effort have proved worth while? In other words—"box office." The producers debated and decided it would. For the Hilton novel enjoyed sensational popularity. So—why wouldn't a movie made from the novel go and do likewise? . . .

The answer, as yet, nobody knows. And plenty of anxious ears there are in Hollywood close to the ground as "Lost Horizon" unreels on myriad screens.

The time of the story is the present. The first scenes show revolution breaking out in the Chinese interior. Surrounded by frantic natives, a small group of civilized folks finally manage to board a plane which, they fondly believe, will bear them to Shanghai and safety. The passengers are Robert Conway, British consul; his young brother, George; Barnard, a fugitive from the law; Lovett, a fossil collector, and Gloria, a bitter, desperate wanton, who is in the last stages of consumption.

Unknown to these, the pilot in charge of the ship is killed and a strange oriental ace slips into his seat and starts the plane away. . . .

When morning comes the passengers discover that instead of nearing Shanghai they are being flown to a place that lies beyond any known horizon. . . . The plane, after a long battle with raging blizzards, crashes amid towering snow covered mountains, killing the pilot. . . . Death for all seems imminent. . . .

Suddenly, out of nowhere, appears a strange procession of hooded and cloaked men—who guide the survivors over treacherous passes swept by hurtling, icy winds into a peaceful Eden, where there is no sin, but unbounded wealth and tranquil happiness.

It is with this environment and its effect upon the newcomers—and the inhabitants thereof—that most of the story is concerned.

While the narrative has the dream quality, it is not a dream; it is, rather, a yerning, imaginative reaching out on the part of the author for what he would like to see materialize in the way of a Utopian refuge from storms and wars and general world confusion.

It is a study in contrasts. Tranquility painted with broad, restful strokes against a background of seething ebon darkness; chiming bells in sweet rivalry to blasting cannon; unselfish service holding up a clear mirror to the distorted visages of greed, hatred, jealousy, and feverish strivings.

The film follows the book quite closely, though some changes have been made that, in my opinion, were mistaken. For instance, the supplanting of the woman missionary by the wanton Gloria, the writing in of a pretty uncomical comedy rôle for Edward Everett Horton, and the finale, which goes Hollywood.

Ronald Colman gives a distinguished performance as Conway, a spiritually inclined realist who suddenly finds his secret dreams come strangely true. Sam Jaffe is a compelling figure as the centuries old head of the Shangri-la colony. John Howard adds a needed touch of impatient, unbelieving youth and Jane Wyatt is a sweet young thing as Sondra, albeit a bit too Broadway flavored. Isabel Jewell snarls and coughs and recuperates and repents dramatically—and, as I intimated, I'd rather have had her a missionary.

But—don't fail to see "Lost Horizon" because you'll just have to sit in a corner like a ninny if you do. For EVERYBODY'S going to be talking about it!

See you tomorrow.

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

MAUDE PHELPS HUTCHINS' comment on the discovery and making public that a bronze called "Portrait of Emily" in her current exhibition at Wieboldt hall is signed with her husband's name is best noted as contained in a note she sent the editor of The Phoenix accompanying a photograph of "Emily" for which he had asked. In case you didn't hear about the signature . . . it was a mistake made by an Italian workman who signed the work for Mrs. Hutchins when it was sent to be cast after she completed it in 1927. A work to be cast by the method used for "Emily" usually is signed by the artist while it is in wax, but because the foundry was at some distance from Chicago and she was unable to be there at the time, she telephoned the workman to go ahead with the bronze without her. When the head arrived some weeks later, she was amused to observe that her husband's name had been signed to it. "A hundred years from now it will be dug up and you will be a great artist," she assured her husband at the time.

Identification— Spatted— Retort.

That was ten years ago. Mrs. Hutchins knew the matter of the signature was about to be exposed when a young man who recently visited the exhibition at the Renaissance society lingered long over "Emily," peering at the portrait and the signature and when, immediately after his departure, a call came from the editor of the University of Chicago magazine asking for a photograph of "Emily." When the messenger called for the photograph she gave it to him, with the following note attached:

"'Portrait of Emily,' by Robert M. Hutchins. Mr. Hutchins is the husband of Maude Phelps Hutchins. Mrs. Hutchins is the author of 'No Friendly Voice' and 'The Higher Learning in America.' She originated the Chicago plan. Mr. Hutchins is at present having a one woman show at Wieboldt hall. Mr. Hutchins is known in artistic circles as Maude Phelps Hutchins. Mrs. Hutchins' pen name is Robert Maynard Hutchins."

THEODORE MARRINER, American consul in Syria, came to Chicago on the serious business of making a talk at Oriental institute yesterday, when the copper statuettes found in the institute's Syrian dig were placed on view, but the story of one of his wisecracks followed him here from Washington. It concerns a supercilious remark made by a Washington woman about the representatives of the state department. They were too inclined toward pink teas, she thought, and asked Mr. Marriner if he didn't agree.

"I think, madam," said Mr. Marriner, "that the American diplomatic corps is more spat upon than spatted."

WHEN Hans Hess, Chicago violoncellist, was on a concert tour in the south, a newspaper in one of the cities where he played had misprinted the date when Carlo Bergonzi made the cello used by Mr. Hess, making the date 1761 instead of 1741. A local know-it-all, among the group that gathered about the musician after the concert, commented that it was strange that Bergonzi could have made the cello in 1761, as he had died before that.

"I always thought that instrument was made in heaven," answered Mr. Hess.

While spending the summer on my uncle's farm a tornado struck. We just made the storm cellar. The house was moved into the cornfield, but not a thing inside the house was out of place or damaged. The barn had been blown a little farther. The loft of the barn had been filled with straw. After the storm we found the loft full of perfectly woven straw hats. My uncle said such things were strange in that part of the country, but he admitted that he was puzzled by the price tags on the hats.—T. R., Parnell street.

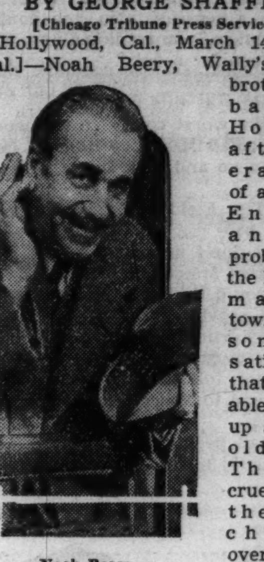
Noah in Hollywood After Years in England.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., March 14.—[Special.]—Noah Beery, Wally's older brother, is back in Hollywood after several years of acting in England and he probably is the happiest man in town. Reason: His satisfaction that he was able to pay up a lot of old bills. They accrued when the silents changed over to the talkies, his vogue died down and bankruptcy stared him in the face.



Noah Beery.

In those days Noah Beery played villains and characters like the "bad men." He cashed in on Britain's yerning for featured players from Hollywood. When he came back to hand his checks to tradesmen some of them had to thumb back over their books to see what the checks were for. It may have depleted Noah's personal treasury, but the good will created by the actor may be a factor in putting him in Hollywood rôles again.

Johnny Weissmuller seems definitly through as a Tarzan because a producer other than Metro studio is now exercising rights to film the unselfish and triumphant apeman. One director, Richard Thorpe, wants to book both Weissmuller and his wife, Lupe Velez, in the same picture and make it with a South sea setting.

Word from Louisiana, where "Buccaneer" is to be filmed, says that C. B. De Mille is going to use the anecdote illustrating the origin of "cocktail" in his film. De Mille's research experts have it that A. A. Peychand, a pharmacist in New Orleans of the French days, came from Santo Domingo with a secret formula for a highly potable drink combining bitters and brandy. Pharmacist Peychand mixed his ingredients in double ended egg cups, two cups to mix and one to serve the drink in. The cup was called a "coquetier"—egg cup.

When the rough and ready American frontiersmen filtered into New Orleans from up the river and took a liking to this "coquetier," pronounced kock-tay by the French, the Americans mispronounced it cocktail. At least that is the way you will see Mr. De Mille explain it romantically in his picture.

Irene Dunne announces "I unqualifiedly deny I have been negotiating with the Cradle in Evanston, Ill., to adopt another child. These reports bob up every few weeks. I wonder why? I have asked the Chicago headquarters of my studio to make it its business to find out. Adopting a child is a far too much responsibility to take without serious consideration and observation. While it probably is true that I shall some day want to adopt a baby boy to become a brother to our wonderful little Mary Frances, who now is 17 months of age and a never ending delight, I have no present plans along that line whatsoever."

AN EXCURSION.

"What is the order of the day?" asked Lorna Lowell at breakfast, looking up from her letters.

If this were a polite hint from the mistress of the house that she wanted her men folk out of the way, only one of them noticed. Hugh, her husband, said, "Um?" and went on reading his newspaper with the inattention to outside matters which he had acquired by long practice.

Young Malcolm Dubenny however replied at once:

"I think I'll go off on my bike into the country."

"Will you?" asked Lorna encouragingly. "O, but my dear, if it's a picnic I must have notice of it. There is probably nothing in the house."

"But it doesn't matter, Aunt Lorna," Malcolm said. "I can get something on the way."

"I have no doubt of it. And return by ambulance from eating twelve ices after a hot ride. No, you don't, my lad."

"And no doubt throw in the ambulance," remarked the master of the house mildly at this point.

"If the worst comes to the worst I can give you fruit and hard boiled eggs," decided Mrs. Lowell, and having finished her breakfast she got up at once to go and look into the matter. At the door she whirled round to inquire:

"Is Tim Field going with you, Malcolm? How many of you are there likely to be?"

"O, I don't know . . . but we needn't bother about grub for them," expostulated Malcolm.

"I should think not indeed," said Hugh. "What do you think we are—universal providers?"

"No, darling, of course not, but we can't be niggardly, after all. The pensioner must have his money's worth."

A laugh followed her, perfunctory however, for the family joke was an old one, and to Malcolm this morning it was even painful for secret reasons of his own.

He had been dreaming of Sue again.

He could not speak of the dream to any one because he was ashamed of it, believing it a childish habit which he should have long outgrown. And he knew that it was the dream which had prompted him to the expedition into the country, although he had had no idea of going anywhere until Lorna had looked up from her letters with her "What shall I do with Malcolm?" look. The boy knew it well, knew indeed all her looks from long experience, but it was only at such moments as this that his awareness of her, from being instinctive, became conscious and distressing, reminding him of things he was happier to forget.

He was the orphaned son of Hugh's half brother and for nine years the Lowells had been all his family.

And yet not really all. That was the trouble which out of a clear sky, as it were, could suddenly invade his dreams.

On this September day of 1927 he was just fifteen, a fair-haired youngster of five feet nine, immature and awkward, and with a boy's voice still inclined to be lordly as became his years, yet with a promise of quality in his wide-set gray eyes and firm chin.

"You are mighty energetic for such a hot day," observed Hugh as his wife departed. "What is the idea? Hasn't your sunburn reached the fashionable shade after all?"

"It's three degrees better than yours anyway," retorted Malcolm with a grin, surveying his hands.

His relations with Hugh were excellent and comfortable and this reminder of the month on the French coast from which they had recently returned, lifted his spirits a little. For years past it had been an annual event, the favorable rate of exchange making it a far better holiday than the Lowells could have otherwise afforded. Malcolm reveled in it always, swam, lay on the hot beaches, or while the elders played golf, explored the countryside with chance acquaintances of his own generation. By this time he spoke and read French fluently though his accent became more and more ostentatiously British, and he had acquired this useful asset so unconsciously that it did not occur to him that more than economy might have moved his uncle and aunt when the holidays were planned.

This was fortunate. He would have resisted like any other normal boy that adult form of combining business with pleasure, and imparting useful knowledge by means of low cunning.

His knowledge of French had helped him to win a scholarship to a public school which was pretty lucky, he considered, unaware that several other circumstances had been always in his favor. The Lowells had seen to that.

"You'll get a bumper lunch, you know," remarked Hugh to the boy. "That always happens when there is 'nothing in the house,' have you noticed? Her blood is up."

"I could have got something on the way though," persisted Malcolm.

Hugh rose, folding his newspaper, and Malcolm went out to look over his bicycle, where in due course Lorna found him, the bumper lunch having been evolved.

"Got any money?" she asked.

"O, yes, thanks. I have a shilling or so," said Malcolm, in the tone of one who considered these enquiries indelicate.

"One and a penny half-penny, I suppose. I know you." Lorna gave him a treasury note in a brisk and businesslike manner. "Stow that away carefully in case of need," she said.

"But of course I shan't need it."

"I should hope not indeed because I shall want it back tonight, but you can't go wandering about the world without any money on you. Come along now. It's a form of insurance, donkey."

"Superstitious!" exclaimed the boy with scorn, yet as he took the note and she turned back to the house there swept over him a wave of regret because he was grateful and had not as usual been able to show it.

Mrs. Lowell, having thus crippled her own finances for the day, found it necessary to borrow from Hugh.

"Just till tonight, darling," she explained. "I have given my last pound to Malcolm."

"Given him a pound, woman? Are you mad or suddenly rich? The boy will be ruined by your extravagant notions, or my pocket will."

"It is only a loan and he'll return it tonight. He can't go off on these expeditions without money in his pocket."

"I wonder you are not afraid he'll melt in the sun," retorted her husband, but his banter was half serious. "Malcolm is getting to the age when they don't like to be fussed, Lorna."

"I don't fuss," she denied indignantly. "I don't even beg him to be careful of the trafic any more. Surely I don't seem to fuss?" she pleaded.

"It was a warning, not a reproach," he assured her. "As an amateur parent you are without compare."

"Parent indeed!" She denied the word heartily. To mother Malcolm was the last thing she had ever attempted or dared to attempt, and she knew the impossibility of making Hugh understand what was in her mind—that perpetual instinct to give the boy, as far as it was humanly possible to do, all that he might have had.

"WE CAN TALK ANY TIME."

Both men looked at Diana. It was the first time Adrian had done so openly, and his level, steady gaze embarrassed her strangely.

"I'm sure I'm right," she hurried on with an effort. "You see, with all her beastly little faults—maybe because of them—he worshiped her. To him she was and always had been his ideal of what Woman should be, far above him, unattainable—for I can still swear she never gave him anything. He didn't expect it; but all those years of unselfish devotion, when he was making himself just a door mat for her to walk on, he was pathetically hoping to win from her some—some genuine regard. At last he believed he had won it. It might be because she was getting old and receiving less attention, but that didn't spoil his triumph. He believed he had got the one thing his money couldn't buy."

She paused and drew a deep breath.

"And then, with one brutal stroke, she disillusioned him. In the library that night she showed him that all, all she cared about was what he could do for her in a material way. It put him back at the foot of the ladder. He saw himself as just crude, good-natured Nick Blundell, the solicitor she'd found a convenience—and it broke him. After that he took delight in planning to kill her. Killing for its own sake became a joy. I saw it in his eyes while he sat there making ready the chloroform pad that was going to finish off his last victim—me."

Colin saw Adrian remove his spectacles and polish them carefully on his handkerchief. The moment had come, he decided, to relieve this diffident couple of his presence.

"Well, well!" he said, rising. "Fascinating though this is, it's just occurred to me I may have some forty-odd patients waiting for me to look in on them. Will you two carry on while I make my rounds?"

As he reached the door Adrian got up and followed him out. Gone—and without a word? With a hard lump in her throat Diana told herself that he could not face being alone with her, and that it was entirely her fault. Yet even so, how preposterous, how unthinkable for him to . . .

The door reopened, and screened by the largest mass of early daffodils she had ever seen in one person's grasp, Adrian appeared. He deposited his burden on the bed. The cool blooms covered her like a golden fleece. She gasped and buried her face in them.

"Adrian! How like you! And with me here thinking—thinking——"

She laughed, sobbed, and could not go on.

"Thinking," he repeated woodenly, "that a God-forsaken chump like me would do well to clear out for good and all. Was that your idea?"

She looked up at him, and fear took her again.

"What are you trying to say to me, Adrian?" she faltered. "Whatever it is, get it over. I shan't—mind."

He hesitated.

"You're realizing, then, that all this darned money may not be mine after all. As it wasn't a voluntary will, I don't suppose the courts will uphold it if it's contested by the next of kin."

Was that all? He couldn't be so stupid!

"I have thought of it," she answered tentatively. "But why bring it up now?"

"Why? Because it means just this—that I'm in rather a worse hole than I was before all this happened. I tried to set you free when I saw what you'd been let in for. There's a better reason now. I've nothing to offer you. You understand that, don't you?"

She had grown very white.

"Of course, dear," she replied after a moment. "I understood that evening at the hospital; but please don't imagine I blame you; we can't help these things. Better go now."

He did not move.

"Wait a minute. I don't get this." He frowned down on her. "How do you mean, you understood that evening? Understood what?"

She shook her head mutely. O, why wouldn't he leave her?

"Actually," she heard him mutter, "things aren't quite hopeless with me. I got a cable this morning about a Baltimore post I can walk straight into, but it's only a start, and after what you've gone through, can I ask you to face any more trials? Not possibly."

Light shone on her. With the corners of her mouth faintly twitching she answered steadily:

"Perhaps it will be better to call it off. I've agreed, haven't I? Now kiss me good-by."

Their eyes met, hers inscrutable, his mystified, troubled. Awkwardly he leaned over. His lips touched hers, withdrew. A queer spasm of question crossed his face. He kissed her again—and this time the crushed daffodils slithered to the floor as his arms closed roughly around her body.

"But, Adrian," she whispered, "if you don't want me, why——"

"O, what the hell?" he silenced her. "We can talk any time. . . ."

Many to Attend Opening of Ballet Russe.

The Big Brothers' association is having no difficulty selling tickets to the opening performance Easter evening at the Ballet Russe's limited Chicago engagement. The Theodore Tiekens, the Robert Tiekens, Mr. and Mrs. William K. Meyers, the Willett N. Gorhams, the junior Lester B. Knights, the Hoyt Thompsons, the Maurice F. Geraghtys, the Marvin A. Farrs, the Ronald J. Chinnocks, Newton C. Farr, Alan Healy, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Schulz, and the Norman B. Wrights are among those who will be in the Auditorium that night.

Robert Tieken is chairman for the Big Brothers for the event, which is the first benefit the organization ever has sponsored. The ballet will appear in London during the coronation ceremonies at the command of King George and Queen Elizabeth.

Chicago alumnæ of Wellesley have received invitations to a dinner which the Chicago Wellesley club is giving Friday, April 2, for Miss Mildred H. McAfee, new president of the college. The dinner will be held in the Red Lacquer room of the Palmer house.

Sunbeam League Card Party March 30.

The Sunbeam league has issued invitations to its silver anniversary card party and tea to be held March 30 at the Stevens hotel. Mrs. Edmund R. Landis is president of the organization which brings cheer to hundreds of the city's crippled children.

A chance to buy one's Easter bonnet at a bargain price will be offered next Friday, when the White Elephant Rummage shop helds its annual spring hat sale. The shop is conducted for the benefit of the Children's Memorial hospital.

The 49th annual dinner of the Chicago alumni of the United States Military academy will be held at the Racquet club next Saturday. The dinner will commemorate the academy's 135th anniversary. James C. Short is secretary of the Chicago Association of West Pointers.

The drawing room at the Lake Shore Drive hotel will be filled this afternoon for the last lecture in a series sponsored by the Chapel Guild of the Cenacle. Mrs. Britton I. Budd will be hostess at today's lecture which will begin at 2:30 o'clock. The Rev. Dr. Norbert C. Hoff, professor of philosophy at the University of Notre Dame will speak on "Gods Who Died and Rose Again." Many of those who have been attending the lectures take luncheon first at the hotel.

St. Vincent's Orphanage Palm Sunday Tea.

Before Mrs. George McLaughlin departed for Florida to visit Mr. and Mrs. Bernard F. Rogers she completed plans for a tea to be given for the Crib society of St. Vincent's orphanage on Palm Sunday at the orphanage. Some of the children will give a play for the board members preceding tea.

Mrs. Stuyvesant Peabody and Mrs. Samuel T. Chase, both members of the board, are out of the city, the former on a motor trip with Mr. Peabody, and the latter on her way south. Mrs. Chase and Mrs. McLaughlin are planning to go to Mexico together this week after Mrs. Chase arrives in Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Peterkin Jr. are receiving congratulations on the birth of their third child, a girl, on March 5 at the Passavant hospital. The baby, who has two sisters, Joan, 5 years old, and Ann, 2, has been named Joy. Mr. and Mrs. Walden Shaw came on from Pasadena to welcome their new grandchild.

Fourth Folk Festival to Bring Old Songs Here May 22 to 28

The feats of Paul Bunyan's lumberjacks, the whalers out of New Bedford, and the cowboys of the plains will be sung here at the fourth annual National Folk Festival, which is to be held in Orchestra hall May 22 to 28, according to an announcement made yesterday.

The festival will be sponsored by the adult education council, and will be under the direction of Miss Sarah Gertrude Knott of St. Louis. Miss Knott directed the first festival at St. Louis and subsequent ones at Chattanooga and Dallas.

She is arranging a program of old plantation songs, sea chanties, cowboy ballads and other American folk songs with the help of representatives of the adult education council in twenty states, among them Dr. Floyd W. Reeves of the University of Chicago.

Culbertson's "Gold Book of Bidding and Play"

WEAK REBIDS IN THE RESPONDER'S SUIT.

[Copyright: 1937: By Ely Culbertson.]

A player should not bid a weak hand when he can safely pass the opening bid. The response in a long weak suit is made only when holding a void or singleton in partner's suit. Having made a weak suit take-out of this sort, responder should not rebid if he can safely pass the opener's second bid.

Holding

♠ none ♥ 8 4 3 ♦ Q 10 8 6 5 4 3 ♣ J 6 5, responder should take out an opening one spade bid with two diamonds. Now, if the opener bids two no trump, responder should rebid three diamonds, for his hand is worthless at no trump, but if the opener bids two hearts he should pass.

Usually the responder should not rebid any weak hand when the opener rebids his suit, for the opener may have a long suit of his own and be weak in the responder's suit. In such cases the contract will have been increased unnecessarily. With a seven card suit and a void in partner's suit, the rebid should be made; with a singleton in partner's suit or with only a six card suit, partner's rebid should be passed.

TODAY'S HAND.

There is a great temptation in certain hands to shade the requirements for an opening two bid, and if a player falls into this temptation he is not greatly to be censured. But it is inexcusable to make two bidding errors in the same hand, as South did in the one shown below.

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2 hearts	Pass	2 no trump	Pass
3 hearts	Pass	4 no trump	Pass
5 hearts	Pass	Pass	Pass

South's hand contained only four-plus honor tricks and had more than five losers. Thus, it did not conform to the specifications for an opening two bid. North's holding technically warranted a positive response, since he had one-plus honor tricks, but in the absence of any ace North properly exercised the option of first bidding the negative two no trump. Over South's rebid of hearts, however, North was rather "on the spot," as three no trump would be another completely negative bid, and even four hearts would be entirely noncommittal. On the correct theory therefore that a show of some strength at this stage could not be misleading, North made the nonconventional bid of four no trump. In my opinion, the choice was well founded. The trouble was that South did not take the proper inferences from North's two bids. He should have realized that, after North's initial negative response, a slam was out of the question. The fact that North later showed some scattered strength did not in any way change this. And if there were no slam in the hand, why jeopardize a game by reaching the five level? South's hand was almost as well suited to no trump play as it was to hearts, and certainly there was no reason to fear that ten tricks could not be made. Moreover, there was the added danger that a five heart bid might influence North to stretch a little further and bid six, for which South could tell there would be no play. While it is highly desirable to play a hand at the right suit, it sometimes is even more important to stay at the proper level!

On the opening lead of a club by West and a diamond return by East, the five heart contract went down to inglorious defeat.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: What is the correct response to an opening two spade bid with the following hand:
♠ 6 4 ♥ 9 6 5 4 2 ♦ A Q 7 ♣ 5 4 2 ?
Answer: Three no trump.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Monday, March 15—The last day for filing income tax returns! And NBC has the temerity to schedule a talk by Congressman Fred A. Hartley Jr. of New Jersey over WENR at 6:15 tonight entitled, "Are You Tax Conscious?"

Perhaps we should remember, though, the plight of citizens in other lands. In his broadcast last night Bob Ripley talked about the tax situation in Mussolini's empire. In Italy you pay a tax in your name according to its length; a tax on every foreign language you speak; a tax on ability to read and write; a tax on every garbage can you own, and 22 per cent of your income—with no exemptions.

Gertrude Niesen, featured songstress at the Chez Paree, will fly to Hollywood for a single broadcast on Hollywood Hotel Friday night. Miss Niesen will appear in preview scenes of the picture "Top of the Town," her first feature film. She will fly back for work here Saturday evening and her local broadcast on Sunday.

Ben Bernie does his last broadcast with his own band from Hollywood tomorrow night. Later in the week Bernie is leaving for a vacation in Florida, and his show will emanate from Miami to the music of George Olsen's orchestra.

Art Kassel and his bandsmen will take Freddy Martin's place on W-G-N's schedule and at the Aragon from March 23 to 26 while Martin takes a vacation.

Eddy Duchin's orchestra is to open at the Palmer House on May 21 with W-G-N—MBS as outlet, following Henry King, who will be there after April 9. King takes the place of George Hamilton and his Music Box orchestra now appearing there.

When Frances Carlon of "Today's Children" was called away from the studio the other day because of the death of her mother, Ruth Bailey took her place for several days. Two years ago when Miss Bailey was called away from a Pasadena playhouse appearance Miss Carlon substituted for her.

VIVID COLORS IN MEXICAN TOMB TRACE ZAPOTECS

Reveal Much History of Ancient Race.

Arrow indicates location of Zapotecs' tombs.

Alfonso Caso, archæological director in the region, said he believed information yielded by the tombs would help scientists greatly in reconstructing the civilization of the Zapotecs.

He expressed belief that one tomb, cruciform in shape, would prove the most valuable source of information because of the freshness of paintings on its walls.

President Lazaro Cardenas presided at the opening of the tomb, one of three just discovered by Caso, yesterday.

The cruciform shaped tomb contained paintings depicting in vivid blue, red, yellow, black, and white allegories relating to the Zapotec deities. There also were representations of animals and inscriptions of Zapotec numerology.

Caso, on the basis of the Monte Alban excavations, divides the Zapotec history into five periods:

1. The pre-Christian period when worship was phalic in nature
2. The period contemporary with the Mayas of Guatemala, when a relatively high culture was demonstrated in writing, painting, and sculpture.
3. The period of pyramid building in the vicinity of San Juan Teotihuacan.
4. The beginning of decadence.
5. The invasion of the Mixtecs.

MIXES DIRT ROAD WITH CEMENT TO MAKE HARD ROAD

A new process whereby soil or gravel roads may be converted into hard roads by mixing the soil or gravel with cement was disclosed yesterday by Frank T. Sheets, consulting engineer and director of development for the Portland Cement association.

He predicted the process might almost revolutionize the secondary road problem. It is predicated upon a new engineering material, the unusual feature of which is that the soil or gravel already in the road can be utilized.

The road to be converted, he explained, is chewed up into dust by various machines. Cement is then spread and mixed in by the same machines. Water is added and then the mixing is repeated. Next follows a packing process, and then the finishing with a roller. The road is cured with a blanket of straw or dirt. This blanket is removed after seven days and the road is ready for trafic. The surface is hard and weather-resisting and looks like sandstone.

SOX WIN FIRST EXHIBITION, 8-3; TEST FIVE HURLERS

COAST FANS GET PEEK AT DYKES' REGULAR LINEUP

Two Hit Home Runs Against Movie Club.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pasadena, Cal., March 14.—With the coming of the morrow James J. Dykes' White Sox will begin to speed up for their final spring examinations. Today the squad of thirty-four men was permitted to have a little fun in an exhibition game with the Fox movie company team, which they won, 8 to 3, but henceforth the work will be serious, the immediate reason for this being that an almost unbroken string of battles against real competition will start next Saturday. Real pitching and extensive batting drill will make up the new program.

All that can be said for the afternoon's exhibition was that Dykes put twenty-five of his players, including himself on parade for 3,000 fans. However, he failed to make good on his promise to change pitchers for every inning. He used only five, Rigney, Chelini, Lee, and Dietrich doing two innings apiece and Kennedy the ninth. Dietrich was the only one who didn't yield a hit.

Starts Possible First String.

Dykes started the affair with a lineup that may be his first string layout until developments warant a change. Radcliff was in left field, Walker in right, Rosenthal in center, Bonura at first, Appling at short, Mesner at third, Hayes at second, and Sewell behind the plate. This combination was succeeded by the utility men and various rookies, who did nothing of importance.

Haas had the pleasure of clinching the decision. In his first trip to the plate in the sixth he spanked a homer to right for three runs. Appling also contributed a homer and a single which drove in another run. Bonura scored two mates on a fly ball and a single. Rookie Steve Mesner went hitless.

As Mr. Dykes, who wheeled the Sox into a surprise third place last fall, approaches a series of engagements with the Angels, the Pirates and the Cubs, not to mention 154 games during the American league race, he admits he has problems, despite the fact that the regular team may be about the same as it was last year.

Sox May Lack Speed.

Speed, which in big league baseball means ability to get around the bases, is one item the Sox probably will not have in abundance. Luke Sewell, Zeke Bonura, Jack Hayes, and Rip Radcliff can't begin to step with average runners. Luke Appling is neither slow nor speedy. Steve Mesner, who is being groomed for Dykes' third place post, hasn't the speed a 19 year old should possess. Larry Rosenthal and Fred [Dixie] Walker really can get around without calling a taxi, but whether they'll be regulars is not certain. Rosenthal still must prove he can hit along with his brilliant fielding, and Walker's arm will be questionable until he tries to put it into use. If Mesner flops and Dykes has to play third there will be another reduction in speed.

The Sox have a couple of fast fellows in Tony Piet, whose best position is second base, and Harry Steinbacher, the outfielder purchased from St. Paul. Piet had a great year when the Pirates first unveiled him and he looked like a world beater when the Sox grabbed him from the minors to help out during a 1935 infield shortage. But, unhappily for his own good, he's the sort of lad who doesn't like to step out boldly and make a fight for a job he thinks belongs to some other athlete.

C. Y. O. BOXERS MEET OMAHA TEAM TONIGHT

Omaha, Neb., March 14.—[Special.]—Les McDonald, University of Nebraska football end, will meet Joe Howe, of Chicago, in the heavyweight feature of the Intercity C. Y. O. boxing bouts here tomorrow night.

THE GUMPS—THAT'S AN IDEA, STELTH!

Matisi, of Rose Bowl Matisis, Is Punching Golden Glover

Binghamton, N. Y., March 14.—[Special.]—Jolting Joe Matisi, 19 year old Union-Endicott High school student who won the All-Eastern heavyweight title in the Golden Gloves tournament at New York March 8 and who meets Paul Hartnek of Omaha in the intercity bouts at the Chicago Stadium March 24, has had a brief but amazing career in the boxing game.

Matisi, whose brother Tony is a star tackle on the University of Pittsburgh football team, stole the show in Madison Square Garden by his willingness to mix it.

Beats Hapes in Final.

The Binghamton Press A. A. representative met and defeated William Schloeman of New York, Golden Gloves title holder, in his first bout on March 8. He uncorked a terrific left hook to the head which shook Schloeman in the first round. Matisi led all the way, but the New Yorker refused to go down.

Matisi won the title in his fight with Clarence [Hairy] Hapes, University of Mississippi boxing and football star. He gave the 20,000 persons the biggest thrill of the 20-card program as he outboxed and outpunched his 225 pound rival.

A comparative novice, Matisi knocked Hapes down twice. He took the southerner's heftiest punches and kept coming in for more.

In his first fight in Madison Square Garden, Matisi scored a technical knockout over Harry Behrends of Buffalo, N. Y., in 2:18 seconds of fighting.

He's a Guard, Too.

Boxing is not the only sport Joe participates in. He was co-captain of Union-Endicott's football team that met and defeated Clearwater, Fla., on Christmas day. He played guard and was voted the outstanding scholastic player in that position by coaches of the southern tier.

A punch in the nose from his brother Tony started Joe on his way to fistic fame. He started boxing just a year ago against Tony in their home at Endicott.

"I wasn't doing very well until Tony hit me one on the nose," Joe says, "and then I really started to fight. After that I got on pretty well

The Field

Team.	Riders.
American	Thomas-Reboli
Italy	Yaccino-Grillo
Germany	Krossmeier-Wissel
Canada	Peden-Audy
Belgium	Aerts-Debruycker
Italy-Holland	Georgetti-Wals
France	Ignat-Diot
U. S. Kid team	Allen-Sellinger
Belgian-American	Debaets-O'Brien
Jewish-American	Cohen-Grimm
Chicago	Rodak-Sima
C. Y. O.	Ligman-Clarizo

It is with some trepidation that the 24 contestants in Chicago's 37th international six day bicycle race will ride onto the pine saucer in the Chicago Stadium at 9 o'clock tonight.

They know that pretty Miss Loraine Ingalls, Chicago's "I Will" girl, is going to be at the working end of a pistol, the bark of which will start them out on their long pedaling journey.

Everything will be all right if Miss Ingalls doesn't decide to powder her nose at exactly the moment she should be busy making the pistol talk. If that should happen it is hard to guess the outcome. At any rate all would be turmoil. Perhaps even chaos.

New York Winners Here.

Seldom has a six day race here attracted a more formidable field than the one which goes into motion tonight. The twelve teams represent the best riders of the United States, Canada, Italy, France, Germany, Belgium and Holland.

The teams that finished one-two-three in the recent New York race are in the lineup. That New York finish was a thriller, so when these teams renew their feud here they should provide one of the most exciting battles ever waged in a Chicago race.

Peden, Audy Popular.

The Belgians, Omer Dubruyeker and Emile Aerts, won the New York grind with the French Red Devils—Emile Ignat and Emil Diot—second. Third went to the American team of Bobby Thomas and Tino Reboli.

All these riders came out of the New York race in good condition. They were the ones who attracted most of the attention at the Stadium yesterday afternoon when all of the teams were out on the new pine saucer-shaped speedway for trial spins. The work of building the track had already been completed late Saturday.

The team that most bike fans pick to turn back the leaders from the New York race is the one made up of Jules Audy and Torchy Peden, which represents Canada.

Fenwick High school of Oak Park defeated Catholic of Joliet last night, 31 to 26, for the heavyweight basketball championship of the Catholic high school league. The game was played at Loyola before a crowd of 1,500.

The first half ended with the score tied, 11 to 11. Fenwick came through with a big third quarter to decide the game, Larry Ryan and Don Kruger each scoring two field goals and Bob McCabe one for ten points. Joliet scored only four.

Bon Smith was the scoring star for Joliet, getting six field goals and a free throw. Score:

INTERCOLLEGIATE football suffered two severe losses last week in the deaths of Judge Walter P. Steffen and Johnny O'Brien. . . . Renew $25,000 American Derby at Homewood June 19

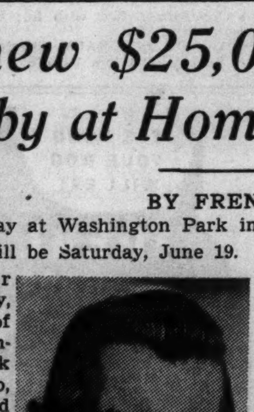
BY FRENCH LANE.

Derby day at Washington Park in Chicago will be Saturday, June 19.

Walter Gregory, president of the Washington Park Jocky club, announced yesterday that the American Derby will be run for the twenty-eighth time on that date.



Walter L. Gregory.

The race, at a mile and a quarter, fashioned for 3 year olds, will carry an added money value of $25,000. An additional premium of $5,000 will go to the winner if it be the colt or filly that wins the Kentucky Derby, Preakness stakes, or the Belmont stakes.

The revival of the famous race no doubt will meet with the instantaneous approval of Chicago racegoers. They were a bit sad last year when the Derby was dropped because the Washington Park meeting was staged during the month of August—too late for a true Derby test, so the Washington Park officials decided.

Since it was first run back in 1884 the American Derby prize has been one of the most eagerly sought 3 year old awards in America each year.

Remember These Champions?

1884—Modesty.	1902—Wyeth.
1886—Silver Cloud.	1904—Highball.
1887—C. H. Todd.	1926—Boot to Boot.
1888—Emp. of Norf'k	1927—Hydromel.
1890—Uncle Bob.	1929—Windy City.
1891—Strathmeath.	1930—Reveille Boy.
1892—Carlsbad.	1931—Mate.
1898—Pink Coat.	1934—Cavalcade.
1900—Sidney Lucas.	1935—Black Helen.
1901—Robert Waddell.

"We are going back to tradition in picking June 19 for American Derby day," Gregory said last night.

"Always in the old days at Washington Park the American Derby was run on the third Saturday in June. It was the finest race in America at that time because everybody knew when to begin to get ready for Derby day. We hope to bring it back to that old time popularity."

On Fight Week-end.

The two events no doubt will make that particular week-end the biggest sports week-end of the year in Chicago.

The American Derby will be the fourth really big 3 year old special of the year. It will be preceded by the Kentucky Derby, Preakness, and Belmont stakes. The additional $5,000 prize was added in an effort to attract the winners of these three races.

WHERE WERE YOU ON THE NIGHT OF FEB. 28?

Just tell the jury, Mr. Sitdowner, why you didn't order your New York-Chicago Golden Gloves Inter-city tickets that night. That was the day the sale opened. O, you forgot? Well, we'll be lenient in this case. You get one more chance.

Do it today or never. By tomorrow night you won't be able to get a ticket, even with a writ of attachment. There is no pardon in this sentence. Either you buy now or it's the doghouse on March 24 when the champions of New York meet the champions of Chicago at Chicago Stadium.

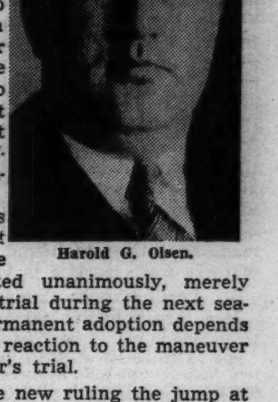
VOTE TO GIVE NEW RULE ONE SEASON'S TRIAL

U. S. Coaches' Group Meets Today.

Big Ten basketball coaches, meeting yesterday at the Morrison hotel in conjunction with the closed sessions of the National Basketball Coaches' association, voted to abandon the center jump, the rule to go into effect at the start of the 1937-'38 campaign.



Harold G. Olsen.

It was pointed out that the rule, adopted unanimously, merely will be on trial during the next season. Its permanent adoption depends on coaches' reaction to the maneuver after a year's trial.

Under the new ruling the jump at center will be used only at the beginning of the game, at the start of the half, at the opening of overtime periods, and after technical and double fouls.

Pacific Coast Pioneered It.

At all other times the ball will be placed in play behind the end line of the team scored upon, under the same procedure as obtains after a successful free throw resulting from a personal foul. This free throw rule has been in effect in the Big Ten for the last two years.

The Big Ten is the second major conference to eliminate the jump. The Pacific Coast conference officially adopted it last winter after the southern division of the organization—comprising Stanford, California, Southern California, and U. C. L. A.—had pioneered the move during the 1935-'36 season.

Commenting on the step, Harold G. Olsen, basketball coach at Ohio State, pointed out that the decision was in line with the Big Ten's attempts to speed up the game.

Olsen Likes It.

"Those who have had a chance to study basketball as played under the no-center jump rule feel that it provides a far better game from the spectator's viewpoint," Olsen said. "It certainly makes for more action. I had a chance to observe it under actual game conditions when Ohio State played four games on the coast early last season and these contests convinced me that the elimination of the jump makes for a better game. Our players were unanimous in their approval of it.

"While I would not go so far as to say that height will no longer be a prime requisite of a center under the new rule, I do believe that the jump's elimination will take some of the importance off height and place more of a premium on speed and cleverness," Olsen continued.

Dr. H. C. Carlson, coach of the University of Pittsburgh quintets and president of the association, said that elimination of the center jump as a general rule in the colleges and high schools would receive serious consideration during the association's open meetings, scheduled for today and tomorrow.

Too Much Action?

"My own personal opinion on the subject, which is certainly one of the most radical moves in the history of basketball, is that the elimination of the jump makes for a game which is exhausting to spectator and player alike," Carlson stated.

"By spectator 'exhaustion' I mean that the average fan likes a few seconds to reflect and possibly comment to his partner on a successful shot. At least that has been my experience. Under the no-center interpretation we certainly have action but possibly we have too much action—for both spectators and players."

The association, after a study of motion pictures of basketball as played in different sections of the country and a general discussion of rules, will make suggestions to the national basketball rules committee, which will open a two day meeting in Chicago tomorrow.

BIG TEN AGAIN RULES INDOOR TRACK EVENTS

Leads in Five Events, Ties Another by Comparison.

New York, March 14.—(AP)—The annual checkup on the ever-increasing number of winter track meets once more finds the Western conference supreme in the college field.

While the club stars and outstanding college athletes get another crack or two at the records this week in the New York Knights of Columbus meet Wednesday night and the Butler relays at Indianapolis Saturday, the collegiate indoor season virtually ended last night when the point scores were totaled in the Big Ten and Intercollegiate A. A. A. A. meets.

Big Ten Again Wins Honors.

The results of these meets, the Central Intercollegiates at South Bend, Ind., the new Midwest Intercollegiates at Naperville, Ill., yesterday and the Southern conference and Big Six meets earlier in the season again give the Big Ten stars the honors they take nearly every year.

Out of eleven events in which comparisons can be drawn the Big Ten performances were tops in five and produced a tie in another. The eastern meet produced two leading feats, the Big Six and Central one each, plus a couple of ties for the latter, while the Southern conference got only one small slice of the honors.

Five runners in three meets equaled the listed world indoor record of 6.2 seconds for 60 yards, which has been beaten twice this year. Bob Grieve of Illinois in the Big Ten and Billy Hopkins of Virginia in the Southern conference meet won their titles in that time, while Al Tolmich of Wayne university, the eventual Central winner, and Robinson of Drake and Bryant of Western State of Michigan made that time in heats. All other winners were clocked in 6.3

Performances Compared.

Here are how the performances at the various meets compare:

440 YARD DASH—Big Ten, 49.8, by Birleson, Michigan; C. I. C., 50.6; Southern, 52.4; Big Six, 52.6; Midwest, 53.6.

880 YARD RUN—C. I. C., 1:56.3, by Woodruff, Pittsburgh; Big Ten, 1:56.6; Big Six, 1:59; Southern, 2:02.3; Midwest, 2:04.

MILE RUN—Big Ten, 4:12.9, by Fenske, Wisconsin; C. I. C., 4:16.2 [meet record by Rice, Notre Dame]; I. C. 4-A, 4:20.5; Southern, 4:24.5; Midwest, 4:27 [Archie San Romani, Emporia Teachers]; Big Six, 4:30.8.

TWO MILE RUN—Big Ten, 9:19.7, by Lash, Indiana; C. I. C., 9:24; Southern, 9:30.4; I. C. 4-A, 9:36.5; Big Six, 10:00.3; Midwest, 10:13.2.

BOXERS BEAR DOWN

Chicago's Golden Glovers, now in the midst of their training activities for the tenth annual intercity bouts with New York a week from Wednesday night at the Stadium, put in another busy session yesterday at the Illinois Athletic club. With the exception of two boys, Nate Bolden and Louis Angelucci, all boxed two rounds. The program started at 2:30 and lasted for two hours before Coaches John Behr and Freddie Caserio called a halt.

"The condition of the squad is most pleasing," Behr said after the workouts. "I don't believe Chicago ever has had a squad which started work in better shape. The team also has excellent spirit and all the boys are willing to follow directions."

Jimmy Urso, hard hitting flyweight champion from Detroit, impressed spectators yesterday with his punching. H. P. Davis, the Chattanooga, Tenn., high school boy who is striving for the position of runner-up in the featherweight division, has been the surprise of the training period. His punching has been far more accurate than when he competed in the Tournament of Champions. William Joyce, the featherweight champion, eliminated Davis in the semi-finals, but in recent practice sessions Davis has held his own with Joyce.

Clayton Johnson, of Sioux City, Ia., is the other featherweight on the squad and the immediate foe Davis must outpoint in order to compete against New York.

This probably will be the last day that Golden Gloves tickets will be on sale. There are a few $2.20 seats remaining for the intercity bouts. It is expected these will be sold to day.

ST. GEORGE WINS, 39-22, TO TAKE 3D IN C. Y. O. MEET

St. George [Lithuanian] heavyweight team routed the St. Mary of the Lake five, 39 to 22, yesterday to take third place in the Catholic Youth organization basketball competition. The game was one of three played at Queen of Angels gym before a capacity crowd.

In the lightweight division St. Valentine [Cicero] defeated St. Dorothy, 23 to [illegible] in two overtime periods. In the girls' class, Immaculate Conception whipped Resurrection, 22 to 13.

Fifty Clubs Entered in Crow Hunt

BY BOB BECKER.

More than 50 clubs or groups have enrolled in the Illinois crow hunting contest that starts tomorrow under the auspices of the Illinois department of conservation. The contest will close May 31. The department is offering clubs and individuals game birds as prizes, the birds to be released by the winners in the outdoors to improve the hunting of areas close to the club or group that is judged a winner in the contest.

With Illinois' crow population far in excess of normal, with the result that the birds are injuring farmers' crops and destroying game and song bird nests, the department of conservation has inaugurated this contest to induce sportsmen to hunt crows and thus be a genuine help in the control of the big black birds. The first prize in the contest is 100 quail or pheasants.

Erio Gives Report.

A letter from Pete J. Erio, acting inspector, Illinois department of conservation, gives the following report on entries in the crow hunting contest:

"Already more than 50 clubs have enrolled in the contest and 37 counties are represented. We also have entries from many individual hunters. The contest will start March 16, and the first count of crow feet from birds that have been shot will be made April 1." [There are prizes to be awarded about every two weeks in addition to the final grand prizes.]

Still Time to Enter.

All rod and gun clubs, conservation groups, or others who wish to enter this contest still have time to enter if they act today. Simply mail a postcard to Pete Erio, department of conservation, Springfield, Ill., at once so the entry will be received officially by tomorrow. There is no entry fee.

PETE LELLO AIMS AT 17TH STRAIGHT VICTORY TONIGHT

Fights Wesley Martin at Marigold Gardens.

Pete Lello, potential contender for Lou Ambers' lightweight championship, tonight will try for his seventeenth consecutive victory in an eight round bout with Wesley [Kid] Martin of Akron, O., at Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street.

In previous performances, especially against Carl Fasnaugh, whom he conquered at Marigold March 1, Pete displayed boxing finesse, but no knockout wallop. This apparent weakness has caused the Gary, Ind., fighter to lose followers. He will seek to regain these lost backers tonight.

Max Zona, Chicago Heights heavyweight, will fight Bernie Bowman in the eight round supporting bout. Zona takes the place of Art Oliver, who suffered side and shoulder injuries in a mishap at his place of employment last week.

Tommy Howell, Danville, Ill., junior welterweight, will be in quest of his fourth straight triumph in a five round supplementary contest against Nick Peters, aggressive San Antonio, Tex., battler.

Milton Spitz Is Perfectly Normal Except in Football Season—He's Illinois' No. 1 Rooter

This is the sixth of a series of articles on fans who make up the backbone of the sporting public. The seventh will appear tomorrow.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Milton Spitz.

But give him a whiff of autumn weather and a look at a coonskin coat and he's as skittish as a fire horse at the smell of smoke.

He was exposed to the disease twenty years ago when as a little fellow from Chicago, five feet tall and weighing less than 120 pounds he arrived on the University of Illinois campus and headed directly for Coach Bob Zuppke's office.

Finds Himself a Regular —on the Bench!

By the time he was a junior the young Chicagoan found himself a regular on the Illinois bench. It wasn't his job to do any open field running, to toss any passes, nor to rip holes in the opponents' defense.

He was out there to keep track of players' numbers and time-outs for Zuppke and to be bitten by the germ which later caused this violent case of football fanaticism.

Except on week-ends during the football season you'll find this dynamic little fellow, who is Milton Spitz, brother of Leo Spitz, president of RKO, sitting at a desk in his office at 633 Plymouth court directing the operations of a printing plant, a number of motion picture theaters, and a string of grocery stores.

No use asking where Milt Spitz is on a football week-end. He's big game hunting, be it in Los Angeles, New York, Minneapolis, or any one of a dozen other cities.

When two or more big games conflict his brother comes to the rescue with private showings of news reels which picture the games Milt has had to miss.

Milt Spitz can tell you play by play about every important game Illinois has played in the last 20 years.

If you want to know all about Red Grange's flaming career, go down on Plymouth court and let Milt Spitz tell you about it. He never missed a college game in which Grange played. Furthermore he can take his pen in hand, gaze admiringly up at a large picture of Red which hangs on the wall of his office and diagram every move Grange made in his immortal five touchdown performance against Michigan in 1924.

He can do the same for every touchdown Grange made from that very first one against Nebraska in 1923.

Notre Dame Next in His Favor.

Next to his alma mater, Spitz roots loudest for Notre Dame. He can thrill you with his play by play memory account of the Notre Dame-Southern California games in 1927 and 1929. When he gets to the point where Saunders ran around Jack Elder for a kickoff touchdown in 1929 —look out! Likely as not Milt will come hurtling through the air at you in a flying tackle. Grab your hat, especially if it is a bowler, when he starts to describe some of Carideo's kicks. Otherwise, Milt is likely to drop kick it right out of the window.

A sample of Spitz' football activity during an average season can be had from his 1935 schedule.

He opened the season with Illinois at Southern California. He wound it up in New York when Notre Dame played the Army. In between he made stops at Pittsburgh, Champaign, South Bend, Ann Arbor, Columbus, and Minneapolis.

It got so that when his train hesitated a moment too long at a station, on the observation platform he would be, with the unconscious query, "Is there a football game here today?"

Lucianas Win to Square Windy City Title Playoff

The Lucania Indians squared the Windy City basketball championship playoff series at a victory apiece when they beat the Rivals, 38 to 22, last night at the 132d Regiment armory. The two teams will meet in the deciding game Tuesday night at St. Philip gym. Willie Phillips and Ed Campion, who played with the De Paul university quintet this season, were outstanding for the Indians. Between them they scored eighteen points.

Olympias Tie Maccabees in Soccer, 1 to 1

BY OFFSIDE.

The Olympias and the Maccabees tied with one goal each yesterday at the Olympia stadium in a Chicago Professional league soccer match. A strong wind favored the Olympias in the first period, but they failed to follow up several chances to score.

The second half gave the Maccabees the edge and after 15 minutes Lillie beat Kratochvil, Olympias' goalie, from a cross by Molvie. The Olympias tied it up in 10 minutes, Petrik netting from a rebound from the goalkeeper.

The German-Americans defeated the Vikings, 6 to 3, in the major division of the International to increase their lead in the league.

GRIMM SENDS CUBS TO CHURCH, THEN TO WORK

Worries About Demaree Are Over.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Avalon, Cal., March 14.—Manager Charley Grimm put the Chicago Cubs to work today just as soon as church let out.

To make sure he would not get in bad with the several pastors on the island Charley obtained a limousine and personally chauffered different groups to different places of worship.

The squad now has progressed to the place where Skipper Charley is beginning to make serious appraisals. And honest ones, too, for he is not trying to say that the kids who

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Opening Day Lineup.

Charley can tell you his opening day lineup now and about how hard all the rookies excepting Outfielder Joe Marty have to work for their assignments.

Mr. Grimm's anxiety over Frank Demaree's sore head ended today. After watching the erstwhile holdout work throughout part of yesterday's drill and through all of today's program, Charley opined that Frank looks even better than usual at this stage of the season and that he is confident that his leading hitter lost no physical assets while nursing injuries received when his auto did a flip.

The Cub boss has had several clubhouse meetings in which he has delivered very pointed lectures both on baseball subjects and on attitude and conduct. Now a bench manager with no comeback ambitions, Charley is trying to reform. It's hard for the guy to be tough and he probably never will be a master disciplinarian.

More Time for Managing.

But he has told the lads some things they thought he never had noticed. Most of them appear to realize that the skipper will have a lot of additional time for managing this year, time he used last year dueling with lumbago.

Getting back to the matter of Grimm's certainty about things opening day, it may be said that the most important thing will be shifting Augie Galan back to left field, the position in which he starred in 1935. Last year, it will be recalled, Augie played center and was pretty much of a flop.

Marty is scheduled to play center, the position he held down so creditably in San Francisco. Demaree will continue in right field.

Beginning Wednesday an intramural game will be played every day the Cubs are on Catalina.

ZALE CAPTURES 30 LAP MIDGET AUTO FEATURE

Wally Zale, central states outdoor champion, won the 30 lap feature of the midget auto racing card last night at the 124th Field Artillery armory in a driving duel with Duke Nalon, who was a close second. His time was 6:51. Third place went to Harry MacQuinn, while Ted Tetterton was fourth and Paul Russo fifth.

Russo won the 15 lap handicap, in which the fastest cars started in the rear.

FIRST ELIMINATION RACE, 12 LAPS—Won by Wally Zale; Ted Tetterton, second; Duke Nalon, third. Time, 2:46.

SECOND ELIMINATION RACE, 12 LAPS—Won by Paul Russo; Harry MacQuinn, second; Shorty Sorenson, third. Time, 2:47.

SOUTH BEND AND GARY FIVES LOSE IN A. A. U. MEET

Denver, Colo., March 14.—(AP)—A field goal in the final 30 seconds of an overtime period gave the Mohawks of Amsterdam, N. Y., a 34 to 33 victory over a scrappy quintet from Cowley, Wyo., and provided a thrilling opening for the men's National A. A. U. basketball tournament here today.

The well-touted Bendix quintet of South Bend, Ind., was defeated by the American Beauties of Denver, 43 to 34. The tall Beauties, a City league circuit not expected to go further than the first round, trailed at the half, 21 to 18, but tied at 27 all after nine minutes of the last period. Denver never trailed again and in the closing minutes poured in baskets as the Indiana players wilted.

West Texas Teachers of Canyon, with individual heights like high water readings, smothered Adams Normal of Alamosa, Colo., 62 to 24. A little, speedy quintet from Oberlin, Kas., turned in a 44 to 34 victory over the Rapid City, S. D., Elks.

The Eckers of Salt Lake City beat the Club Sar of Gary, Ind., 37 to 35.

Giants Defeat Cardinals, 5-4, in Ten Innings

HAVANA, March 14.—(AP)—The New York Giants defeated the St. Louis Cardinals, 5 to 4, in ten innings today in the final of their two game exhibition series here. A crowd of 15,000, the largest ever to see a baseball game in Tropical stadium, attended.

Tommy Thevenow.

Trailing 4 to 2 going into the ninth, the Giants pushed over two runs to tie the score, then won with one out in the tenth when Les Powers, rookie first baseman, scored from third on Tommy Thevenow's fly to center.

St. Louis [N.]....000 112 000 0—4 10 5

Batteries—P. Dean, Winford, Weiland, Andrews and Chervinko; Hubbell, Fitzsimmons, Gumbert, Meketi and Danning.

FELLER PITCHES INNING.

New Orleans, La., March 14.—(AP)—Bob Feller, the Cleveland Indians' schoolboy pitcher, worked for one inning today as the Indians defeated the New Orleans Pelicans, 11 to 0.

Feller pitched the first inning and retired three men in order, striking out the last one. Feller and three other Indians pitchers held the pelicans to two hits. Score:

Cleveland ....501 011 21*—11 15 0

YANKEES, 8; BEES, 1.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 14.—(AP)—The New York Yankees whipped the Boston Bees, 8 to 1, today for their second straight exhibition victory over their National league rivals.

Although limited to eight hits, the world champions followed their usual custom of staging two big scoring innings. They pushed three runs across in the first on a pair of hits, a walk and Bill Urbanski's error and sent three more over in the eighth on one hit, two passes and Vince Di Maggio's fumble.

BOWL GAMES.

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., March 14.—Indignation is expressed freely here and in Georgia at recent action of the Southeastern conference outlawing "bowl" football games conducted by outside organizations—except the Rose bowl at Pasadena and Sugar bowl at New Orleans. Criticism is directed chiefly at discrimination.

On that basis, criticism appears warranted from what facts we can gather. The conference, on the other hand, replies that all post-season bowl games will be eliminated in due time.

Once designation by the Pacific conference to represent the far west in the annual gridiron classic at Pasadena on New Year's day as champion of that section was a great honor. Similarly invitation by the eleven named to an eastern or southern team to compete against it was eagerly sought. To many faculties and athletic managements, gate receipts of $60,000 to $90,000 for participating teams assuaged qualms, if any, over wisdom of such contests long after the normal season closed.

Prestige of Rose bowl victory, if not attendance nor gate receipts, has waned considerably in recent years. It is still a great and colorful spectacle but not a championship affair. This is, in part, because the Big Ten, Notre Dame [which formerly accepted invitations], and the so-called Big Three of Yale, Harvard, and Princeton, have formal or tacit inhibitions against these games. Consequently, the accepted best eleven in the country often is not eligible.

Furthermore, other cities saw commercial advantages as well as sports advantages in promoting bowl games and an epidemic of "bowls" followed—this last season in particular, with more planned for next winter. Atlanta, Ga., is listed among latest aspirants, hence resentment at recent Southeastern conference action.

From a gridiron viewpoint, post-season games of this nature are meaningless. They take place so long after the season is over, they often do not reflect even relative strength of the competing teams. As spectacles for the public or as interesting events, they have definite status.

The Wake considers the question one of policy—for the colleges themselves to decide. It involves the question of overemphasis or how long a college wishes to prolong its football season. In the far west and south, where more moderate climate prevails, objection would seem less marked.

W. A. CUNNEA SR. DEAD; SOCIALIST LEADER, LAWYER

Heart Attack Ends Life During Florida Visit.

William A. Cunnea Sr., lawyer and veteran Socialist leader in Chicago, died suddenly of a heart attack at Lake Worth, Fla., late Saturday night, according to belated word received by friends here last night. Mr. Cunnea was 69 years old. He had seemed to be in fair health and was vacationing in Florida.

W. A. Cunnea Sr.

His body is being brought home and funeral services will be held at 9 a. m. Wednesday from the residence, 3708 West 62d place, to St. Nicholas of Tolentine church, Lawndale avenue and 62d street. Burial will be in Mount Olivet cemetery.

Fights Hard to Be Prosecutor.

From the start of his political career until only a few years ago Mr. Cunnea was a frequent campaigner for public office ranging from the city council to the mayoralty. But it was in his fights for the office of state's attorney that he made himself felt. Mr. Cunnea was a seasoned and hard campaigner.

Born in Bangor, fourteen miles from Belfast, Ireland, he came to Chicago in 1884. He had studied at St. Mary's college in Belfast, but yearning for more education he attended the Metropolitan Business college here and then attended Northwestern university law school. He was admitted to the bar at 21.

In his early years he was a Democrat. As such he ran for alderman in 1899. A few years later he turned Socialist, and that he remained to his death. In 1912 he made his first determined bid for the state's attorney's office against Maclay Hoyne. The latter won by only 5,000 votes, according to a recount. He ran for the same office again in 1916, but was defeated once more. The story was the same in a third attempt in 1920.

In 1923 Mr. Cunnea ran for mayor in the fight between William E. Dever and Arthur C. Lueder, Dever winning. In this contest Mr. Cunnea was aided by the late Eugene V. Debs, national Socialist leader, who delivered several campaign speeches. Mr. Cunnea's last campaign for office was in 1932, when he ran for state's attorney on the Farmer-Labor ticket. In addition to these trys he ran in his earlier years for county judge and municipal judge.

He was an eloquent speaker. He advocated municipal ownership, 5 cent traction fares, and cheaper utility rates.

His wife, the former Mary McIlherne, died in 1933. Surviving are six sons, Joseph, Frank, James, William, John, Thomas, and two daughters, Isabel and Margaret.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

Conserve Wood Crop

March 14, 1937.

SCARCITY of timber in northern Illinois has encouraged men on THE TRIBUNE'S Wheaton experimental farm to give increasing attention to the farm's wood crop in recent years. They try to grow as many as possible of the fence posts, rails, and other building materials needed each year about the place. None of the timber is sold, yet the woodlots make a definite annual "return" by producing many things that the farm would otherwise need to buy.

A small sawmill was installed last year—one that can be operated with an ordinary farm tractor. With the aid of the mill the men are able to make full use of every tree that is cut. The trunks are sawed into boards or rails and the slabs and tops are cut up with a portable buzz saw for fire wood.

Means of Great Saving.

Experience at the farm has shown that a substantial saving in timber can be made by the proper use of wood as fuel. Burning split cord wood is usually a waste because split tree trunks do not make as good a fire as round sticks cut from tops and branches or as stumps, which contain more heat units than the rest of the trunk, according to men at the farm. Since the sawmill has been installed, all trunk timber that is cut is made into lumber, leaving a valuable by-product of slabs, tops, and stumps for fuel.

Recently the sawmill has been used for making fence rails. The men find that they can get more rails out of a given cut by sawing it than by splitting the rails in the customary way. And the work can be done much faster. Since the rails do not need to be squared up to any exact shape or size, practically the entire log is utilized. Only one thin slab is taken from a log. This is to give the sawyer a smooth surface to serve as a guide in sawing the log into sections that are then ripped into rails.

Suggest "Sawmill Rings."

The old time sawmills, once common along the streams and other timbered areas in this region, have practically disappeared since most of the virgin forests have been cut away. Not many communities in Illinois have a custom mill where farmers may take logs and have them sawed into lumber. There is none near the Wheaton farm.

This place has a larger acreage of timber than the average farm in the northern part of the state. It is doubtful whether owning and operating even a small sawmill would be practical on most farms, but neighborhood sawmill rings similar to the present threshing rings might offer a solution for farmers who are not getting full value from their woodlots because of the difficulty in getting logs sawed into lumber.

Slightly Injured

Louis Dominick, 24 years old, 1153 Hudson avenue [Townsend street], a special delivery messenger of the Chestnut street postal station, delivered a letter at 677 North Clark street yesterday and when he returned to the street he saw a thief starting to drive away in his parked car. Louis made a flying leap and landed on the front bumper, where he clung by grasping the radiator grills, although the driver swerved the car and drove over curbs in an effort to dislodge him.

As the car swung from Clark westward into Erie street, Policemen William Dwyer and Peter Hayes gave chase in a squad car, firing two shots at the tires of the speeding car. At La Salle street the car crashed into another driven by Harry Miller, 1515 Thorndale avenue, slightly injuring Dominick. The driver of Dominick's car surrendered and identified himself as Walter Krubert, 24 years old, 2120 South Pulaski road.

Edward E. Parker Funeral Services to Be Held Today

Funeral services for Edward E. Parker, 10742 South Seeley avenue, retired employé of the city collector's office, will be held at 2 p. m. today in the chapel at 1971 West 111th street. Mr. Parker, who was 78 years old, died at his home on Thursday.

INQUEST TODAY TO STUDY DEATH OF DR. SQUIRES

An inquest will be held this morning into the death of Dr. Benjamin M. Squires, nationally known industrial arbitrator and economist, whose body was found on the floor of the bedroom in his home at 7315 South Shore drive Saturday night. A bottle of a sleeping drug, with only three tablets remaining in it, was found in the room.

Illness from a stomach ailment had been hampering Dr. Squires' activities as arbitrator for the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America in this market area. It was learned in South Bend, Ind., last night that in the three days he was there illness prevented him from settling disputed points for 1,800 newly unionized employés. He returned home Saturday night.

The widow, Margaret, told police that Dr. Spuires had been taking sedatives recently. They had four children, Benjamin Jr., Mark, Mary, and Barbara.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at the chapel at 2700 East 75th street. Burial will be at Oak Woods cemetery.

Dr. Squires received wide publicity as arbitrator of the cleaning and dyeing industry here from 1930 to 1933. These activities led to his being tried—and acquitted—with sixteen others on charges of racket conspiracy in 1934.

DR. ANDERSON, 55, DIES SUDDENLY IN SISTER'S HOME

Dr. August Anderson, physician and surgeon and a veteran of two wars, died suddenly of a heart attack yesterday in the home of his sister, Mrs. E. Robert Larson, at 6610 Newgard avenue. He was 55 years old.

Dr. Anderson, who for the last eight years had been flight surgeon for the department of commerce in Chicago, was widely known among former service men. A native Chicagoan, he enlisted at 17 in the old 1st infantry of the Illinois National Guard and saw service in the Spanish-American war. He was a lieutenant commander in the medical corps of the navy during the world war. Services will be held Wednesday afternoon in the chapel at 3173 North Clark street.

Burial Rites Tomorrow for Mrs. Ruth Delafield

New York, March 14.—[Special.]—Funeral services will be held Tuesday at the Church of the Heavenly Rest for Mrs. Ruth Manierre Delafield, former head of the Junior League here and divorced wife of Lewis L. Delafield Jr., who died Saturday of a self-inflicted bullet wound in the head. Burial will be in Woodlawn cemetery. Mrs. Delafield, 38 years old, was found mortally wounded Wednesday in her apartment at 1185 Park avenue, where she resided with her mother and two brothers.

FUNERAL SERVICES TO BE HELD TODAY FOR LOUIS WOLFF II.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon for Louis Wolff II., vice president and Chicago representative of the Crane Enamelware company of Chattanooga, Tenn. Mr. Wolff died Friday in his home at 438 Oakdale avenue. He was the son of Ludwig Wolff, founder of the L. Wolff Manufacturing company, pioneer Chicago makers of plumbing equipment.

Louis Wolff II.

Born here in 1874, Mr. Wolff attended Racine college in Wisconsin and the University of Chicago. He became a member of his father's firm, but about fifteen years ago transferred his interests to the Crane Enamelware company.

Surviving are a brother, Christian, and a sister, Mrs. Anna Hoelscher, both of Santa Barbara, Cal. His wife, the former Clementine Griffin, died last December. Funeral services will be conducted by William B. Warren Masonic lodge at Graceland cemetery chapel.

Sister Mary Donnellan of St. Mathias School Dies

Sister Mary Eleanor Donnellan, O. S. F., teacher of music and organist at St. Mathias parochial school and church, Claremont avenue and Ainslie street, died yesterday at St. Elizabeth's hospital. Sister Mary Eleanor, who was 32 years old, was stricken with pneumonia last Tuesday. She was the daughter of Mary and the late Thomas Donnellan and had been a member of the Order of St. Francis for fourteen years.

Solemn requiem high mass will be sung in St. Mathias church at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow, and on Wednesday the body will be taken to Milwaukee for burial in Mount Olivet cemetery.

U. S. STEEL HAS LARGEST PROFIT FOR SIX YEARS

Income Equals $2.91 Per Common Share.

Net income of the United States Steel corporation, nation's leading steel producer, in 1936 amounted to $50,583,356, the best results since 1930, according to the annual report of the corporation and subsidiaries issued last night by Chairman Myron C. Taylor.

The earnings for the year after regular dividend requirements of $25,219,677 on the 7 per cent preferred stock were equal to $2.91 a share on the common stock. In addition the company paid $25,219,677 on preferred accumulations in 1936, leaving a surplus of $144,002.

In 1935 the consolidated net income of $1,146,708 was equal to 32 cents a share on the preferred and a deficit of $2.77 a share on the common, on which no dividends have been paid since 1932.

Still Has Back Dividends.

The company as of Dec. 31, 1936, still had accumulated dividends of $33,326,002 to pay on the preferred before payments could be made on the common stock. In 1930 the company earned $104,421,571.

Volume of business for all companies in 1936 amounted to $1,089,229,007, also the largest since 1930, and compared with $758,893,126 in the preceding year, an increase of $330,335,881.

"This improved showing in 1936 in comparison with 1935 arose primarily from an increase of substantially 47 per cent in the aggregate tonnage of rolled and finished products shipped and which permitted the better employment and functioning of the various associated productive facilities of the organization," Taylor said in his report to stockholders.

"No part of the increased income," he continued, "came from higher prices, which for the year 1936 averaged somewhat lower [1.9 per cent] than were received on an equivalent tonnage of similar products in the previous year."

Steel Production Increases.

Production last year of rolled and finished steel products for sale reached a total of 11,029,616 tons, an increase of 3,555,403 tons, or 47.6 per cent, over 1935.

"Although the 1936 tonnage reflects activity greater than in any year since 1930," Taylor said, "it still falls short by approximately 19 per cent of reaching the average annual volume attained in the five year period 1926 to 1930.

"It is of interest to observe in commenting on the better tonnage volume of 1936 that the improvement has come about through a regularly advancing volume of orders, the expansion being identified more prominently and definitly than in recent years in those classes of steel products which commonly are referred to as durable or capital goods."

Total Assets Show Increase.

The company's taxes for 1936 totaled $52,895,412, an increase of $14,320,402 over the $38,575,009 for 1935. The 1936 tax bill included provision for surtax of $215,544 on undistributed profits.

Total assets of the corporation and subsidiaries increased from $1,822,401,741 in 1935 to $1,863,976,519 at the close of 1936. Current assets on Dec. 31, 1936, amounted to $485,166,359, including cash of $81,393,010, against current liabilities of $103,557,710. At the close of 1935 current assets were $453,183,539, with cash of $83,637,732, against current liabilities of $69,531,148.

Edison Meets Challenge of Peoples Gas

The Commonwealth Edison company last night answered the challenge of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company's entry into the electric power field by announcing an aggressive drive for the sale of electric ranges. The company has not attempted to develop this business heretofore.

The campaign is the first challenge to the almost complete domination of the cooking field by Peoples Gas. It will be pressed aggressively by electric appliance dealers and department, furniture and hardware stores in coöperation with the Edison company.

Hint Active Competition.

Coupled with the move of Peoples Gas to cut into Edison's practical monopoly on electric power in Chicago by sale of gas internal combustion engines to generate power for industrial and commercial use, the Edison announcement serves to emphasize the changes that have occurred since the management and directorates of the two big local utilities were divorced a year ago. The nominal and friendly state of competition between the two former sister companies appears definitly ended.

The new electric rate schedule placed in effect late in 1936, reducing the cost of cooking by electricity, and improvements in range design which have made ranges faster in operation than ever before have made the campaign possible, the Edison company claims.

Electric Rate Lowered.

Rates for all residential consumers now are 2 cents per kilowatt-hour on all electricity used in excess of 100 kilowatt hours per month, compared with a previous low of 3 cents. Based on estimates of average requirements of 100 to 125 kilowatt-hour per month for a modern electric range, Edison officials place the cost of cooking by electricity at $2 to $2.50 a month for customers already using 100 kilowatt-hours per month.

The Edison company has established a dealer coöperation department and a range installation bureau to assist retailers in various phases of the campaign. The company also is launching the sales drive with newspaper promotional advertising.

7 BIG DOUGLAS PLANES ORDERED BY AM. AIRLINES

An order for seven additional large Douglas air liners has been placed with the Douglas Aircraft company by American Airlines, Inc., C. R. Smith, president of the transportation company, announced yesterday. They will cost $750,000.

Smith said seven of the new ships will be 21 passenger club planes and four will be air sleepers, providing berths for 14 and licensed to carry 28 passengers.

Business Bits

Charles A. Burns, with the First National Bank of Chicago since 1931, has been elected a vice president of the Sears-Community State bank and will assume his new duties today, J. Louis Kohn, president of the bank, which is the banking affiliate of Sears, Roebuck & Co., announced last night. Burns has been in the banking field for thirty years, starting with the Indiana Bank and Trust company of Rochester, Ind.

Ralph Budd, president of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad company, will be the guest speaker at a luncheon at the Palmer House next Thursday, March 18. His talk will open the two day session of the second annual conference of the central states group of the Investment Bankers' Association of America.

Sydney H. Jenkins, recently with Harrison, O'Gara & Co., has become associated with Ericson, Nicholas & Robbins, Inc.

SPRING WHEAT WILL BE A LARGE MARKET FACTOR

Represents Quarter of Total Crop.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

As the season for seeding the spring wheat crop approaches the conditions affecting the outlook for the crop are attracting more market attention. Up to now the calculations of probable wheat production this year have been based largely on the winter crop. While the final outcome of the latter is still uncertain, interest in the prospects over the northwestern spring producing belt is growing.

Some astute crop authorities have warned that there is a general tendency to anticipate another crop failure this season merely because the country has experienced a series of poor crops. The results of recent years foster a pessimistic attitude.

Scarcity Not Anticipated.

In this connection it may be recalled that only a few years ago the possibility of a condition of recurring scarcity was regarded as fantastic. Yet in the course of a few years the unprecedented surplus of wheat which had been accumulated in this country and elsewhere has been whittled down to a point where reserve supplies now are being consumed. The scarcity of wheat today is an acute problem throughout the world.

It is not likely that the United States or the wheat producing countries generally will soon have a wheat surplus of the size that existed six years ago, but it is possible that the cycle of lean production that this country has passed through may be nearing an end. Price alone is an important factor in stimulating production, as evidenced by the record planting of winter wheat last fall.

Spring Wheat Crop Doubtful.

While the high price level may be counted on to encourage producers of spring wheat to increase acreage, the fate of the crop is not predictable. At the present time there is reported to be a lack of subsoil moisture in the northwest, both in the United States and the adjacent Canadian territory. Over the belt as a whole, however, there is said to be sufficient surface soil moisture to give the new crop a start with its further development dependent on future weather conditions.

Spring wheat production over a period of years has roughly amounted to one-quarter of national production. In seasons when there has been a failure in either the spring or winter wheat areas this ratio has been upset, but it has been fairly uniform.

Noah and the Futures Market.

"Webster," writes Mrs. A. N. G., "defines 'futures' as 'things bought or sold for delivery at a future time, especially in speculation, as in grains, provisions, and stocks.' Will you please explain to me what futures are?"

Speculation in commodities is centered in the futures market. They are so called because the transactions are not made in the actual commodity but in contracts to deliver or accept the commodity at a specified time in the future. In the grain market speculators usually have the option of trading in several futures—at present May, September, and December. This means they must accept or deliver the amount of grain they have contracted for during these delivery months. In cotton, six delivery months are usually on the trading boards at one time.

Now, how do futures operate? Assume that you believe crop conditions warant a rise in wheat prices. You have no desire to own any wheat, but think you can make money by speculating. You purchase a "round lot," or 5,000 bushels, of, let us say, the July future.

Your purchase is made at $1.25 a bushel. Between now and July 1 the price moves to $1.40 a bushel. You have a paper profit of 15 cents a bushel, or a total of $750. But you do not want the grain. You sell your 5,000 bushels, pay your broker a commission of $12.50 for the whole transaction, and pocket $737.50. Had you waited until after July 1, when the contract became "deliverable," the person who had sold you the wheat could deliver, and under the terms of your contract you would be forced to accept it.

A similar process prevails for short sales. In this instance you sell 5,000 bushels, guaranteeing to deliver to the seller that amount when the delivery month arrives. This you must do, or buy in an equal amount of futures before July 1 to close out your contract.

RESERVE OPEN MARKET GROUP TO MEET TODAY

Washington, D. C., March 14.—(AP)—Federal reserve officials reported today the reserve system's open market committee will meet tomorrow for its annual election of an executive committee. They said the meeting was called before heavy selling developed last Friday in the government bond market and forecast that no action looking to the support of government bonds would be taken.

It was indicated, however, that the committee would survey bond market conditions.

The open market group has charge of the reserve board activities in the purchase and sale of government obligations. Informed authorities have predicted it would buy federal obligations to check any sharp break in the market. Reserve officials have described Friday's liquidation movement as a temporary flurry brought on by psychological factors rather than any fundamental weakness in the market.

Hudson February Sales Largest in Seven Years

Retail sales of Hudson and Terraplane cars for February were 9,726, the highest figure in seven years, and 60 per cent higher than for February, 1936, the Hudson Motor Car company announced yesterday.

WESTERN ELECTRIC'S EARNINGS CLIMB AS BUSINESS IMPROVES

Sharp improvement in business of the Western Electric company, large Chicago manufacturing subsidiary of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, was disclosed in the company's annual report, issued yesterday by Edgar S. Bloom, president. Western Electric is 99.42 per cent owned by American Telephone.

Net earnings for the year soared to $18,698,049, compared with $2,620,279 for 1935 and losses totaling $34,100,000 for the preceding three year period. The return on investment—the relation of earnings available for interest and dividends to gross assets less current liabilities—was 7.7 per cent, against 1.9 per cent in 1935.

Sales for 1936 totaled $146,421,000, against $105,417,000 a year earlier.

Bloom said that at the close of 1936 the company's plants were operating at 53 per cent of capacity, against 27 per cent at the start of the year. Employés numbered 34,004, compared with 21,033 a year earlier and 17,148 in June, 1933, the low point of the depression. The annual rate of pay increased from $44,365,000 at the start of the year to $61,511,000 at the year end, a gain of 38.6 per cent.

Senior Stock of Walgreen Offered Today

A new issue of Walgreen company preferred stock will be offered today. The 100,000 shares of $4.50 cumulative preferred will be offered at $101.50 a share by a group of investment dealers headed by Goldman, Sachs & Co.

Common stock purchase warants are attached which entitle the holder to purchase one share of common at $34 a share if exercised on or before Sept. 15, 1939, at $39 during the two years thereafter, and at $44 a share during the next two years. The warants will be nondetachable except in the event of redemption of the shares to which they are attached.

Old Holders Given Preference.

The underwriters are offering to holders of the $6.50 preferred stock a preferential opportunity, until 3 p. m. tomorrow, to purchase 40,837 shares of the $4.50 preferred in the ratio of one new share for each share held at the public offering price out of the proceeds of retirement of their $6.50 preferred.

Proceeds of the financing will be applied to the retirement at $113 a share and accrued dividends of the 40,837 shares of $6.50 cumulative preferred stock outstanding and to increase working capital. The amount to be added to working capital is estimated at about $5,200,000.

New Capitalization Shown.

Capitalization of the company, which has no funded debt, upon completion of the financing will consist of 100,000 shares of $4.50 cumulative preferred and 1,292,791 shares of common stock outstanding of 2,000,000 authorized.

The San Antonio Joint Stock Land bank, San Antonio, Tex., last night called for redemption all of its 5 per cent coupon and registered bonds, due April 1, 1956, amounting to $1,067,000.

ANACONDA WIRE PROFIT FOR YEAR $5.42 PER SHARE

New York, March 14.—[Special.]—Profits on manufacturing operations of the Anaconda Wire and Cable company subsidiaries for 1936 were $4,759,153, against $2,942,125 for 1935, according to the annual report issued today. After all expenses and charges, including depreciation and allowance for federal surtax on undistributed income, net profit for the year was $2,289,471, compared with $1,029,492 for the year before.

Earnings were equivalent to $5.42 each on 421,981 shares of capital stock outstanding, against $2.44 in 1935. Dividends of $4.50 were paid on each share in 1936.

STEEL OUTPUT CLIMBS TO NEW PEAK SINCE 1929

Higher Prices Fail to Check Demand.

Steel production in the United States advanced one point last week to 87 per cent of theoretical capacity, again setting a new high since 1929, the magazine Steel reported yesterday. Higher prices have had no effect on demand, and delivery is the only factor regarded as important by buyers, according to the magazine.

Scarcely any unsold steel is available for delivery before May 1, and some deliveries were contracted for last week as far in advance as September, although most delivery dates are for June and July.

Prices of finished steel products are expected to continue to rise in order to cover increased costs of material due to recent advances in ore and pig iron.

Lake Superior Ore Advanced.

Lake Superior ore has been advanced 45 cents a ton over the price which had prevailed unchanged for the last eight years. This will cover the increase of 10 cents per ton in the vessel carrying rate and heavier taxes and labor costs of mining companies. Tonnage movement of ore this year will probably be close to the all-time record, Steel said.

Prices on steel from warehouse were increased as much as $10 to $12 a ton in some items to cover advances in mill prices and also to compensate for various added expenses, including larger capital investment and higher labor costs.

Composite Price Rises.

Steel's iron and steel composite price rose 52 cents last week to $39.99, while the scrap composite advanced 79 cents to $20.91. The finished steel composite remained unchanged at $60.70.

The gains and the percentage rates of operation in the various steel districts throughout the country were: Pittsburgh, up 1 point to 89 per cent of capacity; Chicago, up 1½ points to 82½; Youngstown, up 1 point to 85; Cincinnati, up 4 points to 68; eastern Pennsylvania, up ½ point to 57½. Cleveland showed a loss of 1½ points at 78 per cent, and Detroit lost 5 points to 95. No changes were made at Buffalo, at 90; Birmingham, at 77; New England, at 97; Wheeling, at 96, and St. Louis at 82.

This announcement is neither an offer to sell, nor a solicitation of offers to buy, any of these securities. The offering is made only by the Prospectus.

WIDE VARIETY OF EVENTS PUTS WALL ST. IN FOG

Conflicting Actions Slow Up Trade in Stocks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 14.—Sentiment in Wall street was further befuddled last week by a series of conflicting developments in the fields of politics, finance, and industry. On the one hand there were the usual batch of earnings statistics and other indices of continued business recovery and a fresh outburst of inflation talk resulting from the commodity price boom and the crackup in high grade government bonds to encourage further operations for the advance on the stock exchange.

On the other, there were disquieting hints of impending new governmental curbs on speculation and a growing seriousness in the labor strike movement to bespeak caution and a curtailment of commitments.

Foreign Events Cause Concern.

The French franc situation, with its implications of a repatriation of French capital in connection with the defense loan flotation, continued to puzzle and developments in the frenzied worldwide armament race gave concern.

As a result the share market was torn by cross-currents throughout the week. The extension of the sitdown strike movement to the Chrysler plants upset the list rather sharply on Monday, but prices rallied on Tuesday and made some fresh headway on Wednesday. Selling gained the upper hand on Thursday again, however, and the decline held through on steadily decreasing business volume for the remainder of the week, causing the averages to finish more than 4 points below their closing level for the preceding week.

Industrial Shares Decline.

Industrials, the star performers of the broad forward movement, were appropriately enough the big losers on the week, the 25 representative issues used in compiling THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE's index suffering an average decline of 5.68 points. Eight utilities receded nearly 3 points, while the rails, so lately returned to favor with traders, bore up so stoutly that the 25 issues of the index compilation lost considerably less than a point on the five and one-half trading sessions.

Columbian Carbon Shows $4,021,137 Profit for 1936

Columbian Carbon corporation reported for 1936 net profit of $4,021,137, equal to $7.48 a share of capital stock, against $2,992,860, or $5.56 a share, in 1935. The company has plants throughout the country.

Nu-Enamel Corporation.

Investors' Guide: For some time I have been interested in Nu-Enamel. Is stock in this company for sale and is it quoted on any market?—Mrs. J. H. N.

Answer: The present Nu-Enamel corporation was formed in 1935 to take over a business established in 1931. It manufactures enamels, paints, varnishes, linoleum finish, stain, top dressing, wax, polish, and kindred lines. Sales are made through 300 Nu-Enamel stores and 2,500 other retail stores in the United States. Distribution also is obtained in 22 foreign countries. The company's plant is in Cleveland, O.

Stock was first offered to the public in October, 1936, when 100,000 shares were sold. Giving effect to this sale and payment of a 25 per cent stock dividend in September, there now are 300,000 shares outstanding. The stock is not listed. The company has no funded debt.

Net income of the present concern and its predecessor was $251,000 in 1934, $247,000 in 1935, and $199,000 in the first six months of 1936.

Current assets were $428,000 and current liabilities were $111,000 on June 30, 1936. Surplus was $355,000.

Cash dividends of 82½ cents a share were paid in 1936, and 75 cents was paid in 1935.

Northern States Power.

Investors' Guide: Will you kindly give me a report on Northern States Power 3½ per cent bonds of 1967? Are these bonds considered sound for investment?—E. M. I.

Answer: The Northern States Power company [Minn.] is an operating and holding company furnishing electric light and power and other utility services to Minneapolis, St. Paul, and nearly 500 other communities in Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Wisconsin, Iowa, and Illinois. It is owned by Northern States Power company [Del.] which is part of the Standard Gas and Electric company system.

The Minnesota company has earned its fixed charges by a comfortable margin consistently. Its bonds are sound. The coverage of interest charges should be made easier still by savings to result from the recently completed financing, in which $75,000,000 of first and refunding 3½s of 1967 and 275,000 shares of $5 dividend preferred stock were sold to retire old funded debts.

The only adverse factor a prospective purchaser of the bonds should face is the possibility that he may wish to sell before maturity at a time when money rates are higher than now and low interest securities may sell under par.

FIRESIDE CHAT BARES FEAR OF WILD INFLATION

Roosevelt May Need to Become Dictator.

So the President is in a dilemma. If he continues inflationary expenditures the people will be pinched by increased living costs. If he retrenches great groups of citizens will lose their subsidies. In either case he will suffer a loss of prestige, of popularity. And if runaway inflation gets a good start it will take dictatorial powers to cope with it. The judiciary program Mr. Roosevelt espouses would clothe him with such powers.

Some idea of the increase in prices is given by the bureau of labor statistics wholesale commodity index. For the week ended March 6 it was 86.1 per cent of the average for 1926. On March 7 a year ago this figure stood at 79.7.

Thus in the year it increased 6.4 points, or more than 7 per cent. This may not appear to be a substantial increase, but in the previous year there was virtually no increase, the index figure moving from 79.6 on March 9, 1935, to 79.7 on March 7, 1936.

Commodities Go Up.

More substantial increases than the general advance were reported by the bureau of labor statistics for the period between March 7, 1936, and March 6, 1937, for several classifications of commodities. Thus the index figure for wholesale prices of farm products advanced from 77.7 to 91.6; hides and lether, from 95.7 to 103.4; textile products, from 70.4 to 76.9; metals and metal products, from 86 to 92.2; building materials, from 85 to 94.1, and household furnishings from 82.7 to 89.6.

During the last week price advances continued, particularly for metals. Iron Age, publication of the steel industry, points out that the composite price of finished steel has risen 39 per cent from the low point of the recent depression. This compares with a rise of 44 per cent in 1922-'23 and 39 per cent in 1919-'20, both regarded as inflation periods. Finished steel prices have gone up about 25 per cent in the last year.

Kroger Grocery Sales Show Gain of 11 Per Cent

New York, March 14.—(AP)—Kroger Grocery and Baking company reported for the four weeks ended Feb. 27 sales of $19,468,987, compared with $17,535,336 for the like period of 1936, an increase of 11 per cent. For the first two four week periods of 1937 sales were $38,256,078, a gain of 11 per cent over the $34,349,138 reported for the same period of the preceding year.

SALES EXECUTIVES

Six high character men whose past experience qualifies them to efficiently handle diplomatically groups of our representatives and of customers who we will furnish and assign to them, we can place in inside executive positions on salary and commission basis.

We want men who are not afraid of work and who can guide others—men who have been accustomed to earning over $10,000 yearly in commissions. Real estate experience not necessary, but executive ability is essential.

We are about to officially open a sales campaign, to the public, of Citrus Groves NOW PRODUCING AND BEARING FRUIT in the MISSION and McALLEN heavy producing Citrus territory of Rio Grande Valley, Texas. Our customers will start with an INCOME THIS YEAR. A responsible Nursery Organization in Rio Grande Valley will insure yearly fruit crops for customers.

FIRST TIME public will be able to buy a practical producing citrus grove, an estate with an income, and receive income the year they buy. There is no competition on this type of an offering coupled with insurance of fruit crops.

This sales program will be backed up by an alive newspaper and radio campaign.

Apply in person with references Monday between 10 and 12 and 2 and 5 P. M.

REMINGTON-RAND, INC., SYSTEMS DIVISION, SALES TRAINING

has openings for a few men who have initiative and imagination. This is an opportunity to learn a business and to build an enviable future. Applications by letter will be received from men between 24-28 years for training to become salesmen in the system's division; sales experience is not necessary, but applicants should have 2 years of college at least, or business experience that is equivalent. Applicants will be trained to apply office equipment to customer's record requirements at a profit to the customer.

During 12 months of training, including one month in our factory, a small salary is paid; after completion of training, compensation is on a commission basis with small drawing account and an exclusive territory. The future will pay good dividends to the men who apply themselves to the training and are willing to work hard.

In your application, give your age, education, business experience, kind of work you have done, married or single, and whether or not you live at home. Men outside of Chicago may be assigned to our offices in neighboring states. Employment is permanent to men who demonstrate they can be successful. Applications MUST be by LETTER ONLY. Personal interviews will be arranged where qualifications meet our requirements. Address Branch Manager, Systems Division.

HOW YOU CAN BORROW.

1. If you can make monthly payments you can qualify for a loan.
2. Loans made on Furniture, Autos or Plain Note.
3. No inquiries made of employer or friends.

HOW YOU CAN REPAY.

1. Payments on all loans are small. For example, payments on a $200 loan are $10 per month plus interest charges on a 20 month schedule.
2. Monthly rate is 2% on the balance above $100. 3% on $100 or less. This is substantially less than the lawful maximum—on loans over $100.

LEGAL NOTICES.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

Sealed proposals will be received by the Board of Trustees of the University of Illinois on behalf of the University of Illinois at the office of the Physical Plant Department, 1853 West Polk Street, Chicago, Illinois, until 2:00 P. M. Central Standard Time, Friday, March 26, 1937, for the Lighting Fixture Work to be furnished and installed in the Medical and Dental College Building at the Southwest corner of Polk and Wood Streets, Chicago, at which time and place said bids will be publicly opened and read.

Instructions to bidders, form of proposal, plans and specifications, may be examined at the office of Granger and Bollenbacher, Architects, 333 North Michigan-avenue, Chicago, and copies may be obtained upon the deposit of $10.00. The amount of the deposit will be refunded to each bidder who returns the plans and documents in good condition within five [5] days after the opening of bids.

The University of Illinois hereby reserves the right to reject any or all bids, or to accept the one that in its judgment will be for the best interests of the University of Illinois, all subject to the approval of the State Director, Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works.

A certified check or Cashier's check made payable to the order of: The Board of Trustees, University of Illinois, in the amount of three per centum [3%] of the bid must be deposited by each bidder with his bid as a guarantee that in case the contract is awarded to him he will, within ten days thereafter on receipt of written notice of award, execute such contract and furnish a satisfactory performance bond. On failure to do so he shall forfeit the deposit as liquidated damages, and acceptance of the bid will be contingent upon the fulfillment of this requirement by the bidder. No bidder may withdraw his bid for a period of thirty days after date set for the opening thereof. The checks of all excepting the three lowest formal bidders will be returned within three days after the opening of bids, and the remaining checks will be returned when the State Director has approved the executed contract.

Each bidder in accordance with the specifications shall submit a Financial Statement properly filled in and attested to by a Notary Public or Clerk of the Court showing the solvency of the bidder.

This contract is to be financed wholly by a loan and grant by the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works and must be carried out in accordance with the "Rules and Regulations Relating to Applicants and Projects under the Emergency Relief Appropriation Act of 1935." P. W. A. Form No. 166 dated July 22nd, 1935.

All employees directly employed on this work shall be paid wages in no case less than the predetermined scale of wages. This scale of wages is in accordance with the P. W. A. Construction Regulations included in the specifications.

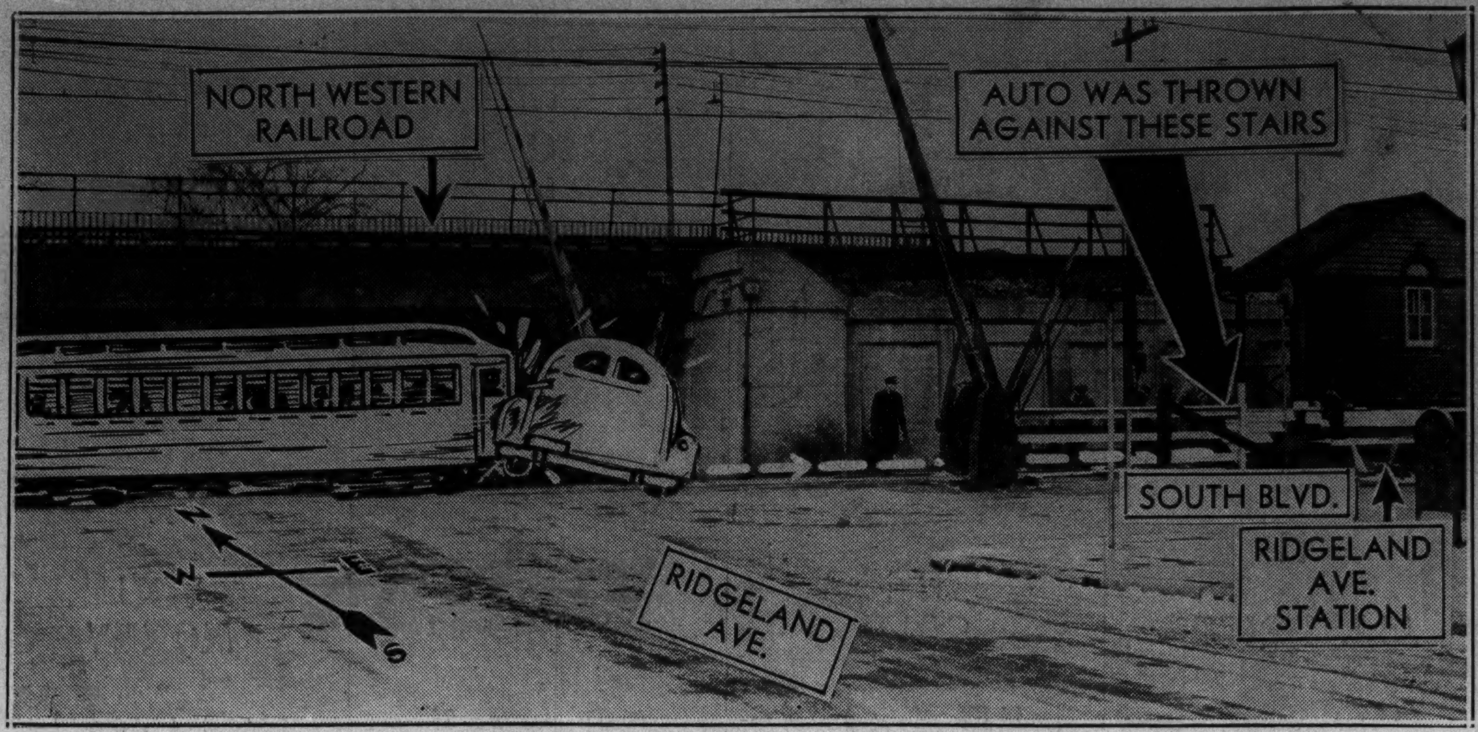
[TRIBUNE Photos.]

Lowered west span of Jackson boulevard bridge and path taken by car driven by Livio Cortesia (in inset), who lost his life. He was going east when east span only was raised for approaching vessel while west span remained lowered.

Raising auto after fatal plunge. The sandboat H. Dahlke, shown in background, had signaled for opening of the bridge. It stopped without going through, standing by underneath the Metropolitan bridge south of Jackson boulevard. (Story on page 9.)



WOMAN KILLED WHEN AUTOMOBILE IS WRECKED BY ELEVATED TRAIN—Scene at Ridgeland avenue crossing in Oak Park where Mrs. Mazie Rogers, 42, of Oak Park, lost her life and companion was injured. Auto was going north on Ridgeland avenue when it skidded on light snow, crashed through crossing gates, and stopped in train's path. The machine was hurled across street onto steps of building. (Story on page 14.) [TRIBUNE Photo.]

DYKSTRA ACCEPTS POST AT WISCONSIN

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

DRIVER—William A. Brett, 60, who was driving taxi when it was forced off road into lake. (Story on page 2.)

TAXI DRIVER ESCAPES DEATH WHEN CAB IS FORCED OFF ROAD AND PLUNGES IN LAKE—Yellow cab and route it took after car with four men forced it off the outer drive at the foot of Foster avenue. It sped over 200 feet of frozen ground, hurdled embankment and broke through ice. The driver was knocked unconscious during the accident but recovered when his machine began to submerge in the water and ice. (Story on page 2.)

DOWAGER QUEEN MARIE IS ILL

Two of the latest photographs of famed Dowager Queen Marie of Rumania, who yesterday was reported seriously ill. There were rumors she had been the victim of poisoning. With her at left are two grandchildren, Stephan and Marie Ileana, whose father is Archduke Anton of Hapsburg. Their mother is Ileana, daughter of Queen Marie. At right is a candid view of Queen Marie as she appeared in conversation with friend at tea in London recently. (Story on page 1.)

Queen Marie (left) as she appeared when a child in England. Her father was Alfred, duke of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, the second son of Queen Victoria. Her mother was Grand Duchess Marie, daughter of czar of Russia. She married Crown Prince Ferdinand of Rumania and is shown (center) in royal sunflower headdress. She was active during the world war. At right she is in uniform for a review of troops.

King Ferdinand and Queen Marie (above) had six children. The eldest son, Carol, is now king of Rumania. His romantic escapades have caused his mother to retire to philanthropic work and a life of obscurity. Ferdinand died in 1927. Carol's son, Michael, became king, ruling under a regency of which the principal member was Marie.

Queen Marie with two of her children, Prince Nicholas and Princess Ileana, as they appeared during reception in Drake hotel here in 1926, when they were on five weeks' tour of the United States.
